

Absolutely — meet is a very strong Tier 1 target because your passage uses:

> “I first met her when I was about thirteen...”

Here, meet means to encounter or become acquainted with someone for the first time. But the word also expands into meeting someone by arrangement, encountering unexpectedly, coming together, satisfying requirements/needs, reaching deadlines or costs, confronting challenges, roads/lines touching, and several major expressions such as meet halfway, make ends meet, and meet someone’s eye.

Word family: meet / meets / met / meeting

Base word: meet

Third-person singular: meets

Past tense: met

Past participle: met

-ing form: meeting

Related noun: meeting

Part of speech: verb (動詞) / noun family form (相關名詞)

Useful constructions/extensions: meet someone, meet for the first time, meet someone at a place, meet with someone, meet unexpectedly, meet a requirement, meet a standard, meet a deadline, meet a need, meet demand, meet costs, meet a challenge, meet with resistance, where two roads meet, meet someone’s eye, meet halfway, make ends meet, meeting

Your passage contains:

> “I first met her when I was about thirteen...”

Here, meet means:

to encounter someone and become acquainted with them for the first time.

Meaning in this passage

In:

> I first met her you are describing the beginning of your relationship with Mrs. Chan.

Before that moment:

> you did not know her personally.

Then:

> you encountered her as your English teacher

> → became acquainted with her

> → later developed a long-lasting teacher-student relationship.

Meaning: To encounter and become acquainted with someone for the first time.

繁體中文： 初次見到 / 認識某人；第一次與某人相識

中文翻譯：

> “I first met her when I was about thirteen.”

「我大概十三歲時第一次認識 / 見到她。」

So:

meet someone for the first time = 第一次認識某人

This is the exact passage meaning.

1. meet = encounter someone for the first time (初次認識) — 認識；初次見面

This is the exact passage sense.

Practice 1 — Original

> “I first met her when I was about thirteen.”

「我大概十三歲時第一次認識她。」

Practice 2

> “I met my best friend at university.”

「我在大學時認識了我最好的朋友。」

Practice 3

> “Where did you first meet your teacher?”

「你第一次在哪裡認識你的老師？」 meet someone = 初次與某人相識 / 建立認識

2. meet = see someone by arrangement (約見) — 見面 ; 碰面

A major everyday meaning.

Meaning: To come together with someone at an arranged time or place.

Practice 4

> “I’m meeting her after work.”

「我下班後要*跟她見面*。」

Practice 5

> “Let’s meet at the café at three.”

「我們三點在咖啡店*見面*吧。」 meet someone = 按安排在指定時間 / 地點與某人碰面

This differs from the passage sense because the people may already know each other.

3. meet someone at/in + place (在某處見面) — 碰面 ; 會合

Practice 6

> “I’ll meet you at the station.”

「我會在車站*跟你會合*。」

Practice 7

> “We met in the lobby before the event.”

「活動前我們在大堂*碰面*。」 meet + person + place = 在指定地方與某人會合

4. meet for + purpose (為某事見面) — 聚會；會面

Practice 8

> “We met for lunch.”

「我們約出來吃午飯。」

Practice 9

> “The team met to discuss the project.”

「團隊開會 / 會面討論項目。」 meet = 為特定活動、討論或目的聚在一起

5. meet = encounter someone by chance (偶遇) — 遇見；碰到

A major sense.

Practice 10

> “I met an old friend on the bus.”

「我在巴士上碰巧遇到一位老朋友。」

Practice 11

> “We met unexpectedly in town.”

「我們在城裡意外碰見了。」 meet = 沒有事先安排而偶然遇到某人

6. meet = encounter someone/something during an activity (遇上) — 遇到；碰上

A broader encounter sense.

Practice 12

> “We met several interesting people during the trip.”

「旅途中我們遇到幾個有趣的人。」

Practice 13

> “The hikers met bad weather near the top.”

「登山者在接近山頂時遇上惡劣天氣。」 meet = 在行程 / 活動中遇到某人或某種情況

The non-human use is less common than:

> encounter / run into but established.

7. meet = be introduced to someone (被介紹認識) — 認識 ; 見面

Practice 14

> “Have you met my sister?”

