Important distinction 1: control vs manage

control

emphasizes power to direct, limit, or regulate.

manage

emphasizes handling something successfully.

> control costs

控制成本

> manage a project

管理項目

In your passage:

> everything under control

means not just “managed,” but stable and not going wrong.

Important distinction 2: control vs handle

handle

deal with a situation/problem.

keep it within limits or under authority.

> handle a complaint

處理投訴

> control a crowd

控制人群

Important distinction 3: control vs order

Directly relevant to your passage.

order

organized arrangement / sequence.

control

ability to manage the whole situation.

So:

> checking the order of speakers

> = 確認次序

> keeping everything under control

> = 確保整體局面受控

Important distinction 4: under control vs in control

under control

describes the situation.

> The situation is under control.

情況受控。

in control

describes the person or authority managing it.

> She is in control.

她掌控着局面。

This distinction is extremely useful.

Important distinction 5: out of control vs lose control

out of control

state:

> The fire is out of control.

火勢失控。

lose control

change/event:

> We lost control of the fire.

我們無法再控制火勢。

Important distinction 6: control yourself vs calm down

control yourself

restrain your behaviour/emotions.

calm down

become less emotionally excited.

You can remain angry internally while still controlling yourself.

Important distinction 7: controlled vs controlling

Very important.

controlled

restrained/regulated.

> a controlled voice

克制的語氣

controlling

tries to dominate others.

> a controlling partner

控制欲強的伴侶

Almost opposite perspectives.

Important distinction 8: controlled vs calm

calm

naturally or currently not agitated.

controlled

may suggest strong emotion exists but is deliberately restrained.

> a calm response

平靜回應

> a controlled response

克制住情緒的回應

Important distinction 9: uncontrolled vs uncontrollable

uncontrolled

not being controlled.

uncontrollable

cannot be controlled.

> uncontrolled spending

沒有人有效限制的開支

> uncontrollable laughter

想停也停不了的笑

This distinction is excellent for MCQs.

Important distinction 10: remote control noun vs remote control process

Device

> Where is the remote control?

遙控器在哪？

Method

> operated by remote control

透過遙控操作

Same phrase, different grammatical role.

Important distinction 11: control panel vs controller control panel

surface/interface containing controls.

controller

device/person that actually regulates something.

A system can have both.

Important distinction 12: quality control vs quality assurance

quality control

focuses especially on checking products/results against standards.

quality assurance broader system/process aimed at preventing quality problems.

They overlap, but are not identical.

Important distinction 13: controlled experiment vs control group

controlled experiment

an experiment where conditions are deliberately managed.

control group

comparison group not receiving the experimental treatment or receiving standard/placebo conditions, depending on design.

The word control functions differently in each phrase.

36. control group — 對照組

Practice 1

> The researchers compared the treatment group with a control group.

研究人員把治療組與對照組比較。

Practice 2

> The control group did not receive the experimental treatment.

對照組沒有接受實驗性處理。

MCQ-ready definition:

control group = 實驗中用作比較基準的一組

Important distinction 14: birth control is lexicalized

It does not mean “control a baby's behavior.”

It means:

避孕 / 生育控制

So it should be learned as a fixed compound.

Important distinction 15: control = power vs controller = finance role

A financial controller is not someone controlling people.

It is a specialized accounting/finance job title.

Family-extension note

Control has several strong modern branches:

1. management / command

* have control

* take control

* in control

2. state of being managed

- * under control
- * out of control
