Important distinction: high vs tall

This is one of the most important learner contrasts.

tall

usually describes:

- * people;
- * trees;
- * buildings as vertical objects.

high

usually describes:

- * position above ground;
- * measurements/levels;
- * mountains;
- * walls;
- * ceilings;

* numbers.

Compare:

> a tall person

not normally:

> a high person.

But:

> a high wall

very natural.

Important distinction: high vs long*

high

= vertical dimension.

= length from one end to another.

> three metres high vs:

> ten metres long.

Important distinction: high vs big* big

= large generally.

= specifically large in vertical position, number, level, rank, intensity, etc.

> high price

not:

> big price

in standard neutral English.

Important distinction: high vs large

large

= general size/quantity.

high

= level/rate/number.

Compare:

> a large amount of money

but:

> a high price.

Collocation matters.

Important distinction: high standards vs strict standards

high standards

= required level of quality/performance is demanding.

strict standards

= rules/requirements are enforced rigidly.

A teacher can have high standards without being harsh.

That is exactly what your passage suggests.

Important distinction: high standards vs high expectations

high standards

= quality/performance level considered acceptable.

high expectations

= belief that someone will achieve a strong result.

Closely related, but not identical.

Important distinction: high vs advanced

high level

= elevated degree/standard.

advanced

= beyond basic/intermediate stage, often more complex.

A high-level course may be advanced, but high-level can also mean strategic/overview rather than difficult.

Important distinction: high-level = advanced vs high-level = senior/strategic

Compare:

> high-level mathematics

= advanced mathematics.

> high-level talks

= talks involving senior people.

> high-level overview

= broad strategic overview, not detailed.

Same compound, different context.

Important distinction: highly vs high

high

can function as adjective and in some adverbial uses:

> fly high.

highly

usually means:

> very / to a great degree.

Compare:

> “The bird flew high.”

= 鳥飛得高。

> “She is highly respected.”

= 她非常受尊敬。

You cannot normally swap them.

Important distinction: highly vs very very = general intensifier.

highly

often combines with evaluative/formal adjectives:

* highly skilled;

* highly respected;

* highly likely;

* highly effective.

> highly good

is not natural.

Important distinction: high voice vs loud voice

high voice

= high pitch.

loud voice

= high volume.

A voice can be high but quiet, or low but loud.

Important distinction: high spirits vs confidence

high spirits

= cheerful/excited mood.

confidence

= belief in your ability/judgment.

Someone can be calm and confident without being in high spirits.

Important distinction: high vs drunk

high

usually refers to drug intoxication/euphoria.

drunk

specifically refers to alcohol intoxication.

They are not interchangeable.

Important distinction: high vs on a high

high

can imply intoxication.

on a high

can simply mean emotionally excited/happy after success.

Context matters greatly.

Important distinction: height vs high

high

= adjective.

> a high wall.

height

= noun.

> the height of the wall.

Important distinction: height vs heighten

height

= vertical measurement or peak.

heighten

= make stronger/more intense.

> heighten concern

does not mean physically increase height.

Important distinction: heighten vs increase

increase

= general become/make larger.

heighten

= especially make emotions, awareness, risk, tension, or effect more intense.

More selective and often more formal.

Important distinction: high point vs highest point

highest point

can be literal or numerical:

> the highest point of the mountain.

high point

often figurative:

> the best/most exciting moment.

Important distinction: high-end vs expensive

high-end

= targeted at the upper-quality/luxury end of a market.

expensive

= simply costs a lot.

A product can be expensive without truly being high-end.

Important distinction: high-profile vs famous

high-profile

= receives a lot of public/media attention.

famous

= widely known.

A case can be high-profile but not “famous” in the same way a celebrity is.

Family-extension sweep

The practical high family is very rich across physical position, numerical level, quality, rank, sound, emotion, intoxication, and degree:

- * high — physical position = 高的 / 位置高
- * high — vertical measurement = 高度大的
- * high price/cost = 價格 / 成本高
- * high temperature = 高溫
- * high speed = 高速
- * high level = 高程度 / 高水平
- * high risk = 高風險
- * high standards = 高標準 / 要求高
- * high expectations = 高期望
- * high quality = 高品質
- * high rank/position = 高職位 / 高級
- * high status = 高地位
- * high priority = 高優先程度
- * rank high = 排名高
- * high rate = 高比率
- * high in X = 某成分含量高
- * high voice/note = 高音
- * high-pitched = 尖銳 / 高頻
- * high spirits = 情緒高昂
- * high — intoxicated = 受毒品影響而亢奮
- * a high / on a high = 強烈興奮感
- * high pressure = 高壓
- * high-level = 高階 / 高層 / 宏觀
- * high regard/opinion = 高度評價
- * think highly of = 高度評價 / 很欣賞

* highly = 高度地 / 非常
 * highly skilled = 技術高超
 * highly likely = 很可能
 * highly respected = 備受尊敬
 * height = 高度 / 身高
 * height — peak = 高峰 / 巔峰
 * at the height of = 在最高潮 / 巔峰時
 * heighten = 增強 / 加劇
 * high point = 高潮 / 亮點
 * highs and lows = 高低起伏
 * high-end = 高端
 * high-profile = 高調 / 備受關注
 * high-tech = 高科技

The main semantic branches are:

- > physical vertical position
- > large numerical degree or amount
- > demanding standard or quality
- > high social/professional rank
- > high pitch
- > strong emotional state
- > drug intoxication

plus productive compounds such as:

- > high-level / high-end / high-profile / high-tech

For your original passage

> “She was the kind of teacher who had high standards but never made students feel small.”

The exact meaning is:

high = demanding / set at a strong level

Therefore:

> high standards

= 「高標準 / 要求高」

This sentence is especially effective because it separates two ideas that learners sometimes confuse:

> high standards

does not automatically mean:

> harsh

> unkind

> intimidating.

Your teacher:

> expected students to do well

but:

> did not make them feel inferior.

So her standards were:

> demanding

while her manner was:

> supportive.

The most important learner contrasts are:

> a high wall

> = 高牆

> a high price

> = 高價格

> high temperature

> = 高溫

> high speed

> = 高速

> high risk

> = 高風險

> high standards

> = 高標準 / 要求高

> high expectations

> = 高期望

> high quality

> = 高品質

> high position

> = 高職位

> high status

> = 高地位

> high voice
> = 高音調的聲音

> high spirits
> = 情緒高昂

> be high > = 因毒品作用而亢奮 / 迷幻

> on a high > = 處於非常興奮的狀態

> highly respected > = 備受尊敬

> highly skilled > = 技術高超

> height
> = 高度 / 身高

> at the height of her career > = 在事業巔峰

> heighten concern
> = 加劇憂慮

> high point
> = 高潮 / 亮點

> high-end product > = 高端產品

> high-profile case
> = 備受矚目的案件

So high is much richer than simply:

> high = 高

The key semantic map is:

HIGH — space
→ physically high
