

No worries — job is a much stronger target than house here. In your passage:

> “She has a busy job...”

the source meaning is paid employment / one’s position of work, but job also means a specific task, a piece of work, responsibility/function, and appears in several important workplace and computing expressions.

Word family: job / jobless / joblessness

Base word: job

Plural: jobs

Related forms: jobless, joblessness

Useful compounds: job interview, job offer, job description, job title, job market, job security, job satisfaction, job seeker, job vacancy, job application, job centre

Part of speech: mainly noun (名詞) ; limited informal verb use exists, but it is not important enough for this learner entry.

Your sentence:

> “She has a busy job, and gardening gives her a chance to slow down and breathe.”

Meaning in your passage: job = paid position/employment — 工作 ; 職位

Here, job means:

> a particular paid position in which someone works for an employer or earns a living.

繁體中文 :

某人為僱主工作或藉以賺取收入的受薪職位 / 工作

Natural translation:

> “She has a busy job.”

「她有一份很忙碌的工作。」

So here:

> job = 一份受薪工作 / 職位

1. job = paid position (就業) — 工作 ; 職位

The main source sense.

Practice 1 — Original

> “She has a busy job.”

「她有一份很忙碌的工作。」

Practice 2

> “He got a job at a local bank.”

「他在本地銀行找到了一份工作。」

Practice 3

> “She left her old job last month.”

「她上個月辭去了原來的工作 / 職位。」 job = 某人受聘擔任、通常藉此獲得收入的一個工作職位

2. job = piece of work / specific task (任務) — 工作 ; 任務 ; 差事

A major distinct meaning.

Practice 4

> “I have a few jobs to do around the house.”

「我家裡有幾件事情 / 工作要做。」

Practice 5

> “Cleaning the garden is a big job.”

「清理花園是一項很大的工作 / 任務。」 job = 一項需要完成的具體工作、任務或差事

Important distinction:

> have a job

> often = 有一份工作

> have a job to do

> = 有一項任務要完成

3. job = work involved in doing/fixing something (工程 / 工作量) — 工作 ; 工程

Closely related to #2, but often refers to the whole practical undertaking.

Practice 6

> “Repairing the roof will be a difficult job.”

「修理屋頂會是一項很困難的工程 / 工作。」

Practice 7

> “They did a good job of repainting the room.”

「他們把房間重新油漆得很好。」 job = 為完成、修理、製作或處理某事而進行的一整項實際工作

This is the basis of the extremely common phrase:

> do a good/bad job

4. do a good/bad job = perform something well/badly — 做得好 / 差

This is a fixed construction rather than a separate lexical meaning.

Practice 8

> “She did a good job of organising the plants.”

「她把植物整理得很好。」

Practice 9

> “They did a poor job of explaining the rules.”

「他們把規則解釋得很差。」 do a good/bad job = 完成某項工作時表現良好 / 欠佳

Notice the natural Chinese often does not translate job literally.

5. job = function / purpose (作用) — 職責 ; 作用 ; 功能

Another important figurative sense.

Practice 10

> “It is the roots’ job to absorb water.”

「根部的*作用 / 功能*是吸收水分。」

Practice 11

> “My job is to make sure everyone understands the plan.”

「我的*職責*是確保每個人都明白計劃。」 job = 某人 / 某物被要求或預期完成的主要職責、作用或功能

For people:

> 職責 / 任務

For things/body parts:

> 功能 / 作用

6. one’s job = responsibility / duty (責任) — 分內事 ; 責任

A contextual branch of #5.

Practice 12

> “It’s not my job to make that decision.”

「作出那個決定並不是我的*職責 / 責任*。」

Practice 13

> “As team leader, it's her job to solve problems.”

「身為組長，解決問題是她的職責。」 someone's job = 某人按角色、職位或安排應負責做的事情

7. job = result/workmanship (完成成果) — 做出來的工作；成果

Common when evaluating the quality of completed work.

Practice 14

> “That's a very professional job.”

「那項工作完成得非常專業。」

Practice 15

> “The paint job looks excellent.”

「這次油漆工程 / 油漆成果看起來很出色。」 job = 某項實際工作完成後的成果，尤其可評價其品質

Common compounds:

* paint job

* repair job

* cleaning job

These usually mean a particular piece/result of work, not employment.

