Passage recap

> “...every book represents a different version of her life based on the choices she could have made.”

Here:

be based on = have something as the underlying foundation, reason, or determining source

Best Traditional Chinese:

* 根據

* 以.....為基礎

* 建立在.....之上

Natural contextual translation:

那裡的每一本書都代表她人生中的另一種可能性，也就是根據她本來可能作出的不同選擇而形成的人生版本。 **

Passage MCQ-ready meaning

base something on something / be based on something

= to use something as the foundation, source, evidence, or main determining factor

以.....為基礎；根據.....

The key distinction is:

> base

> → concrete/structural 底部、底座、基地

but:

> base a decision on evidence

> → 以證據作為決定的依據

> a story based on real events

> → 根據真實事件創作的故事

So in the passage, base is fully figurative: the possible lives are built conceptually on different choices, just as a physical structure rests on a base.