「你見過 / 認識我妹妹嗎？」

Practice 15

> “It was nice to meet your parents.”

「很高興認識你的父母。」 meet someone = 透過介紹或初次接觸而認識某人

This gives us the standard greeting:

> Nice to meet you.

8. Nice to meet you (很高興認識你) — 初次見面的客套語

Practice 16

> “Hi, I’m Daniel. Nice to meet you.”

「你好，我是 Daniel。 很高興認識你。 **」

Practice 17

> “It was lovely to meet you.”

「很高興認識你。 **」

Nice to meet you = 初次與人相識時表示友善的常用客套語

Usually not used in exactly the same way with someone you already know well.

9. meet = gather formally (開會 ; 集合) — 會面 ; 開會

A major institutional sense.

Practice 18

> “The committee meets every Monday.”

「委員會每星期一開會。」

Practice 19

> “The board met to discuss the budget.”

「董事會開會討論預算。」

meet = 某個群體為討論、決策或工作目的正式聚集

10. meet with someone (與某人會面) — 會晤 ; 會談

A common construction, especially formal/business English.

Practice 20

> “She met with the manager yesterday.”

「她昨天與經理會面。」

Practice 21

> “The team met with clients to discuss the proposal.”

「團隊與客戶會面討論提案。」

meet with someone = 與某人安排較正式的會面 / 討論

In ordinary conversational British English, simple:

> meet someone is often enough.

11. meet = come together / converge (相遇 ; 交會) — 交會 ; 匯合

A major non-human sense.

Practice 22

> “The two roads meet near the bridge.”

「兩條路在橋附近交會。」

Practice 23

> “The river meets the sea here.”

「河流在這裡匯入 / 與海相接。」 meet = 兩條線、道路、河流、表面等到達同一位置並相接

12. where X meets Y (.....交界處) — 相接 ; 交界

Practice 24

> “The café is where the two streets meet.”

「咖啡店位於兩條街道的交界處。」

Practice 25

> “The sky seems to meet the sea at the horizon.”

「天空在地平線上看起來像與海面相接。」

where X meets Y = 兩個地方、表面或概念相連 / 交界之處

13. meet = satisfy a requirement (符合要求) — 達到 ; 符合

A major abstract sense.

Meaning: To reach or satisfy a required condition, rule, or level.

Practice 26

> “You must meet the requirements.”

「你必須*符合要求*。」

Practice 27

> “The product meets all safety requirements.”

「這件產品*符合所有安全要求*。」 meet a requirement = 達到規定條件 / 符合所要求的標準

This is completely different from physically meeting a person.

14. meet a standard (達到標準) — 符合 ; 達標

Practice 28

> “The work does not meet the required standard.”

「這項工作*未達到要求的標準*。」

Practice 29

> “All products must meet quality standards.”

「所有產品都必須*符合品質標準*。」 meet a standard = 表現 / 品質達到指定水平

15. meet expectations (符合期望) — 達到預期

Practice 30

> “The result met our expectations.”

「結果*符合我們的預期*。」

Practice 31

> “The service failed to meet customer expectations.”

「服務未能*達到顧客期望*。」 meet expectations = 實際結果達到別人所預期的水平

16. meet criteria/conditions (符合條件) — 符合資格 / 條件

Practice 32

> “Applicants must meet several criteria.”

「申請人必須*符合幾項條件*。」

Practice 33

> “The company meets the conditions for funding.”

「公司*符合取得資助的條件*。」

meet criteria/conditions = 滿足判定資格 / 合規所要求的條件

17. meet a deadline (趕及期限) — 如期完成 ; 趕上截止時間

A major workplace/academic collocation.

Practice 34

> “We need to meet the deadline.”

「我們需要在截止日期前完成。」

Practice 35

> “She worked late to meet the deadline.”

「她加班以趕及截止日期。」

meet a deadline = 在指定期限或之前完成所需工作

You do not physically “meet” the deadline.

18. meet a target/goal (達到目標) — 達標 ; 實現目標

Practice 36

> “The team met its sales target.”

「團隊達到了銷售目標。」

Practice 37

> “We failed to meet our goal.”

