

Absolutely — collection is a strong polysemy target because your passage uses it here:

> “I later saw it again in documentaries and online museum collections...”

Here collection means a group of artworks or objects gathered and held by a museum, but the word also covers personal collections, groups of texts/data, acts of collecting, money collection, waste collection, fashion collections, and related forms such as collect / collector / collectible.

Word family: collect / collection / collector / collectible

Base verb: collect

Noun: collection

Person: collector

Adjective/noun: collectible

Useful compounds: art collection, data collection, waste collection, tax collection, debt collection, fashion collection

Part of speech: noun (名詞) / verb-family forms (動詞詞族)

Your sentence:

> “...in documentaries and online museum collections...”

Meaning in your passage: collection = group of artworks held by a museum — 館藏 ; 收藏品集合

Here collection means:

> a group of artworks or culturally valuable objects gathered, owned, preserved, and displayed by a museum.

繁體中文 :

博物館所收藏、保存和展示的一組藝術品 / 文物 ; 館藏

Natural translation:

> “online museum collections”

「網上博物館館藏 / 藝術品收藏」

So here:

> collection = 博物館保存的一整批收藏品 , 而不是「收集這個動作」

collectible — noun = 被人收藏、通常具有稀有性 / 紀念 / 市場價值的物品

Important distinction: collection vs collect

collect

verb:

> “Museums collect art.”

= 博物館收藏藝術品。

collection

noun:

> “The museum has a large collection.”

= 博物館有大量館藏。

So:

> collect = 收集 / 收藏的動作

> collection = 收藏品集合或收集過程

Important distinction: collection — objects vs process

This is one of the biggest polysemy points.

Result/group

> “a collection of paintings”

= 一批畫作收藏

Process

> “data collection”

= 資料收集

Same noun, but:

* collection as result = 收集到的東西

* collection as process = 收集這個行為

Important distinction: collection vs selection

You have already curated related selection concepts elsewhere.

collection

things gathered/held together.

selection

things chosen from a larger set.

> museum collection

> = 博物館館藏

> selection of paintings

> = 精選的一批畫作

A collection may be large and comprehensive; a selection is typically chosen.

Important distinction: collection vs series

You have series mapped already.

collection

a group gathered together; order is not essential.

series

items connected in sequence or belonging to a continuing set.

> a collection of Monet paintings

> = 一批 Monet 畫作

> Monet's Water Lilies series

> = Monet 《睡蓮》系列

Very important for this passage.

Important distinction: collection vs archive

collection

broad group of objects/materials.

archive

usually records/documents preserved because of historical, administrative, or research value.

> art collection

> = 藝術收藏

> historical archive

> = 歷史檔案

They can overlap institutionally but are not identical.

Important distinction: collection vs gallery

collection

the artworks/items themselves.

gallery

the place/institution/room where art is displayed.

> museum collection

> = 館藏

> art gallery

> = 畫廊 / 美術館

So:

> a gallery contains/displays a collection.

Important distinction: collection vs exhibition

collection

group of owned/held items.

exhibition

temporary or organized display of selected works.

A museum may use works from its collection in an exhibition.

So:

> collection = 館藏

> exhibition = 展覽

Important distinction: collection vs compilation

collection

broad:

books, artworks, objects, stories, photos, data, etc.

compilation emphasizes assembling material from different sources into one work/set.

> collection of poems

> = 詩集

> compilation album

> = 精選合輯 / 彙編專輯

Overlap exists, but compilation stresses assembling.

Important distinction: collector vs curator

collector

owns/gathers items.

curator

professionally selects, researches, interprets, and manages museum/gallery collections.

A person may be both, but the roles differ.

> collector = 收藏家

> curator = 策展人 / 館藏管理專業人員

Important distinction: collector vs collectible

collector

person.

collectible

item/adjective.

> art collector

> = 藝術收藏家

> collectible poster

> = 有收藏價值的海報

> a collectible

> = 收藏品

Important distinction: collect vs gather

collect

often intentional, systematic, or involves keeping/receiving.

gather broader:

bring things/people together, often temporarily.

> collect stamps

> = 收藏郵票

> gather people in a room

> = 把人聚集在房內

And:

> clouds gather

is natural, while:

> clouds collect

has a different nuance.

Important distinction: collect vs pick up

collect

especially BrE:

go and obtain someone/something.

pick up

very common conversationally, especially AmE.

> collect a parcel

> pick up a parcel

Both:

「領取包裹」

But collect sounds slightly more formal in many contexts.

Important distinction: collect = active vs collect = accumulate

Active:

> “She collected rainwater.”

= 她收集雨水。

Intransitive:

> “Rainwater collected in the tray.”

= 雨水在托盤裡積聚。

Same verb, but agency changes completely.

Important distinction: collection — museum vs fashion

Museum:

> “the museum’s collection”

= 館藏

Fashion:

> “the spring collection”

= 春季時裝系列

Same noun, different domain concept.

Excellent MCQ material.

Family-extension sweep
