

Word family: present / presents / presented / presenting / presentation / presenter / presentable / presently

Base word: present

Third-person singular: presents

Past tense: presented

Past participle: presented

 -ing form: presenting

Related forms: presentation, presenter, presentable, presently

Useful constructions/extensions: present a project/report/idea, present information/evidence, present something to someone, present someone with something, present yourself, present a problem/challenge, be present, the present, at present, present-day, present circumstances, present company, presentation, presenter, presently

Part of speech: verb (動詞) / adjective (形容詞) / noun (名詞)

Pronunciation warning:

Verb

present /prɪ'zent/

> “I had to present a project.”

Noun / adjective

present /'prezənt/

> “I received a present.”

> “Everyone was present.”

The pronunciation shift is important enough that present should be treated as a high-value learner word.

Your passage contains:

> “I did it because my supervisor asked me to represent the team and present a project I had spent months working on.”

Meaning in this passage

Here, present is a verb.

It means:

to formally explain, show, or communicate information about a project to an audience.

You were not merely showing the physical project.

You were explaining its content, progress, results, or significance to your colleagues and senior managers in a structured presentation.

繁體中文: 向觀眾正式介紹、講解或報告某個項目及其相關內容

中文翻譯:

「我的上司叫我代表團隊, 正式介紹／匯報一個我已經做了幾個月的項目。」

So:

present a project = 向聽眾正式介紹、講解或匯報某個項目

This is closely related to:

> give a presentation

but the grammatical focus is different:

* give a presentation → 作一場簡報

* present a project → 正式介紹／講解那個項目本身

1. present + project/report/idea/topic (項目／報告／構思／主題) — 介紹; 匯報; 講解

This is the exact sense used in your passage.

Meaning: To formally explain or communicate information about something to an audience.

Practice 1 — Original

「我的上司叫我代表團隊, 正式介紹／匯報一個我已經做了幾個月的項目。」

Practice 2

> “She presented the project to senior management.”

「她向高層管理人員介紹／匯報了這個項目。」

Practice 3

> “Each team will present its ideas at the end of the workshop.”

「每個團隊都會在工作坊結束時介紹自己的構思。」 present something = 有組織地向聽眾介紹、解釋或匯報某個主題、項目或構思

Common:

- * present a project
- * present a report
- * present an idea
- * present a proposal
- * present your findings
- * present a case

2. present information/data/results/findings (資料／數據／結果) — 呈現; 展示; 提供

Here the emphasis is on showing information in a clear or organized form, not necessarily speaking.

Practice 4

> “The report presents the results in a clear table.”

「報告以清晰的表格呈現研究結果。」

> “The chart presents the data visually.”

「這張圖表以視覺方式呈現數據。」

present information/data/results = 以有組織、清楚或特定方式把資料展示給讀者／觀眾

This can occur in:

- * reports;
- * charts;

- * articles;
- * websites;
- * presentations.

3. present evidence/facts/arguments (證據／事實／論點) — 提出; 提交

A common academic, legal, and professional sense.

Practice 6

> “The researcher presented evidence supporting the theory.”

「研究人員提出了支持該理論的證據。」

Practice 7

> “Both sides were allowed to present their arguments.”

「雙方都獲准提出自己的論點。」

present evidence/an argument = 正式提出資料、證據或論點, 讓他人考慮或判斷

Common in:

- * academic writing;
- * debates;
- * law;
- * business proposals.

4. present something to someone (向某人正式提供／展示) — 向……呈交; 展示

The recipient can be explicitly stated.

Practice 8

> “The team presented its proposal to the board.”

「團隊向董事會正式提交／介紹了提案。」

Practice 9

> “She presented the findings to her colleagues.”

「她向同事匯報了研究結果。」

present something to someone = 正式把資料、方案、結果等展示或提交給某個人／群體

5. present + award/prize/certificate (獎項／獎品／證書) — 頒發; 授予

This is a genuinely different but very common sense.

Meaning: To formally give an award, prize, certificate, or similar item to someone.

Practice 10

> “The manager presented the award to the winning team.”

「經理向得獎團隊頒發了獎項。」

Practice 11

> “She was presented with a certificate after the course.”

「課程結束後，她獲頒一張證書。」 present an award/prize = 在正式場合把獎項、證書或禮物頒授給某人

6. present someone with something (正式贈予某人某物) — 向某人頒發／贈送

This reverses the grammatical pattern.

Practice 12

> “The company presented her with an award.”

