

Word family: remember / remembers / remembered / remembering / remembrance / memorable / memorably

Base word: remember

Past tense / past participle: remembered

ing form: remembering

Related forms:

* remembrance (n.) — 記憶；追念；紀念

* memorable (adj.) — 難忘的；值得記住的

* memorably (adv.) — 令人難忘地

Important family note:

remember is closely related in meaning to memory, but for your project I would not merge the entire `memory / memorize / memorial / remember` set indiscriminately. Some are historically and semantically related but have developed distinct learner-facing branches. Since memory has already been curated separately, here I would focus on remember and its most useful direct extensions rather than repeat the full memory family.

Useful patterns:

* remember someone/something

* remember doing something

* remember to do something

* remember that... **

* remember when... **

* remember how/where/why... **

* remember someone as... **

* remember someone for... **

* if I remember correctly/rightly

* as far as I remember

* remember me to someone

* be remembered for

* in remembrance of

Part of speech: mainly verb

Meaning in this passage

> I still remember one family gathering when a younger child accidentally broke a cardboard bridge he had spent a long time making.

Here, remember means:

to still have a past event in your mind and be able to recall it — 記得；仍能回想起

The speaker can still mentally recall a particular family gathering from the past.

中文翻譯：

我仍然記得有一次家庭聚會，一個年紀較小的孩子不小心弄壞了 Leo 花了很長時間製作的紙板橋。

So here:

remember an event = 記得 / 回想得起過去發生的一件事

1. remember someone/something (記得某人 / 某事) — 記得；記得起

This is the core meaning and the one used in your passage.

Practice 1 — original sentence

> I still remember one family gathering when a younger child accidentally broke his cardboard bridge.

我仍然記得有一次家庭聚會，一個年紀較小的孩子不小心弄壞了他的紙板橋。

Practice 2

> I clearly remember my first day at school.

我很清楚地記得上學第一天。

Practice 3

> Do you remember that restaurant we went to last year?

你記得我們去年去過的那間餐廳嗎？

MCQ-ready definition:

remember someone/something = 腦中仍保留某人、某事或某段經歷的記憶，並能把它想起來

2. remember doing something — 記得曾經做過某事

This refers to a past action that actually happened.

Practice 1

> I remember meeting her for the first time.

我記得第一次見到她。

Practice 2

> He remembers visiting that museum as a child.

他記得小時候去過那間博物館。

MCQ-ready definition:

remember doing something = 記得自己過去曾經做過某件事

3. remember to do something — 記得要做某事

This is very different from remember doing.

It means not forgetting an action that still needs to be done.

Practice 1

> Please remember to lock the door.

請記得鎖門。

Practice 2

> I must remember to call my grandmother tonight.

我今晚一定要記得打電話給外婆。

MCQ-ready definition:

remember to do something = 沒有忘記某件需要做的事，並在適當時候去做

4. remember that... — 記得某個事實

Practice 1

> Remember that the meeting starts at nine.

記住會議九點開始。

Practice 2

> I suddenly remembered that I had left my keys at home.

我突然想起自己把鎖匙留在家裏了。

MCQ-ready definition:

remember that... = 記得或想起某個事實、資訊或情況

5. remember when... — 記得.....的時候

Practice 1

> Do you remember when we first met?

你記得我們第一次見面的時候嗎？

Practice 2

> I remember when this neighbourhood was much quieter.

我記得這個社區以前安靜得多的時候。

MCQ-ready definition:

remember when... = 回想得起某件事在過去發生的時間或情境

6. remember how/where/why... — 記得怎樣 / 在哪裏 / 為甚麼.....

Practice 1

> I can't remember where I put my phone.

我記不起把手機放在哪裏了。

Practice 2

> Do you remember how to get there?

你記得怎樣去那裏嗎？

MCQ-ready definition:

remember how/where/why... = 記得某個方法、地點、原因等資訊

7. remember suddenly = recall something that had temporarily slipped your mind — 想起來

Here remember describes the moment when information returns to your mind.

Practice 1

> I suddenly remembered his name.

