

Absolutely — happy is a strong target because your passage uses it in the straightforward emotional sense:

> “Whenever her tomatoes or lemons are ready, she gives some to neighbours and relatives, and that makes her genuinely happy.”

Here happy means feeling pleasure, satisfaction, or joy, but the word also extends to being pleased with a result, willing to do something, fortunate/lucky circumstances, suitable phrasing, and several important fixed expressions.

Word family: happy / happier / happiest / happily / happiness / unhappy / unhappily / unhappiness

Base word: happy

Comparative: happier

Superlative: happiest

Adverb: happily

Noun: happiness

Opposite: unhappy

Part of speech: adjective (形容詞)

Your sentence:

> “...and that makes her genuinely happy.”

Meaning in your passage: happy = feeling pleasure / joy — 開心的；快樂的；感到幸福的

Here happy means:

> feeling genuine pleasure and emotional satisfaction because sharing what she grows with others makes her feel good.

繁體中文：

因為某件事情帶來愉悅、滿足或幸福感，而感到開心、快樂

Natural translation:

> “That makes her genuinely happy.”

「那真的會讓她感到很開心 / 很快樂。」

So here:

> happy = 因某件事而感到愉快和滿足

1. happy = feeling pleasure / joy (情緒) — 開心的 ; 快樂的

The core everyday meaning.

Practice 1 — Original

> “That makes her genuinely happy.”

「那真的會讓她感到很開心。」

Practice 2

> “She looked very happy after hearing the news.”

「那並不是一個很恰當的用字選擇。」

Practice 19

> “The phrase was a happy expression of the idea.”

「那個短語把這個想法表達得很貼切。」

happy — formal = 選擇、措辭或安排非常合適、貼切

This is not common conversationally, but worth knowing.

10. happy = willing / content to accept a situation — 願意接受的；覺得可以的

Practice 20

> “I’m happy with either option.”

「兩個選擇我都可以接受 / 都沒問題。」

Practice 21

> “We’re happy to leave the decision to you.”

「我們願意把決定交給你。」

happy = 對某項安排沒有異議，願意接受

This overlaps with “satisfied” and “willing”, but is a common functional use.

11. happily = in a happy way — 開心地；快樂地

Practice 22

> “The children played happily in the garden.”

「孩子們在花園裡開心地玩耍。」

19. happy-go-lucky = cheerful and unworried — 樂天隨和的；無憂無慮的

A useful lexicalized adjective.

Practice 38

> “He has a happy-go-lucky personality.”

「他性格很樂天隨和 / 無憂無慮。」

Practice 39

> “She seems happy-go-lucky even under pressure.”

「即使在壓力下，她看起來仍然很樂天。」

happy-go-lucky = 性格輕鬆、樂觀，不太容易為問題擔心的

20. happy medium (折衷) — 適中點；折衷方案

A common fixed expression.

Practice 40

> “We need to find a happy medium between cost and quality.”

「我們需要在成本與品質之間找到一個適中的平衡點 / 折衷方案。」

Practice 41

> “The design strikes a happy medium between simple and decorative.”

「這個設計在簡潔與裝飾性之間取得了恰到好處的平衡。」 happy medium = 兩個極端之間令人滿意的中間點 / 折衷方案

21. happy hour (餐飲 / 社交) — 歡樂時光；優惠時段

A lexicalized compound.

Practice 42

> “The restaurant has a happy hour from five to seven.”

「這家餐廳五時至七時有歡樂時光 / 飲品優惠時段。」

> “Drinks are cheaper during happy hour.”

「在優惠時段飲品比較便宜。」

happy hour = 酒吧 / 餐廳在指定時段提供飲品或食品優惠的時段

This is a fixed commercial expression, not literally “an hour of happiness”.

22. trigger-happy / slap-happy etc. — compound extension note

-happy can appear in compounds meaning:

> too eager or inclined to do something

Examples:

* trigger-happy

* slap-happy

* click-happy

This is a productive compound pattern, but I would not expand all of them here because the meanings belong to the compounds rather than bare happy.

Important distinction: happy vs glad

broader:

* general emotional happiness;

* satisfaction;

* willingness.

usually means:

pleased about a particular event.

natural.

> “I’m glad you came.”

very natural.

Glad is less commonly used for long-term life satisfaction.

Important distinction: happy vs pleased

happy

broader and often warmer/emotional.

especially:

satisfied about a particular result/event.

> “I’m pleased with the result.”

= 我對結果很滿意。

> “I’m happy today.”

= 我今天很開心。

Important distinction: happy vs satisfied

happy

may refer to emotional pleasure.

means expectations/needs have been met.

> “I’m happy with the garden.”

could mean pleased emotionally.

> “I’m satisfied with the garden.”

more specifically:

= 我覺得成果達到要求。

Important distinction: happy vs content

happy

can be lively or joyful.

content

means quietly satisfied and not wanting more.

= 她看起來很開心。

> “She seems content.”

= 她看起來很知足 / 安然滿足。

Important distinction: happy vs cheerful

internal emotional state.

cheerful

outwardly positive, bright, pleasant in mood.

Someone may be generally happy without appearing especially cheerful at every moment.

Important distinction: happy vs lucky

usually emotional.

lucky fortunate because of chance.

But in formal phrases like:

> happy coincidence

happy can mean:

> fortunate / favorable.

This is why context matters.

Important distinction: happy to help

This expression may carry two meanings simultaneously:

> I'm happy to help.

can mean:

* I am pleased to help.

* I am willing to help.

Natural Chinese:

> 「我很樂意幫忙。」

not necessarily:

> 「我幫忙時非常快樂。」

Important distinction: happy for vs happy with happy for someone

= 替某人高興

happy with something

= 對某事滿意

> “I’m happy for you.”

「我替你高興。」

> “I’m happy with your work.”

「我對你的工作成果很滿意。」

A very useful MCQ contrast.

Important distinction: happily = happily vs fortunately

Manner:

> “She sang happily.”

= 她開心地唱歌。

Sentence adverb:

> “Happily, everyone arrived safely.”

= 幸好 / 幸運的是，大家都安全抵達。

Same form, different function.

Family-extension sweep