「公司向她頒發了一個獎項。」

Practice 13

> “The retiring employee was presented with a gift.”

「那位退休員工獲贈一份禮物。」

Pattern:

> present someone with something

= 正式把某物贈予／頒給某人

Compare:

> present the award to her

and:

> present her with the award

Both describe the same event from different grammatical perspectives.

7. present a programme/show/event(主持／呈現節目) — 主持; 介紹

Especially common in British English.

Practice 14

> “She presents a weekly radio programme.”

「她每星期主持一個電台節目。」

Practice 15

> “The awards ceremony was presented by a well-known actor.”

「頒獎典禮由一位知名演員主持。」

present a programme/show = 以主持人的身份介紹節目內容、嘉賓或各個環節

Related noun:

> presenter

= 主持人／簡報者

8. present yourself (展示自己／出現) — 表現自己；以某種形象示人

This construction has an important figurative meaning.

Practice 16

> “You should present yourself professionally during the interview.”

「面試時，你應該以專業的形象示人。」

Practice 17

> “She presented herself as a confident and experienced manager.”

「她把自己塑造成／表現成一位自信而有經驗的經理。」 present yourself = 透過外表、言行或表達方式，讓別人形成某種對你的印象

Common:

> present yourself as + identity/quality

= 把自己表現／描述成.....

9. present something as something (把某事描述成.....) — 把.....呈現／描述為.....

Here present concerns framing or portrayal.

Practice 18

> “The company presented the change as an improvement.”

「公司把這項改變描述成一項改善。」

Practice 19

> “The article presents the issue as a simple choice.”

「文章把這個問題呈現成一個簡單的二選一問題。」 present A as B = 以某種方式描述、包裝或呈現 A, 使別人把它理解為 B

This can be neutral or imply deliberate framing.

10. present a problem/challenge/difficulty (造成／帶來問題) — 構成;帶來

A very common formal use.

Practice 20

> “The tight deadline presents a challenge for the team.”

「緊迫的限期對團隊*構成一項挑戰*。」

Practice 21

> “The new regulations present serious difficulties for small businesses.”

「新規例對小型企業*帶來嚴重困難*。」 present a problem/challenge = 某種情況造成需要處理的困難、風險或挑戰

Notice:

> present a challenge

here does not mean “talk about a challenge.”

It means:

constitute / create a challenge

= 構成挑戰

This is excellent polysemy material.

11. present an opportunity/possibility (帶來機會／可能) — 提供;帶來

The same formal “create/offer” sense can be positive.

Practice 22

> “The new market presents an opportunity for growth.”

「這個新市場帶來了增長機會。」

Practice 23

> “Remote work presents new possibilities for international teams.”

「遙距工作為國際團隊帶來新的可能性。」 present an opportunity/possibility = 某種情況使新的機會或可能性出現

12. present symptoms/signs (醫療症狀) — 出現; 表現出

An established medical meaning learners may encounter.

Practice 24

> “The patient presented with chest pain.”

「病人出現胸痛症狀／因胸痛求診。」

Practice 25

> “The condition may present differently in children.”

「這種疾病在兒童身上可能會呈現不同症狀／表現方式不同。」

Medical patterns:

> present with + symptom

= 出現某種症狀／因某症狀求診

> present as + condition

= 以某種病徵或形式表現

This is technical, but common enough in healthcare-related English to flag.

13. present = existing or happening now(目前的;現在的) — 現在的;目前的

Now present is an adjective, pronounced:

/'prezənt/

Practice 26

> “The present situation is difficult.”

「目前的情況很困難。」

Practice 27

> “Under the present system, employees work from home twice a week.”

「按照目前的制度，員工每星期在家工作兩天。」 present + noun = 屬於目前這個時間、現在正在存在或適用的

Common:

- * present situation
- * present circumstances
- * present system
- * present government
- * present level
- * present position

14. present-day + noun(現今的) — 現今的;現代的

A useful compound.

Practice 28

> “Present-day technology makes remote presentations much easier.”

「現今的科技令遙距簡報容易得多。」

Practice 29

> “The area looks very different from its present-day form.”

「那個地區以前的樣貌跟它現今的形態非常不同。」 present-day = 屬於現今這個時代的; 現代的

It often contrasts the modern situation with the past.

15. be present = be physically at a place/event (在場) — 出席; 在場

Another major adjective meaning.

Practice 30

> “Several senior managers were present at the event.”

「幾位高層經理都有出席／在場。」

Practice 31

> “Everyone must be present at the meeting.”