我突然*想起他的名字*。

Practice 2

> Then she remembered where she had seen him before.

然後她*想起以前在哪裏見過他*。

MCQ-ready definition:

remember = 原本一時沒有想到，後來重新想起某項資訊或記憶

8. can't remember — 記不起；想不起

Practice 1

> I can't remember his name.

我*記不起他的名字*。

Practice 2

> She couldn't remember where she had parked the car.

她*想不起自己把車停在哪裏*。

MCQ-ready definition:

can't remember = 無法從記憶中找回某項資訊

9. remember someone as... — 記得某人是.....；對某人的印象是.....

This describes how someone remains in your memory.

Practice 1

> I remember him as a kind and patient teacher.

我記得他是一位善良而有耐性的老師。

Practice 2

> She is remembered as one of the greatest writers of her generation.

人們記得她是她那一代最出色的作家之一。

MCQ-ready definition:

remember someone as X = 在記憶中把某人視為具有某種身分、性格或形象的人

10. remember someone for something — 因某事而記住某人

Practice 1

> People remember her for her kindness.

人們因她的善良而記得她。

Practice 2

> The scientist is remembered for his important discoveries.

那位科學家因其重要發現而被後人記住。

MCQ-ready definition:

remember someone for something = 因某人的某項特質、成就或行為而長久記得他

11. be remembered — 被記住；留在人們記憶中

Practice 1

> His generosity will always be remembered.

他的慷慨會永遠被人記住。

Practice 2

> The event is still remembered by local residents.

當地居民至今仍記得那件事。

MCQ-ready definition:

be remembered = 某人或某事持續存在於別人的記憶中

12. remember someone who has died — 追念；懷念

Here remember becomes more solemn and commemorative.

Practice 1

> Every year, the family gathers to remember those who have died.

每年，家人都會聚在一起追念已離世的人。

Practice 2

> The ceremony was held to remember the victims.

這個儀式是為了悼念 / 追念遇難者而舉行。

MCQ-ready definition:

remember someone = 懷念或追念已離世的人，特別是在紀念或莊重場合

13. remember someone in a will — 在遺囑中留財產給某人

A less common but established formal use.

Practice 1

> She remembered several charities in her will.

她在遺囑中留了一部分財產給幾個慈善機構。

Practice 2

> He was surprised to learn that his aunt had remembered him in her will.

他得知姨母在遺囑中留了財產給他時很驚訝。

MCQ-ready definition:

remember someone in your will = 在遺囑中把金錢或財產留給某人

Register: formal/legal; useful recognition sense, but lower priority than the everyday senses.

14. remember me to someone — 代我向某人問好

A traditional expression, especially BrE; somewhat old-fashioned/formal but still recognizable.

Practice 1

> Please remember me to your parents.

請*代我向你父母問好*。

Practice 2

> Remember me to your grandmother when you see her.

你見到外婆時，請*代我向她問好*。

MCQ-ready definition:

remember me to someone = 請代我向某人問好

Register: somewhat traditional / less common in everyday modern speech.

15. if I remember correctly/rightly — 如果我沒有記錯

Practice 1

> If I remember correctly, the shop closes at eight.

如果我沒有記錯，那間店八點關門。

Practice 2

> If I remember rightly, we met in 2022.

*如果我沒有記錯，我們是在 2022 年認識的。

MCQ-ready definition:

if I remember correctly/rightly = 如果我的記憶沒有出錯

16. as far as I remember — 據我記得；如果我沒有記錯

Practice 1

> As far as I remember, no one complained.

*據我記得，沒有人投訴。

Practice 2

> As far as I remember, she was already working there at the time.

*如果我沒有記錯，她當時已經在那裏工作。

MCQ-ready definition:

as far as I remember = 根據自己目前能回想起來的內容

17. remember clearly/vividly/fondly — 清楚 / 生動 / 懷念地記得

Adverbs change how the memory is held.

Practice 1

> I vividly remember the day we moved house.

我*非常清晰地記得*我們搬家的那一天。

Practice 2

> She fondly remembers summers at her grandparents' home.