「我們未能達成目標。」

meet a target/goal = 實際表現達到預先設定的數值 / 結果

19. meet a need (滿足需要) — 滿足 ; 應付需要

A major sense.

Practice 38

> “The programme was designed to meet students’ needs.”

「這個計劃旨在滿足學生的需要。」

Practice 39

> “The service does not meet everyone’s needs.”

「這項服務未能滿足所有人的需要。」 meet a need = 提供足夠資源 / 服務 / 條件來滿足某項需要

20. meet demand (滿足需求) — 應付需求

Practice 40

> “Production increased to meet demand.”

「產量增加以滿足需求。」

Practice 41

> “The company cannot meet current demand.”

「公司無法應付目前的需求。」

meet demand = 提供足夠的產品 / 服務來應付需要量

21. meet costs/expenses (支付 / 應付費用) — 承擔 ; 支付

A major financial use.

Practice 42

> “The grant will help meet the costs.”

「這筆資助有助支付費用。」

Practice 43

> “They struggled to meet their monthly expenses.”

「他們很難應付每月開支。」

meet costs/expenses = 有足夠金錢支付必須承擔的費用

22. meet a payment/obligation (履行付款 / 義務) — 履行 ; 支付

Practice 44

> “The company could not meet its financial obligations.”

「公司無法履行財務義務。」

Practice 45

> “He struggled to meet the monthly payments.”

「他很難支付每月款項。」

meet an obligation/payment = 按要求履行責任 / 支付應付款項

23. meet a challenge (迎接 / 應對挑戰) — 應付 ; 迎接

A major figurative use.

Practice 46

> “She was ready to meet the challenge.”

「她準備好迎接挑戰。」

Practice 47

> “The team successfully met the challenge.”

「團隊成功應對了挑戰。」

meet a challenge = 面對並設法處理 / 克服某項困難

24. meet difficulty/opposition/resistance (遭遇困難 / 反對 / 阻力) — 遇到 ; 遭到

A major formal construction.

Practice 48

> “The proposal met strong opposition.”

「這項提案遭到強烈反對。」

Practice 49

> “The changes met with resistance.”

「這些改變遇到阻力 / 遭到抵制。」 meet opposition/resistance = 遭遇別人對某事的反對 / 阻力

25. meet with + reaction/result (遭遇 / 得到某種反應) — 遭到 ; 獲得

Practice 50

> “The idea met with approval.”

「這個想法獲得認同。」

Practice 51

> “His suggestion met with silence.”

「他的建議得到的反應是一片沉默。」 meet with + reaction = 某件事情引起 / 遭遇某種反應

This is more formal.

26. meet someone's eye/gaze (與某人目光相接) — 對上眼 ; 迎上目光

A major fixed construction.

Practice 52

> “She smiled when her eyes met mine.”

「她的目光與我相遇 / 對上眼時，她笑了。」

Practice 53

> “He refused to meet my eyes.”

「他不肯直視我 / 與我對視。」

meet someone's eyes/gaze = 看向對方，使雙方目光相接

27. meet the eye (映入眼簾 / 表面所見) — 看得到；表面看來

A useful fixed expression.

Practice 54

> “There is more to the problem than meets the eye.”

「這個問題並不像*表面看起來*那麼簡單。」

Practice 55

> “The design is more complex than meets the eye.”

「這個設計比*表面所見*更複雜。」

more than meets the eye = 實際情況比第一眼看到的更複雜 / 更多內情

28. meet halfway (各讓一步) — 妥協；各自退讓

A major idiom.

Practice 56

> “We disagreed, but eventually met halfway.”

「我們有分歧，但最後*各讓一步*。」

Practice 57

> “Both sides need to meet each other halfway.”

「雙方都需要*互相妥協 / 各退一步*。」 meet halfway = 雙方各自改變部分要求，以取得折衷協議

Literal physical meeting halfway is also possible, but the figurative sense is highly common.

29. make ends meet (收支平衡；勉強維持生活) — 維持生計

A major idiom involving meet.

Practice 58

> “They struggled to make ends meet.”

「他們很努力才勉強維持生計 / 收支平衡。」

Practice 59

> “A second job helped her make ends meet.”