「所有人都必須出席會議。」

be present = 本人實際在某個地方、活動或場合中

This is completely different from:

> present = current

Compare:

> the present situation

= 目前情況 versus:

> everyone was present

= 所有人都在場

16. present = existing somewhere (存在於某處) — 存在; 含有

A broader extension of “being there.”

Practice 32

> “Small amounts of the chemical are present in the water.”

「水中含有／存在少量這種化學物質。」

Practice 33

> “The virus may be present without causing symptoms.”

「病毒可能已經存在於體內，但沒有引起症狀。」 be present = 某種物質、特徵、因素或現象存在於特定地方／系統中

Especially common in:

- * science;
- * medicine;
- * technical writing.

17. the present = the current time (現在) — 現在; 目前

Here present is a noun.

Practice 34

> “We need to focus on the present rather than worry about the future.”

「我們需要專注於現在，而不是擔心未來。」

Practice 35

> “The story moves between the past and the present.”

「故事在過去與現在之間來回切換。」

the present = 現在這個時間／當前時期

Compare:

* the past = 過去

* the present = 現在

* the future = 未來

18. at present = currently / now (目前) — 目前; 現時

A very common fixed expression.

Practice 36

> “The position is not available at present.”

「這個職位目前暫時沒有空缺。」

Practice 37

> “At present, we have no plans to change the system.”

「目前我們沒有計劃改變這個制度。」 at present = 在現在這段時間; 目前

Register:

at present is neutral to slightly formal.

In everyday conversation:

> right now

or:

> currently

may also be used depending on context.

19. for the present = for now (暫時) — 暫時; 目前先.....

A somewhat more formal expression.

Practice 38

> “We will continue with the current arrangement for the present.”

「我們暫時會繼續採用目前的安排。」

Practice 39

> “The issue can be left unresolved for the present.”

「這個問題目前暫時可以先不處理。」

for the present = 在目前這一段時間內; 日後可能改變

20. a present = gift (禮物) — 禮物; 贈品

This is a completely different noun meaning.

Pronunciation:

/'prezənt/

Practice 40

> “My colleagues gave me a present after the event.”

「同事在活動後送了我一份禮物。」

Practice 41

> “She bought him a birthday present.”

「她買了一份生日禮物給他。」

a present = 為表達祝賀、感謝、友情等而送給別人的物品

Synonym:

> gift

21. present company (在場的人) — 在座各位; 目前在場的人

A useful fixed expression.

Practice 42

> “Present company excepted, I usually dislike formal speeches.”

「在座各位除外, 我通常不太喜歡正式演講。」

Practice 43

> “I mean no criticism of present company.”

「我並不是在批評目前在場的各位。」 present company = 當時與說話者同處一個場合的人

Most famous expression:

> present company excepted

= 在座各位除外

Often humorous or polite.

22. all present and correct (全部到齊／齊全) — 全部到齊; 一切齊備

A British fixed expression.

Practice 44

> “Everyone was present and correct before the meeting started.”

「會議開始前, 所有人都到齊了。」

Practice 45

> “The documents are all present and correct.”

「所有文件都齊全無誤。」

present and correct = 應該在場／存在的人或物全部齊全, 而且沒有明顯問題

More common in British English.

23. presentation = act/event of formally explaining something (簡報／發表) — 簡報; 匯報

This is the most important related noun for your passage.

Practice 46

> “I spent several evenings preparing my presentation.”

「我花了幾個晚上準備我的簡報。」

Practice 47

> “Her presentation lasted twenty minutes.”

「她的簡報持續了二十分鐘。」

presentation = 向觀眾正式介紹、講解或匯報資料的活動／內容

Your passage uses both:

> present a project

and:

> give a presentation

This is a very useful family relationship.

24. presentation = way something is displayed/arranged (呈現方式) — 呈現; 展示方式

A separate important noun sense.

Practice 48

> “The food tasted good, but the presentation could be improved.”

「食物味道很好, 但*擺盤／呈現方式*還可以改善。」

Practice 49

> “Clear visual presentation makes the report easier to read.”

「清晰的視覺*呈現方式*令報告更容易閱讀。」 presentation = 某樣東西被展示、安排或呈現給別人看的方式

This occurs in:

- * food;
- * design;
- * documents;
- * products;
- * visual communication.

25. presentation = formal giving of an award/gift (頒贈儀式) — 頒發; 頒獎儀式

Practice 50

> “The prize presentation took place after dinner.”

「*頒獎儀式*在晚餐後舉行。」

Practice 51

> “There will be a certificate presentation at the end of the course.”