她*很懷念地回想*童年時在祖父母家度過的夏天。

MCQ-ready definition:

remember + adverb = 以某種清晰度或情感態度回想過去

18. remembrance — 記憶；追念；紀念

More formal/literary than ordinary memory.

Practice 1

> The ceremony was held in remembrance of those who had died.

這個儀式是為了紀念 / 追念已離世的人。

Practice 2

> She kept the photograph as a remembrance of their friendship.

她保留那張照片，作為兩人友誼的紀念。

MCQ-ready definition:

remembrance = 對某人或某事的記憶、追念或紀念

19. in remembrance of — 為了紀念 / 追念

Practice 1

> A tree was planted in remembrance of the victims.

人們種下一棵樹，以紀念遇難者。

Practice 2

> They held a concert in remembrance of their former teacher.

他們舉辦了一場音樂會，追念以前的老師。

MCQ-ready definition:

in remembrance of = 為了紀念或追念某人 / 某事

20. memorable — 難忘的；值得記住的

Practice 1

> It was a truly memorable evening.

那是一個真正令人難忘的晚上。

Practice 2

> Leo gave a memorable answer that made everyone laugh.

Leo 給了一個令人印象深刻、難以忘記的回答，令大家都笑了。

MCQ-ready definition:

memorable = 特別到令人很容易長久記住的

21. memorably — 令人難忘地

Practice 1

> She memorably described the city as a place that never sleeps.

她曾令人印象深刻地形容這座城市為「不夜城」。

Practice 2

> The actor memorably played the role in the original film.

那名演員在原版電影中對這個角色的演繹令人難忘。

MCQ-ready definition:

memorably = 以令人印象深刻、難以忘記的方式

Important distinction 1: remember doing vs remember to do

This is the most important grammar contrast in the whole family.

remember doing something

The action happened first, and later you recall it.

> I remember locking the door.

我記得自己鎖了門。

Meaning:

I have a memory of doing it.

remember to do something

You do not forget an action that needs to happen.

> I remembered to lock the door.

我*記得要鎖門，而且真的鎖了*。

Meaning:

I did not forget to do it.

So:

* remember doing → 記得*做過*

* remember to do → 記得*要做*

Important distinction 2: remember vs remind

These are closely related but grammatically very different.

remember

The memory happens inside your own mind.

> I remember the trip.

我記得那次旅行。 remind

Something causes another person to remember.

> Please remind me about the meeting.

請提醒我那個會議。

So:

* remember = 自己記得

* remind someone = 提醒某人

Do not say:

> ❌ Please remember me about the meeting.

Say:

> ✅ Please remind me about the meeting.

Important distinction 3: remember vs recall

Both can mean 記起 / 回想.

remember

very common and broad

> I remember his face.

我記得他的樣子。 recall

often slightly more formal and can emphasize deliberately bringing information back to mind

> I can't recall his exact words.

我記不起他的原話。

In many contexts they overlap, but remember is much more frequent in everyday speech.

Important distinction 4: remember vs memory

remember

verb

> I remember that day.

我記得那一天。 memory

noun

> I have a clear memory of that day.

我對那一天有很清晰的記憶。

This is why I would keep memory as its own curated family rather than repeat all its senses here.

Important distinction 5: remember vs memorize

These are very different.

remember

= retain or recall information

> I remember her name.

我記得她的名字。 memorize

= deliberately learn something so that you can reproduce it from memory

> I memorized the poem.

我把那首詩背熟了。

So:

* remember = 記得

* memorize = 背熟；記住

Important distinction 6: remember vs recognize

remember

= recall from memory

> I remember meeting him.

我記得見過他。 recognize

= identify someone/something because you have encountered them before

> I recognized him immediately.

我立即認出他。

You may recognize a face but not remember the person's name.

Important distinction 7: remember someone vs remember someone as X

remember someone simply retain that person in memory.

> I remember my old teacher.

我記得以前的老師。

remember someone as X

describes the image or identity in which they remain in your memory.

> I remember him as a very patient teacher.

