Past tense: projected

Past participle: projected

-ing form: projecting

Related forms: projection, projector, projective

Useful constructions/extensions: work on a project, project plan, project manager, project team, project budget, project deadline, project results, project confidence, project an image, project your voice, project costs/sales, projected growth, projection, projector

Part of speech: noun (名詞) / verb (動詞) / related noun and adjective forms (相關名詞及形容詞)

Pronunciation warning

The noun and verb are commonly stressed differently.

Noun

project /'prɒdʒekt/ or /'prɑːdʒekt/

> “I worked on a project.”

Verb

project /prəˈdʒekt/

> “Sales are projected to increase.”

> “The image was projected onto the wall.”

This pronunciation shift is a high-value learner distinction.

Your passage contains:

Here, project is a noun.

Meaning in this passage

Here, project means:

a planned piece of work carried out over a period of time in order to achieve a particular goal, produce a result, solve a problem, or create something.

You had:

- * spent several months working on it;
- * been asked to present it;
- * represented your team;
- * prepared a formal company presentation about it.

So this was clearly a structured workplace project rather than simply a casual task.

繁體中文: * 為達成特定目標而有計劃地進行、通常需要一段時間完成的一項工作／項目*

中文翻譯:

「我的上司叫我代表團隊，介紹一個我已經花了幾個月時間參與的*工作項目／專案*。」

So:

a work project = 為達成特定工作目標而有計劃地進行的一項工作／項目

1. project = planned piece of work (有計劃的工作) — 項目; 專案; 工程

This is the exact meaning used in your passage.

Meaning: A planned piece of work with a specific purpose, usually carried out over a period of time.

Practice 1 — Original

> “I presented a project I had spent months working on.”

「我介紹了一個自己已經做了幾個月的*項目／專案*。」

> “Analysts project that demand will continue to grow.”

「分析師*預測／推算*需求會繼續增長。」 project + future result = 根據現有資料、趨勢或計算推算未來可能出現的數字／情況

This is a major business meaning.

14. be projected to + verb (預計會……) — 預計; 估計

A very common formal pattern.

Practice 28

> “Costs are projected to rise by ten percent.”

「成本預計會上升百分之十。」

Practice 29

> “The population is projected to reach five million.”

「人口預計將達到五百萬。」

be projected to + verb = 根據估算或預測, 預計某件事情將會發生

Common in:

- * business;
- * economics;
- * population studies;
- * research.

15. projected + noun (預計的) — 預測的; 估計的

Here projected functions adjectivally.

Practice 30

> “The projected cost is higher than expected.”

「預計成本比預期高。」

Practice 31

> “The company missed its projected sales figures.”

「公司未能達到預測銷售數字。」 projected = 根據現有資料和假設推算出來的, 而不是已經實際發生的

Common:

- * projected cost
- * projected growth
- * projected revenue
- * projected demand

16. projection = forecast/estimate (預測) — 預測; 推算

A major related noun.

Practice 32

> “The latest sales projections are encouraging.”

「最新的銷售預測令人鼓舞。」

Practice 33

> “Population projections suggest continued growth.”

「人口推算數據顯示人口會繼續增長。」 projection = 根據目前資料、趨勢或模型對未來情況作出的估計／預測

17. project an image/video (投影) — 投射; 投影

Another genuinely different verb meaning.

Meaning: To cause an image, light, or video to appear on a surface.

Practice 34

> “The slides were projected onto the screen.”

「投影片被投射到螢幕上。」

Practice 35

> “The image was projected on the wall.”

「影像被投影到牆上。」

project an image = 利用光線／投影設備把影像投射到另一個表面上

18. projector (投影機) — 投影機

A very useful related noun, especially relevant to presentations.

Practice 36

> “The projector stopped working before the presentation.”

「簡報開始前, *投影機*壞了。」

Practice 37

> “Connect your laptop to the projector.”

「把手提電腦連接到*投影機*。」 projector = 把影像、影片或投影片投射到螢幕／牆面的設備

This is directly relevant to your presentation context.

19. projection = projected image (投影影像) — 投影; 投影畫面

Practice 38

「房間太光, *投影畫面*很難看清楚。」

Practice 39

> “The installation uses video projection.”