「課程結束時會舉行*證書頒發儀式*。」 presentation = 正式向某人頒授獎項、證書或禮物的行為／儀式

26. presenter = person who gives a presentation (簡報者／演講者) — 簡報者；報告人

Practice 52

> “Each presenter has ten minutes to speak.”

「每位簡報者／報告人有十分鐘發言。」

Practice 53

> “The presenter answered questions at the end.”

「簡報者最後回答了問題。」

presenter = 正式向觀眾講解或匯報資料的人

27. presenter = TV/radio host (節目主持人) — 主持人

Especially common in British English.

Practice 54

> “She works as a television presenter.”

「她是一名電視節目主持人。」

Practice 55

> “The radio presenter interviewed two guests.”

「電台主持人訪問了兩位嘉賓。」

presenter = 負責主持電視、電台或其他節目的人

American English often prefers:

> host

or in news:

> anchor

depending on context.

28. presentable = acceptable in appearance (外表得體的) — 像樣的; 見得人的; 整潔得體的

A useful derivative.

Practice 56

> “I wanted to look presentable before going on stage.”

「我上台前想讓自己看起來整潔得體。」

Practice 57

> “The room needs cleaning before it is presentable.”

「房間需要先清潔, 才會變得像樣、適合讓人看。」 presentable = 外觀整潔、得體或達到可以正式見人／展示的程度

It does not mean “able to present a speech.”

29. presentable = good enough to be shown/submitted (可展示／可提交的) — 達到可展示水平的

The same idea extends beyond personal appearance.

Practice 58

> “The first draft is not yet presentable.”

「第一稿目前還未達到可以正式展示／提交的水平。」

Practice 59

> “We need to make the slides more presentable.”

「我們需要把投影片整理得更像樣、更適合正式展示。」 presentable = 品質或外觀達到可以向別人正式展示的程度

30. presently = currently / now (目前) — 目前; 現在

A useful adverb, especially in American English.

Practice 60

> “She is presently working on another project.”

「她目前正在做另一個項目。」

Practice 61

> “The service is presently unavailable.”

「該服務目前暫時無法使用。」

presently = at the present time; currently = 目前／現時

31. presently = soon / before long (不久後) — 很快; 不久之後

This is an important usage distinction.

Practice 62

> “The manager will see you presently.”

「經理很快／不久後會見你。」

Practice 63

> “She returned presently with the documents.”

「她不久後拿著文件回來了。」

presently = 不久之後; 很快

This meaning is especially associated with British or somewhat formal/traditional usage.

Therefore, presently can mean either:

1. currently = 目前;
2. soon = 不久後。

Context matters.

Important distinction: present — verb vs noun/adjective pronunciation

This is essential.

Verb

> present /pri'zent/

stress on the second syllable

Examples:

> present a project

> present evidence

> present an award

Noun/adjective

stress on the first syllable

Examples:

> a birthday present

> the present situation

> everyone is present

The spelling is identical, but pronunciation and grammatical function change.

Important distinction: present a project vs give a presentation

This distinction is especially relevant to your passage.

present a project

focuses on the thing being explained:

> “I presented the project.”

「我介紹／匯報了那個項目。」

give a presentation

focuses on the presentation event/activity:

> “I gave a presentation about the project.”

「我就那個項目作了一場簡報。」

So:

present + content

but:

give + presentation

Your passage uses both ideas naturally.

Important distinction: present vs introduce

These can overlap but are not identical.

introduce

often means:

- * tell people who someone is;
- * mention something for the first time;
- * bring a new idea/product into use.

> “Let me introduce our new manager.”

「讓我介紹我們的新經理。」 present

usually suggests more developed or formal communication.

> “She presented the project to management.”

「她向管理層正式匯報了項目。」

So:

introduce = 初步介紹／讓人首次認識

present = 較正式、有組織地展示／講解

Important distinction: present vs show show is very broad:

> “Let me show you the chart.”

「讓我給你看看圖表。」

present

often sounds more formal and organized:

> “She presented the results to the board.”

「她向董事會正式呈報結果。」 show = 讓人看見／展示

present = 有組織、正式地把資料、內容或物件展示給別人

Important distinction: present evidence vs provide evidence

present evidence

focuses on putting evidence before an audience, court, committee, etc. for consideration.

> “The lawyer presented evidence.”

「律師向法庭提出證據。」

provide evidence focuses on supplying evidence.

> “The document provides evidence that the claim is false.”