8. job = assignment processed by a computer/machine (電腦 / 技術) — 作業；工作任務

A common technical sense.

Practice 16

> “The printer has three jobs waiting in the queue.”

「打印機佇列中有三個打印作業等待處理。」

Practice 17

> “The server runs the backup job every night.”

「伺服器每晚執行一次備份作業 / 任務。」 job — computing = 交由電腦、伺服器、打印機或其他系統執行的一組指定工作

Common:

- * print job
- * batch job
- * backup job
- * scheduled job

This grows naturally from task, but the technical usage is common enough to flag.

9. job = criminal operation (非正式) — 犯罪行動 ; 一次作案

A distinct informal meaning.

Practice 18

> “The thieves planned the job carefully.”

「竊賊仔細策劃了那次犯罪行動 / 作案。」

Practice 19

> “The police believed the same group had carried out several similar jobs.”

「警方相信同一團伙曾進行過幾宗類似的案件 / 作案。」 job — informal/criminal = 一次有計劃的犯罪活動，尤其偷竊、搶劫等

Register: informal.

This is why films may use:

> bank job

to mean:

> 銀行劫案

rather than employment at a bank.

10. job = medical/cosmetic procedure (非正式) — 手術 / 整形

Mostly appears in compounds.

Practice 20

> “He had a nose job several years ago.”

「他幾年前做過鼻部整形手術。」

Practice 21

> “The phrase ‘nose job’ is informal.”

「nose job 是「鼻部整形手術」的非正式說法。」

X job — informal = 對某身體部位進行的手術 / 美容處理

Most useful example:

> nose job = 鼻部整形

I would not promote this into a broad productive pattern for learners; it is mainly useful as an established compound.

11. job interview (求職) — 求職面試

Practice 22

> “She has a job interview tomorrow.”

「她明天有一場求職面試。」

Practice 23

> “Prepare some questions before the job interview.”

「在求職面試前準備一些問題。」 job interview = 僱主為評估求職者是否適合某職位而進行的面談

12. job offer (求職) — 工作錄用通知 ; 職位邀請

Practice 24

> “She received a job offer from another company.”

「她收到另一家公司的*工作錄用通知 / 職位邀請*。」

Practice 25

> “He accepted the job offer immediately.”

「他立即接受了那份*工作邀請*。」 job offer = 僱主正式向某人提出受聘擔任某職位的邀請

13. job application (求職) — 求職申請

Practice 26

> “I submitted my job application online.”

「我在網上提交了*求職申請*。」

Practice 27

> “The company received hundreds of job applications.”

「公司收到數百份*求職申請*。」 job application = 求職者為申請某個職位而提交的資料 / 申請

14. job description (人力資源) — 職位說明 ; 工作職責說明

Practice 28

> “Read the job description carefully before applying.”

「申請前仔細閱讀職位說明。」

Practice 29

> “Her responsibilities have changed, but the job description has not.”

「她的職責已經改變，但職位說明沒有更新。」 job description = 列明某職位的職責、工作內容和通常所需條件的說明

15. job title (職場) — 職稱

Practice 30

> “What is your official job title?”

「你的正式職稱是甚麼？」

Practice 31

> “Her job title is project manager.”

「她的職稱是項目經理。」 job title = 某個工作職位的正式名稱

Important:

> job = 工作 / 職位

> job title = 職稱

16. job vacancy / opening (招聘) — 職位空缺

Practice 32

> “The company currently has several job vacancies.”

「公司目前有幾個職位空缺。」

Practice 33

> “I saw the job opening on the company website.”

「我在公司網站看到那個職位空缺。」 job vacancy/opening = 目前沒有人擔任、公司希望招聘人選填補的職位

Regional tendency:

* vacancy — especially common BrE

* opening — very common AmE

17. job market (經濟 / 就業) — 就業市場

Practice 34

> “Graduates are entering a competitive job market.”

「畢業生正進入競爭激烈的就業市場。」

Practice 35

> “The job market improved during the year.”

「年內就業市場有所改善。」 job market = 求職者與僱主之間對工作職位供求的整體情況

18. job security (職場) — 工作保障 ; 職位穩定性

Practice 36

> “Many employees are worried about job security.”