「這件裝置藝術使用影片*投影技術*。」 projection = 把光線／影像投射到表面上的行為或所形成的影像

20. *project your voice (把聲音傳得更遠) — 放大聲線; 讓聲音傳出去***

A particularly relevant speaking/presentation meaning.

Meaning: To use your voice so that it carries clearly and strongly to people farther away.

Practice 40

> “You need to project your voice so everyone can hear you.”

「你需要*把聲音放開、讓聲音傳得更遠*, 讓所有人都聽得到。」

Practice 41

> “She learned to project her voice without shouting.”

「她學會了在不大叫的情況下*把聲音清楚傳到整個房間*。」 project your voice = 控制呼吸、音量和共鳴, 使聲音清晰有力地傳到較遠位置

This does not simply mean:

> speak loudly.

Good voice projection involves clarity and support, not merely shouting.

21. *project sound/light (向外投射) — 發射; 投射***

A broader physical sense.

Practice 42

> “The speakers project sound across the room.”

「揚聲器把聲音*傳向／投射到*整個房間。」

Practice 43

> “The lamp projects light onto the ceiling.”

「燈把光線*投射到天花板上*。」 project = 把聲音、光線、影像等向外／向前傳送

22. project confidence/calm/authority(表現出某種形象) — 展現; 流露; 給人.....印象

A very useful figurative meaning for presentations.

Meaning: To make other people perceive you as having a particular quality.

Practice 44

> “Try to project confidence even if you feel nervous.”

「即使你感到緊張, 也要努力*展現出自信*。」

Practice 45

> “The manager projected an image of calm authority.”

「經理*展現出冷靜而有威信的形象*。」

project + quality/image = 透過聲音、姿態、表情或行為讓別人感受到某種形象／特質

This is highly relevant to public speaking.

23. project an image(塑造形象) — 塑造／展現形象

This is figurative, not optical.

Practice 46

> “The company wants to project a modern image.”

「公司希望*塑造現代化的形象*。」

Practice 47

> “She projects an image of professionalism.”

「她*給人專業的形象／展現專業感*。」

project an image = 有意或無意地讓其他人形成某種對自己／組織的印象

Compare:

> project an image onto a screen

= 投影影像 versus:

> project a professional image

= 塑造專業形象

Excellent polysemy contrast.

24. project yourself as + quality/role(把自己表現成.....) — 塑造自己為.....

Practice 48

> “He tries to project himself as a decisive leader.”

「他試圖把自己*塑造成一位果斷的領袖*。」

Practice 49

> “The candidate projected herself as calm and experienced.”

「她把自己*表現成冷靜而有經驗的人*。」

project yourself as = 透過言行、形象或表達方式讓別人把你視為某種人／角色

25. project power/influence(向外施展力量／影響力) — 投射; 展現; 施加

A common politics/business/international-relations use.

Practice 50

> “The organization wants to project greater influence internationally.”

「該機構希望在國際上展現／擴大更大的影響力。」

Practice 51

> “The country has the ability to project power beyond its borders.”

「該國有能力在國境以外投射／施展力量。」

project power/influence = 把力量、權威或影響力延伸到較遠地方／更廣範圍

26. project onto someone (心理投射) — 把自己的感受／想法投射到別人身上

An established psychological meaning.

Meaning: To unconsciously attribute your own feelings, motives, or qualities to another person.

Practice 52

> “He may be projecting his own anxiety onto the team.”

「他可能把自己的焦慮投射到團隊身上。」

Practice 53

> “Don’t project your fears onto other people.”

「不要把自己的恐懼投射到其他人身上。」

project your feelings onto someone = 把其實源於自己的情緒、想法或動機歸因於另一個人

This is psychologically specialized but common enough in educated everyday English.

27. projection = psychological projection (心理投射) — 投射作用; 心理投射

Practice 54

> “The accusation may be a form of psychological projection.”

「這項指責可能是一種心理上的投射作用。」

Practice 55

> “Projection” can cause someone to see their own fears in other people.”

「心理投射可能令人把自己的恐懼看成存在於別人身上。」 projection = 把自己的感受、特質或動機無意識地歸因到別人身上的心理過程

28. project from / project outward(突出;伸出) — 突出;伸出

A physical verb sense.

Practice 56

> “A balcony projects from the side of the building.”

「一個露台從大樓側面伸出／突出。」

Practice 57

> “The roof projects outward over the entrance.”