「第二份工作幫助她維持生活開支。」 make ends meet = 有足夠收入支付基本生活開支

The “ends” are not people meeting one another; the phrase is lexicalized.

30. meet your match (遇到旗鼓相當的對手) — 遇到對手

A common idiom.

Practice 60

> “He finally met his match.”

「他終於遇到了一個旗鼓相當的對手。」

Practice 61

> “The champion may have met her match.”

「冠軍可能終於遇上勢均力敵的對手。」 meet your match = 遇到能力、力量或技巧足以與自己抗衡的人

31. meet your maker (死亡；委婉 / 幽默) — 去世；見造物主

A recognizable idiom, though lower priority.

Practice 62

> “The phrase meet your maker is a euphemistic way of referring to death.”

「meet your maker 是一種委婉 / 幽默地指『死亡』的說法。」

Practice 63

> “In the story, the villain finally meets his maker.”

「故事中，那名反派最後一命嗚呼。」 meet your maker = 委婉、宗教式或幽默地指死亡

Recognition only; not essential for ordinary production.

32. meeting = organized gathering (會議 ; 會面) — 會議 ; 聚會

The major related noun.

Practice 64

> “I have a meeting at three.”

「我三點有一個會議。」

Practice 65

> “The meeting lasted an hour.”

「會議持續了一小時。」 meeting = 一群人為討論、工作、決策等目的安排的會面

33. meeting = encounter between people (會面) — 見面 ; 會晤

Practice 66

> “Their first meeting was at school.”

「他們第一次見面是在學校。」

Practice 67

> “The meeting between the two teachers was brief.”

「兩位老師的會面很短。」 meeting = 人與人見面 / 相聚這件事情

34. first meeting (初次見面) — 第一次會面

Practice 68

> “I still remember our first meeting.”

「我仍然記得我們的第一次見面。」

Practice 69

> “Their first meeting made a strong impression on him.”

「他們第一次見面給他留下了深刻印象。」 first meeting = 兩人第一次相識 / 會面的事件

Closely connected to your passage's:

> first met her.

Important distinction: meet vs see

This is one of the most important learner contrasts.

meet someone

can mean:

1. first become acquainted;
2. arrange to see them.

see someone usually means:

> spend time with / encounter someone you already know, or visually perceive them.

Compare:

> “I met Mrs. Chan when I was thirteen.”

= I first became acquainted with her.

> “I saw Mrs. Chan yesterday.”

= I encountered/spent time with her yesterday.

You normally should not say:

> “I first saw my teacher”

if you specifically mean:

> first became acquainted with her,

unless visual sight itself is the point.

Important distinction: meet vs know

meet

= the event where acquaintance begins.

know

= the continuing state of being acquainted.

Your passage illustrates this perfectly:

> “I first met her when I was thirteen...”

then:

> “I have known her for more than ten years.”

So:

meet = starting point know = continuing relationship/state

Important distinction: meet vs get to know

meet

= first encounter/acquaintance.

get to know

= gradually learn about someone and develop familiarity.

You can meet someone in one minute, but take months to get to know them.

Important distinction: meet vs encounter

meet

= common everyday word.

encounter

= more formal and often emphasizes an unexpected or significant meeting.

> "I met my teacher."

natural.

> "I encountered a stranger in the forest."

more formal/dramatic.

Important distinction: meet vs run into

meet

can be planned or unplanned.

run into someone

= meet them unexpectedly/by chance.

> “I ran into my teacher at the supermarket.”

= 偶然遇到老師。

So run into explicitly marks accidental encounter.

Important distinction: meet someone vs meet with someone

meet someone

= general, and may be social or professional.

meet with someone

= often emphasizes a planned/formal discussion, especially in American/business English.

> “I met my friend.”

social.

> “I met with the director.”

formal/professional.

But regional preferences vary.

Important distinction: meet at a place vs meet in a place meet at

often treats location as a point:

> meet at the station.

meet in

often means inside a space:

> meet in the conference room.

Both can be correct depending on spatial emphasis.

Important distinction: meet = encounter vs meet = satisfy

Compare:

> "I met my teacher."

= 我遇見 / 認識老師。 versus:

> "I met the requirements."

