Important distinction: **slide vs slip****

You have already mapped slip, and this is the most important contrast.

slide

= move smoothly across a surface, deliberately or otherwise.

> “The box slid across the floor.”

「盒子在地板上滑動。」

slip

= accidentally lose footing/grip, often suddenly.

> “I slipped on the wet floor.”

「我在濕地板上滑了一跤。」

So:

> slide = 滑動這個移動過程

> slip = 意外打滑 / 失足

A slip can cause a slide.

---

Important distinction: slide vs glide

slide

usually involves contact with a surface.

glide

emphasizes smooth, effortless movement and does not necessarily involve surface contact.

> box slides across table

> = 盒子沿桌面滑

> bird glides through air

> = 鳥在空中滑翔

---

Important distinction: slide vs scroll

In digital interfaces:

**slide**

= move an object/control across the screen.

**scroll**

= move the displayed content vertically/horizontally to reveal more.

> slide the control

> = 滑動控制器

> scroll down the page

> = 向下捲動頁面

---

Important distinction: **slide vs swipe**

**slide**

= continuous smooth movement.

**swipe**

= quick finger movement across a touchscreen.

> slide the brightness control

> = 滑動亮度滑桿

> swipe left

> = 向左滑動手勢

---

Important distinction: **slide vs fall**

**slide**

= descend/move while maintaining some contact or gradual movement.

**fall**

= move downward through gravity, generally without support.

> rock slides down the hill

> = 岩石沿山坡滑下

> rock falls from the cliff

> = 岩石從懸崖掉下

---

Important distinction: slide vs decline

For statistics/business:

slide

= fall, often with a sense of continuing downward movement.

decline

= more neutral/formal decrease.

> “Sales slid 10%.”

journalistic/dynamic.

> “Sales declined 10%.”

neutral/business-like.

Both:

「銷售額下降 10%」

---

Important distinction: slide vs presentation

slide

= one page/screen.

presentation

= the whole talk/material.

> one slide

> = 一張投影片

> a 20-slide presentation
> = 一份有 20 張投影片的簡報

Do not use slide to mean the entire presentation unless context informally permits it.

---

Important distinction: slide vs slide deck

slide

= one presentation page.

slide deck

= all slides as one presentation set.

> “Send me the slide.”

= 把那一張投影片給我。

> “Send me the slide deck.”

= 把整份簡報給我。

---

Important distinction: slide — presentation vs photographic slide

Same noun, very different technologies.

> = 簡報投影片

Photography

> colour slide

> = 彩色透明正片 / 幻燈片

Historically, modern presentation terminology developed from projected slides.

---

Important distinction: **slide — playground vs movement****

Verb:

> “The box slid.”

= 盒子滑動了。

Noun:

> “The child went down the slide.”

= 孩子滑下滑梯。

Same core image of smooth downward movement, but one is an action and one an object.

---

Important distinction: **slid vs slided****

Standard English:

> slide → **slid** → **slid****

Examples:

> “The book slid off the desk.”

> “The car had slid into the barrier.”

Not normally:

> *slided***