「屋頂在入口上方向外突出。」 project = 某物從表面向外伸出／突出

This is more formal/technical than:

> stick out or:

> extend.

29. projection = something sticking outward(突出部分) — 突出部位

Practice 58

> “The wall has a narrow projection near the entrance.”

「牆身在入口附近有一個狹窄的突出部分。」

Practice 59

> “The architectural projection provides shade.”

「這個建築上的突出部分可以遮陰。」 projection = 從主體表面向外伸出的部分

This is more specialized architectural/technical usage.

30. map projection (地圖投影法) — 地圖投影

An established geographical/mathematical use.

Practice 60

> “Different map projections distort the Earth in different ways.”

「不同的地圖投影法會以不同方式令地球表面產生變形。」

Practice 61

> “The Mercator projection is widely recognized.”

「麥卡托投影法廣為人知。」

map projection = 把地球曲面轉換並表示在平面地圖上的數學方法

This is a domain-specific but well-established sense of projection.

31. projective (投射的／射影的) — 投射的；射影的

A related technical adjective.

Practice 62

> “The psychologist used a projective test.”

「心理學家使用了一項投射測驗。」

Practice 63

> “The course introduces projective geometry.”

「這門課介紹射影幾何。」 projective has specialized meanings in fields such as:

* psychology;

* geometry.

It should be included as a family-extension note rather than treated as an everyday sense of project.

Important distinction: project — noun vs verb pronunciation

This is crucial.

Noun

PRO-ject

> “We completed the project.”

= 我們完成了項目。

Verb

pro-JECT

> “We project sales to increase.”

= 我們預計銷售額會增加。

> “The screen projects an image.”

= 螢幕／設備投射影像。

So the stress shift helps identify grammatical function.

Important distinction: project vs task

These overlap, but scale differs.

task

usually means:

> a particular piece of work that needs to be done.

Often smaller and more specific.

project

usually involves:

- * several tasks;
- * a defined goal;
- * a longer time period;
- * planning;
- * coordination;
- * a final result.

Compare:

> “Checking the slides is a task.”

= 檢查投影片是一項任務。

> “Preparing the new product launch is a project.”

= 籌備新產品推出是一個項目。

So:

task = 一項具體工作

project = 由多項工作組成、較有規劃和時間跨度的項目

Important distinction: project vs assignment

assignment

usually means:

> work officially given to someone to complete.

Especially common in:

- * school;
- * work;
- * journalism.

project

emphasizes:

> a structured piece of work developed over time.

A school project can also be an assignment, but not every assignment is a project.

Important distinction: project vs programme/program

project

often has:

- * a defined goal;
- * a beginning and end;
- * specific deliverables.

programme/program can contain multiple related projects and continue over a longer period.

For example:

> training programme

may include several:

> training projects.

In professional project management, the distinction can be important.

Important distinction: project vs plan

plan

= description/intention of what you intend to do

project

= the actual organized piece of work being carried out

> “We created a plan for the project.”

= 我們為項目制定了計劃。

So:

plan = 做法／安排

project = 要完成的整體工作

Important distinction: project vs present

Especially relevant to your passage.

project — noun

> “I presented a project.”

= 我介紹了一個項目。

present — verb

> “I presented the project.”

= 我介紹／匯報了項目。

The words look somewhat similar but are unrelated in meaning here.

Important distinction: project an image — literal vs figurative

This is one of the best polysemy contrasts.

Literal:

> “The machine projects an image onto the wall.”

= 機器把影像投射到牆上。

Figurative:

> “She projects a confident image.”

= 她展現出自信的形象。

Same verb, but one is physical light projection and the other is social impression.

Important distinction: project confidence vs feel confident feel confident

= internally experience confidence

project confidence

= appear confident to other people

You can:

> feel nervous

while still:

> projecting confidence.

This is highly relevant to public speaking.

Important distinction: project your voice vs shout

shout

= speak very loudly

project your voice

= produce your voice clearly and strongly so it carries across a room

A good presenter should:

> project their voice

without necessarily:

> shouting.

So:

project your voice = 讓聲音有力而清楚地傳到遠處 not simply:

大叫

Important distinction: project = forecast vs predict

These overlap.

predict

is broad:

> say what you think will happen.

project

often implies:

> calculate/estimate a future value based on current data, trends, or assumptions.

Compare:

> “Experts predict rain.”