「文件提供證據證明該說法不實。」

So:

present = 正式提出給人審視

provide = 提供／供應

Important distinction: present a challenge vs present a presentation

These look deceptively similar.

present a project

= formally explain the project

present a challenge

often means:

= constitute/create a challenge

> “The deadline presents a challenge.”

「限期構成挑戰。」

It normally does not mean:

> “介紹一個挑戰”

unless context specifically supports that reading.

Collocation determines meaning.

Important distinction: present = current vs present = physically there

Both are adjective uses but conceptually different.

Current:

> “the present situation”

= 目前的情況

Physically there:

> “She was present at the meeting.”

= 她有出席／在場

A learner who knows only 「現在的」 may misunderstand:

> “All managers were present.”

It does not mean:

>  所有「現在的」經理

It means:

>  所有經理都在場。

Important distinction: the present vs a present

The article completely changes the meaning.

the present

= the current time

> “Focus on the present.”

「專注於現在。」

a present

= a gift

> “She bought me a present.”

「她買了一份禮物給我。」

Excellent MCQ contrast.

Important distinction: present vs current

When both mean 「目前的」:

current

is extremely common for something operating or existing now:

> current policy

> current situation

> current price

present

can mean the same:

> present circumstances

> present situation

but may sound somewhat more formal in some contexts.

However, present has many meanings current does not:

- * be present = 在場
- * a present = 禮物
- * present a report = 匯報

So the two words are not generally interchangeable.

Important distinction: presently = currently vs presently = soon

This deserves special attention.

presently = currently

> “She is presently working overseas.”

= 她目前在海外工作。

presently = soon

> “I’ll speak to you presently.”

= 我很快／待會兒跟你談。

Because the two meanings refer to different times, learners should rely heavily on context.

Important distinction: presentation vs present* present — verb

> “I will present the project.”

= 我會介紹／匯報項目。

presentation — noun

> “I will give a presentation about the project.”

= 我會就項目作簡報。

So:

present = 動作

presentation = 簡報／展示這項活動或其內容

Family-extension sweep

The practical present family is especially rich because it combines:

1. formal communication;
2. formal giving;
3. portrayal/framing;
4. creation of situations;
5. current time;
6. physical presence;
7. gift meaning;
8. useful derivatives.

Important items include:

- * present a project/report/idea = 正式介紹／匯報
- * present information/data/results = 呈現資料／結果
- * present evidence/arguments = 提出證據／論點
- * present something to someone = 正式提交／展示
- * present an award/prize = 頒發獎項
- * present someone with something = 向某人頒發／贈送
- * present a programme = 主持節目
- * present yourself = 以某種形象示人
- * present A as B = 把 A 描述／呈現成 B
- * present a problem/challenge = 構成問題／挑戰
- * present an opportunity = 帶來機會
- * present with symptoms = 出現某種症狀
- * present + noun = current = 目前的
- * present-day = 現今的
- * be present = attendance = 在場／出席
- * be present = exist = 存在於某處
- * the present = 現在
- * at present = 目前
- * for the present = 暫時
- * a present = 禮物

* present company = 在場人士 * present and correct = 全部到齊／齊備 * presentation — talk/report = 簡報 * presentation — display/appearance = 呈現方式 * presentation — award ceremony = 頒發儀式
 * presenter — speaker = 簡報者
 * presenter — host = 主持人
 * presentable — appearance = 整潔得體的
 * presentable — display quality = 達到可正式展示水平的
 * presently — currently = 目前
 * presently — soon = 不久後

The family therefore needs careful grouping rather than treating every collocation as a separate unrelated sense.

For your original passage

The exact meaning is:

present = 正式、有組織地向觀眾介紹、講解或匯報某個項目及其相關資料

Therefore:

> present a project

= 「向觀眾正式介紹／匯報一個項目」

In your context, this likely includes explaining things such as:

- * what the project was;
- * what work had been done;
- * its progress or results;
- * important findings or decisions;
- * why the project mattered.

So the natural translation is:

= 「我的上司叫我代表團隊, 正式介紹／匯報一個我已經做了好幾個月的項目。」

The most important learner contrast is that the same spelling can represent completely different concepts:

> present a project /prɪˈzɛnt/

> = 正式介紹／匯報一個項目

> the present situation /ˈprezənt/

> = 目前的情況

> be present at the meeting /'prezənt/

> = 出席會議／在場

> a birthday present /'prezənt/

> = 生日禮物

That combination of part-of-speech change + pronunciation change + major meaning change makes present an especially strong polysemy target.