= 我符合要求。

These are genuinely different conceptual branches.

Important distinction: meet requirements vs follow rules

meet requirements

= reach/satisfy specified conditions.

follow rules

= behave according to rules.

You can follow a process but still fail to meet a performance requirement.

Important distinction: meet a standard vs reach a standard

These are close.

meet a standard

= be at least as good/high as the required level.

reach a standard

= develop until attaining that level.

Reach emphasizes movement toward it.

Meet emphasizes satisfying it.

Important distinction: meet expectations vs exceed expectations

meet expectations

= perform at the expected level.

exceed expectations

= perform better than expected.

So:

> meeting expectations

is positive/adequate, but not necessarily exceptional.

Important distinction: meet a deadline vs finish on time

These are very close.

meet a deadline

= complete work by the required cutoff.

finish on time

= complete according to scheduled timing.

Deadline specifically means the latest acceptable time.

Important distinction: meet needs vs satisfy wants

meet needs

= provide what is required.

satisfy wants/desires

= provide what someone desires.

Needs and wants may differ.

Important distinction: meet demand vs create demand

meet demand

= supply enough for existing demand.

create demand

= cause more people to want/buy something.

Opposite sides of the market relationship.

Important distinction: meet costs vs cost

meet the cost

= have/provide money to pay it.

cost

= have a particular price.

> “The grant met the cost.”

= 資助支付了費用。

> “The course cost $500.”

= 課程費用是 $500。

Important distinction: meet a challenge vs solve a problem

meet a challenge

= face and respond successfully/adequately to a difficult demand.

solve a problem

= find a solution that removes/resolves the problem.

A challenge is something to rise to; a problem is something to solve.

Important distinction: meet opposition vs oppose meet opposition

= encounter resistance from others.

oppose something

= be the person/group providing the resistance.

Different direction.

Important distinction: meet someone's eye vs look at someone

look at someone

= direct your gaze toward them.

meet someone's eye

= your gaze and their gaze connect.

So eye contact is mutual.

Important distinction: meet halfway vs agree completely

meet halfway

= each side gives something up.

agree completely

= no compromise needed because views align.

Meeting halfway preserves some difference.

Important distinction: make ends meet vs earn money

earn money

= receive income through work/etc.

make ends meet

= have just enough income/resources to cover expenses.

Someone can earn money but still struggle to make ends meet.

Important distinction: meeting vs appointment

meeting

= people gather to discuss/do something.

appointment

= arranged time, often with:

- * doctor;
- * dentist;
- * professional;
- * service provider.

A doctor appointment can involve a meeting, but the nouns are not interchangeable generally.

Important distinction: meeting vs conference

meeting

= broad category, potentially small/informal.

conference

= usually larger/more formal organized gathering around a field/topic.

Every conference contains meetings, but not every meeting is a conference.

Family-extension sweep

The practical meet family is exceptionally useful across social, spatial, institutional, performance, and idiomatic meanings:

- * meet someone for the first time = 初次認識某人
- * meet someone by arrangement = 約見 / 碰面
- * meet at/in a place = 在某處會合
- * meet by chance = 偶遇
- * Nice to meet you = 很高興認識你
- * meet — formal gathering = 開會 / 會面
- * meet with someone = 與某人會晤
- * roads/rivers meet = 交會 / 匯合
- * meet requirements = 符合要求
- * meet standards = 達到標準
- * meet expectations = 符合預期
- * meet criteria/conditions = 符合條件
- * meet a deadline = 趕及期限
- * meet a target/goal = 達到目標
- * meet needs = 滿足需要
- * meet demand = 滿足需求
- * meet costs/expenses = 支付 / 應付開支
- * meet obligations = 履行義務
- * meet a challenge = 迎接 / 應對挑戰
- * meet opposition/resistance = 遭到反對 / 阻力
- * meet with approval/resistance = 獲得認同 / 遭遇阻力
- * meet someone's eye = 與某人對視
- * more than meets the eye = 比表面所見更複雜
- * meet halfway = 各讓一步
- * make ends meet = 維持生計 / 收支平衡
- * meet your match = 遇到旗鼓相當的對手
- * meeting — gathering = 會議
- * meeting — encounter = 會面
- * first meeting = 初次見面