= 專家預測會下雨。

> “The company projects revenue of $20 million.”

= 公司根據數據推算收入會達二千萬元。

So project is especially common for quantified forecasts.

Important distinction: projection vs prediction* prediction

can be any statement about what will happen.

projection

often results from:

- * data;
- * models;
- * trends;
- * assumptions.

Therefore:

> sales projection

sounds especially natural in business.

Important distinction: projection = forecast vs projection = image

Forecast:

> “The sales projection is optimistic.”

= 銷售預測很樂觀。

Image:

> “The video projection covered the whole wall.”

= 影片投影覆蓋整面牆。

Same noun, completely different concept.

Important distinction: projection = forecast vs psychological projection

Business:

> revenue projection

= 收入預測

Psychology:

> psychological projection

= 心理投射

A learner cannot safely memorize:

> projection = 預測

as the only meaning.

Important distinction: project onto a screen vs project onto a person

Physical:

> “The image was projected onto the screen.”

= 影像投射到螢幕。

Psychological:

> “He projected his anxiety onto his colleagues.”

= 他把自己的焦慮投射到同事身上。

Same spatial pattern:

> project X onto Y

but a completely different semantic domain.

Important distinction: project vs protrude

When meaning “stick outward”:

project

is more formal/technical:

> “The balcony projects from the wall.”

protrude

directly means:

> stick out beyond a surface.

Both can translate as:

> 突出／伸出

but project has many other meanings.

Family-extension sweep

The practical project family is particularly rich because of the noun/verb split:

* project — planned work = 項目／專案

* work on a project = 進行／參與項目

* school project = 專題作業

* construction project = 建設／工程項目

* community/development project = 社區／發展計劃
 * creative project = 創作項目
 * project manager = 項目經理
 * project team = 項目團隊
 * project plan = 項目計劃
 * project deadline = 項目期限
 * project budget = 項目預算
 * project sales/costs/growth = 預測／推算
 * be projected to = 預計會.....
 * projected cost/growth = 預計成本／增長
 * projection — forecast = 預測／推算
 * project an image = 投射影像
 * projector = 投影機
 * projection — image = 投影／投影畫面
 * project your voice = 讓聲音清晰有力地傳向遠處
 * project sound/light = 向外傳送聲音／光線
 * project confidence/authority = 展現自信／權威
 * project an image — figurative = 塑造／展現形象
 * project yourself as = 把自己塑造成.....
 * project power/influence = 向外施展／延伸力量和影響
 * project feelings onto someone = 心理上把自己的感受投射到別人身上
 * projection — psychology = 心理投射
 * project outward = 向外突出
 * projection — physical protrusion = 突出部分
 * map projection = 地圖投影法
 * projective = 投射的／射影的

The main semantic branches are:

- > planned work
- > forecast into the future
- > send/project outward physically
- > display an image
- > send voice/sound outward
- > create an outward impression
- > psychologically attribute one's own feelings to others

For your original passage

The exact meaning is:

project = 為達成特定工作目標而經過規劃、需要一段時間完成的一項工作／專案

Therefore:

> a project I had spent months working on = 「一個我已經花了幾個月時間參與和推進的工作項目」

The phrase strongly suggests that the work was:

- * planned;
- * substantial enough to take months;
- * carried out toward a particular goal;
- * associated with your team;
- * important enough to be formally presented at a company event.

So the key mapping in your passage is:

project = 有明確目標、需要一段時間規劃和完成的工作項目

The most important learner contrasts are:

> a work project

> = 工作項目／專案

> a school project

> = 專題作業

> a construction project

> = 建設工程

> project sales for next year

> = 預測明年銷售額

> projected growth

> = 預計增長

> project an image onto a screen

> = 把影像投射到螢幕上

> project your voice

> = 讓聲音清晰有力地傳出去 > project confidence

> = 展現自信

> project a professional image

> = 塑造專業形象

> project your fears onto someone

> = 把自己的恐懼心理投射到別人身上

> projection

> = 可指預測、投影、心理投射或其他技術性的「投射／表示」

> projector

> = 投影機

So project is a particularly valuable polysemy item because the same spelling moves from:

a planned piece of work → estimating the future → physically projecting something outward → socially projecting an image → psychologically projecting feelings onto others, with the noun/verb stress difference helping learners distinguish the major grammatical branches.