「很多員工擔心自己的工作保障 / 職位穩定性。」

Practice 37

> “A permanent contract may offer greater job security.”

「長期合約可能提供較大的工作保障。」 job security = 某人能否持續保有目前工作的穩定程度

19. job satisfaction (職場) — 工作滿足感

Practice 38

> “Flexible hours can improve job satisfaction.”

「彈性工時可以提高工作滿足感。」

Practice 39

> “She values job satisfaction more than a high salary.”

「相比高薪，她更重視工作滿足感。」 job satisfaction = 一個人對自己的工作內容、環境和經驗感到滿意的程度

20. job seeker (求職) — 求職者

Practice 40

> “The programme provides training for job seekers.”

「這個計劃為求職者提供培訓。」

Practice 41

> “Job seekers can upload their CVs online.”

「求職者可以在網上上載履歷。」 job seeker = 正在尋找受薪工作的人

21. jobless = unemployed — 失業的

A useful related adjective.

Practice 42

> “He was jobless for several months.”

「他失業了幾個月。」

Practice 43

> “The programme helps jobless young people find work.”

「這個計劃協助失業青年找工作。」

jobless = 沒有受薪工作、目前失業的

Register note:

unemployed is generally more neutral/formal.

jobless is common especially in journalism/statistics.

22. joblessness = state of being unemployed — 失業狀態；失業問題

Practice 44

> “Long-term joblessness can create financial pressure.”

「長期失業可能造成經濟壓力。」

Practice 45

> “The policy aims to reduce youth joblessness.”

「該政策旨在減少青年失業問題。」 joblessness = 沒有工作的狀態，或某群體中的失業現象

23. odd job (零散工作) — 零工；雜務

A useful fixed compound.

Practice 46

> “He earns extra money doing odd jobs.”

「他做一些零工 / 雜務賺取額外收入。」

Practice 47

> “There are a few odd jobs to finish in the garden.”

「花園裡還有幾項零碎工作 / 雜務要完成。」 odd job = 小型、零散、通常不需要長時間完成的工作 / 差事

Plural odd jobs is especially common.

24. full-time / part-time job (工時) — 全職 / 兼職工作

Practice 48

> “She is looking for a part-time job.”

「她正在找一份兼職工作。」

Practice 49

> “He finally found a full-time job.”

「他終於找到一份全職工作。」

These are transparent but extremely useful employment compounds:

* full-time job = 全職工作

* part-time job = 兼職工作

25. dream job (理想工作) — 夢想工作 ; 理想職位

Practice 50

> “She finally got her dream job.”

「她終於得到自己的夢想工作 / 理想職位。」

Practice 51

> “For him, working with animals would be a dream job.”

「對他來說，與動物一起工作會是一份理想工作。」 dream job = 非常符合某人興趣、目標或理想的工作

Important distinction: job vs work

This is the biggest learner contrast.

job

countable:

a particular position or task.

> “I have a job.”

「我有一份工作。」

> “I have three jobs to do.”

「我有三件工作要做。」 work

usually uncountable:

work/activity in general.

> “I have a lot of work.”

「我有很多工作要做。」

Not normally:

> a work ❌

> for “一份工作”.

So:

> a job / two jobs

> some work / a lot of work

Important distinction: job vs career

job

a particular employment position.

career

the longer-term path of someone's working life.

> "She changed jobs."

= 她換了工作。

> "She changed careers."

= 她轉行 / 改變了職業生涯方向。

A person can have many jobs during one career.

Important distinction: job vs occupation

job

specific current position.

occupation

general kind of work someone does, often formal.

> "His job is at ABC Bank."

specific employment.

> "His occupation is accountant."

general profession.

occupation is common on official forms.

Important distinction: job vs profession

job

any particular paid employment.

profession

usually an occupation requiring substantial specialist education/training.

Teaching, medicine, law, engineering, etc. may be described as professions.

Not every job is a profession.

Important distinction: job vs position

job

everyday broad term.

position

slightly more formal, emphasizing a role within an organization.

> “She applied for a job.”

everyday.

> “She applied for the position of marketing manager.”

more formal/specific.

Important distinction: job vs task

job

can mean a whole practical piece of work.

task

a specific activity that needs completing.

> “Painting the room is a big job.”

> “My first task is to move the furniture.”