The main semantic branches are:

> encounter / become acquainted > come together by arrangement

> converge spatially

> satisfy a requirement, need, standard, or target > encounter a challenge/reaction plus major idioms involving:

> eye contact, compromise, finances, and competition

Master comparison

Form / sense	MCQ-ready Traditional Chinese meaning
-----	-----
meet someone — first time	初次與某人相識 / 建立認識
meet someone — arrangement	按安排在指定時間 / 地點與某人碰面
meet someone by chance	沒有事先安排而偶然碰見某人
Nice to meet you	初次相識時表示友善的常用客套語
meet — group	某個群體為討論、工作或決策目的聚集 / 開會
meet with someone	與某人進行較正式、安排好的會面 / 討論
roads/rivers meet	兩條線、道路、河流等到達同一位置並相接 / 匯合
meet requirements	達到 / 滿足規定條件
meet standards	品質或表現至少達到指定水平
meet expectations	實際結果達到預期水平
meet criteria	滿足取得資格 / 合規所需要的條件
meet a deadline	在指定截止日期或之前完成工作
meet a target	實際表現達到預先設定的目標
meet needs	提供足夠條件、資源或服務以滿足需要
meet demand	提供足夠產品 / 服務以應付現有需求
meet costs/expenses	有 / 提供足夠金錢支付所需費用
meet obligations	按要求履行責任、付款或其他義務
meet a challenge	面對並設法成功 / 適當處理某項困難
meet opposition/resistance	遭遇別人的反對、阻力或抵制
meet someone's eye	與另一人的目光相接、形成眼神接觸
more than meets the eye	實際情況比第一眼看到的更複雜 / 有更多內情
meet halfway	雙方各自退讓部分要求以取得妥協
make ends meet	收入足以支付基本生活開支；維持生計

meet your match	遇到能力足以與自己抗衡、旗鼓相當的人
meeting — gathering	為討論、工作或決策等目的安排的會議 / 聚會
meeting — encounter	人與人見面 / 會晤的事件

For your original passage

> “I first met her when I was about thirteen, so I have known her, in one way or another, for more than ten years.”

This sentence gives us an especially useful meet vs know contrast.

met

marks the beginning:

> “I first met her when I was thirteen.”

= 「我十三歲時第一次認識她。」 have known describes the continuing relationship:

> “I have known her for more than ten years.”

= 「我認識她已超過十年。」

So the timeline is:

> meet

> → first encounter / relationship begins

then:

> know

> → relationship continues over time.

You cannot normally say:

>  “I have met her for ten years.”

if you mean:

> 「我認識她十年。」

You need:

>  "I have known her for ten years."

The most important learner contrasts are:

> I met her when I was thirteen.

> = 我十三歲時認識她。

> I'm meeting her tomorrow.

> = 我明天要跟她見面。

> I met her unexpectedly yesterday.

> = 我昨天意外遇到她。

> Nice to meet you.

> = 很高興認識你。

> The committee meets every week.

> = 委員會每週開會。

> The roads meet here.

> = 道路在這裡交會。

> meet the requirements

> = 符合要求

> meet the standard

> = 達到標準

> meet expectations

> = 符合期望

> meet a deadline

> = 趕及期限

> meet a target

> = 達標

> meet people's needs

> = 滿足人們的需要

> meet demand

> = 應付需求

> meet the cost

> = 支付費用

> meet a challenge

> = 迎接 / 應對挑戰

> meet with resistance

> = 遭到阻力

> meet someone's eyes

> = 與某人對視

> more than meets the eye

> = 比表面看來更複雜

> meet halfway

> = 各讓一步

> make ends meet

> = 勉強維持生計

> meet your match

> = 遇到旗鼓相當的對手

So meet is far richer than simply:

> meet = 見面

The key semantic map is:

MEET — people

→ first become acquainted

→ arranged meeting

→ accidental encounter

MEET — things

→ come together / intersect

MEET — abstract requirements

→ satisfy / reach the required level

MEET — difficulties/reactions

→ encounter

And in your original passage:

meet = “to encounter Mrs. Chan for the first time and begin knowing her as your teacher.”