我記得他是一位很有耐性的老師。

Important distinction 8: remember someone for X vs remember someone as X

remember someone for X focuses on the reason they remain famous/remembered.

> She is remembered for her kindness.

人們因她的善良而記住她。

remember someone as X

focuses on how people characterize them in memory.

> She is remembered as a generous leader.

人們記得她是一位慷慨的領袖。

Important distinction 9: remember vs not forget

These can overlap.

> Remember to call me.

> Don't forget to call me.

Both can mean:

記得打電話給我。*

But:

* remember to... frames the desired successful remembering

* don't forget to... warns against forgetting

Important distinction 10: remember clearly vs vaguely remember

Memories can have different degrees of clarity.

remember clearly

= 清楚記得

vaguely remember

= 隱約記得

> I vaguely remember meeting him once.

我隱約記得曾經見過他一次。

This does not create a new meaning of remember; it changes the strength/clarity of the memory.

Important distinction 11: remember vs commemorate

remember

can simply mean keep someone in your thoughts or memory.

commemorate means formally honor or mark the memory of a person/event.

> We remember those who died.

我們追念死者。

> The monument commemorates those who died.

這座紀念碑是為了紀念死者。

Commemorate is more formal and public.

Important distinction 12: memorable vs remembered memorable

= naturally likely to be remembered because it is striking or special

> a memorable trip

一次難忘的旅程 remembered

= actually retained in memory

> a widely remembered event

一件很多人仍記得的事件

Something can be memorable even before enough time has passed to say it is widely remembered.

Family-extension note

Remember has a relatively compact semantic core:

keep or bring something back into the mind

Most of its learner difficulty comes not from dozens of unrelated meanings, but from grammar patterns and perspective shifts, especially:

- * remember doing
- * remember to do
- * remember that
- * remember how/where/when
- * remember someone as
- * remember someone for

There are also a few useful extensions:

- * remember the dead → 追念
- * remember someone in a will → 在這囑中留財產給某人
- * remembrance → 追念 / 紀念
- * memorable → 難忘的

For your project, I would not merge all of `memory`, `memorize`, `memorial`, and `remember` into one giant learner family. The manual asks us to include useful family relationships without overclaiming that every historically related form belongs to one productive modern lexical family.

Master comparison

Form / pattern	Traditional Chinese	Core idea
-----	-----	-----
remember someone/something	記得某人 / 某事	retain in memory
remember doing X	記得做過 X	recall past action
remember to do X	記得要做 X	not forget future/required action
remember that... 	記得.....	recall a fact
remember when... 	記得.....的時候	recall past time
remember how/where... 	記得怎樣 / 在哪裏.....	recall information
suddenly remember	突然想起	memory returns can't remember	記不起	unable to retrieve memory
remember someone as X	記得某人是 X	remembered identity/image
remember someone for X	因 X 而記住某人	remembered reason be remembered	被記住	remain in others' memory

remember the dead	追念死者	commemorative memory
remember someone in a will	在遺囑中留財產給某人	formal/legal extension
remember me to X	代我向 X 問好	traditional expression
if I remember correctly	如果我沒有記錯	qualify memory
as far as I remember	據我記得	based on present recollection vividly remember	清晰地記得	strong memory
fondly remember	懷念地記得	affectionate memory remembrance	記憶；追念；紀念	formal remembering
in remembrance of	為紀念 / 追念	commemorative expression memorable	難忘的	worth remembering
memorably	令人難忘地	in a memorable way

For your original sentence

> I still remember one family gathering when a younger child accidentally broke a cardboard bridge he had spent a long time making.

Here:

remember = 記得；仍能回想起過去發生的事情

The speaker is looking back on a specific past event that remains clearly in memory.

A natural Traditional Chinese rendering is:

> 我仍然記得有一次家庭聚會，一個年紀較小的孩子不小心弄壞了他花了很長時間製作的紙板橋。

The key semantic structure is:

past event happened

→ memory remains

→ speaker can recall it now

So this is the straightforward recall a past event sense, not remember to do something and not the commemorative sense 追念.