A job may consist of several tasks.

Important distinction: job vs duty

job

may refer to employment or a task.

duty

something a person is required or morally/officially expected to do.

> “It’s my job to answer customer questions.”

> “Police officers have a duty to uphold the law.”

duty emphasizes obligation more strongly.

Important distinction: busy job vs busy work

Your source says:

> a busy job

= 一份工作量大 / 節奏忙碌的工作

But:

> busywork

is a separate concept:

work that keeps someone occupied but may have little real value.

So busy job ≠ busywork.

Important distinction: job description vs job title job title

= the name of the position.

> Project Manager

job description

= what that person is expected to do.

So:

> 職稱 ≠ 職位職責說明

Important distinction: jobless vs unemployed

Both mean 「失業的」.

unemployed

more neutral and standard in official/economic contexts.

jobless

common and direct, especially journalism.

> unemployed people

> jobless workers

Both are normal.

Family-extension sweep

After the full audit, the useful modern family includes:

* job — employment = 工作 / 職位

* job — specific task = 任務 / 差事

* job — practical piece of work = 工程 / 工作

* do a good/bad job = 做得好 / 差

* job — function = 職責 / 作用

* job — responsibility = 分內事

* job — completed work/result = 工作成果

* job — computing = 作業 / 系統任務

* job — criminal operation = 一次作案 / 犯罪行動

* nose job = 鼻部整形手術

* job interview = 求職面試

* job offer = 工作錄用邀請 * job application = 求職申請
 * job description = 職位說明
 * job title = 職稱
 * job vacancy/opening = 職位空缺
 * job market = 就業市場 * job security = 工作保障 * job satisfaction = 工作滿足感
 * job seeker = 求職者
 * jobless = 失業的
 * joblessness = 失業狀態 / 現象
 * odd job = 零工 / 雜務
 * full-time/part-time job = 全職 / 兼職工作
 * dream job = 理想工作

This is close to the useful modern ceiling. I would not inflate it with every transparent compound containing job.

Master comparison

Form / sense	MCQ-ready Traditional Chinese meaning
-----	-----
job — employment	某人受聘擔任並通常藉此賺取收入的一個工作職位
job — task	一項需要完成的具體工作、任務或差事
job — practical work	為完成、修理、製作或處理某事而進行的一整項工作
do a good/bad job	在完成某項工作時表現良好 / 欠佳
job — function	某人 / 某物被要求或預期完成的主要職責、作用或功能 job — responsibility	按角色或職位安排屬於某人負責的事情
job — result/workmanship	某項實際工作完成後的成果及其品質
job — computing	交由電腦、伺服器、打印機等系統執行的一組指定工作
job — crime	一次有計劃的犯罪活動，尤其偷竊 / 搶劫 nose job	鼻部整形手術的非正式說法
job interview	僱主評估求職者是否適合職位的面談
job offer	僱主正式邀請某人擔任某職位
job application	為申請某個職位而提交的求職資料 / 申請
job description	列明職位職責、內容及要求的說明
job title	某個工作職位的正式名稱；職稱
job vacancy/opening	公司希望招聘人選填補的空缺職位
job market	工作職位與求職者之間供求的整體就業情況
job security	一個人能持續保有目前工作的穩定程度 job satisfaction	一個人對自己的工作經驗感到滿意的程度
job seeker	正在尋找受薪工作的人
jobless	目前沒有受薪工作、處於失業狀態的
joblessness	沒有工作的狀態或某群體的失業現象

odd job	小型、零散、通常短時間完成的工作 / 雜務
dream job	非常符合某人興趣、目標或理想的工作

For your original sentence

> “She has a busy job, and gardening gives her a chance to slow down and breathe.”

The exact meaning is:

job = 她平日受聘從事、藉以工作的那份受薪職位

So:

> a busy job

= 「一份工作繁忙 / 工作量大的工作」

Natural full translation:

> 「她的工作很忙，而做園藝讓她有機會放慢腳步、喘一口氣。」

The highest-value contrasts are:

- > job → 一份工作 / 職位
- > job → 一項任務
- > job → 職責 / 作用
- > job → 電腦作業
- > job → 非正式「一次作案」
- > work → 工作活動本身，通常不可數
- > career → 長期職業發展道路