**MCQ-ready definition:****

**showstopper = 精彩或搶眼到令觀眾特別注意、甚至轟動全場的人或事物****

---

Important distinction 1: **stop doing vs stop to do****

This is the **most important grammar distinction** for **stop****.

**stop doing X****

= discontinue X

> I **stopped reading****.

我**不再看書了 / 停止閱讀****。

**stop to do X****

= pause another activity in order to do X

> I **stopped to read the sign****.

我**停下來看那塊牌****。

The semantic sequence is completely different:

**stop doing****

→ X stops.

**stop to do****

→ another activity stops; X begins.

Important distinction 2: **stop vs finish****

**stop****

means cease doing something; it may be unfinished.

> I **stopped writing****.

我停止寫了。

Maybe the writing is incomplete.

**finish****

means reach completion.

> I **finished writing****.

我寫完了。

So:

**stop ≠ necessarily finish****

---

Important distinction 3: **stop vs pause****

**stop****

may be temporary or permanent.

**pause****

specifically suggests a temporary interruption, with possible continuation.

> She paused before answering.

她回答前停頓了一下。

> She stopped speaking.

她停止說話。

The second does not tell us whether she will resume.

---

Important distinction 4: stop vs quit

stop

very broad.

> stop talking

> 停止說話

quit

often means permanently give up an activity, job, or habit.

> quit smoking

> 戒煙

> quit your job

> 辭職

So quit usually suggests a stronger or more lasting decision.

---

Important distinction 5: stop vs prevent

stop

can interrupt something already happening OR prevent it.

prevent

focuses on stopping something before it happens.

> The police stopped the fight.

警方制止了已經發生的打鬥。

> Security measures prevented a fight.

保安措施防止了打鬥發生。

Important distinction 6: stop someone vs stop someone from doing X

stop someone

can mean physically halt or intercept them.

> The police stopped the driver.

stop someone from doing X

means prevent their action.

> The police stopped him from driving away.

警察阻止他駕車離開。

---

Important distinction 7: stop working — person vs machine

Person

> He stopped working at five.

他五點停止工作。

Machine

> The computer stopped working.

電腦停止運作 / 壞了。

Same grammar, different contextual interpretation.

---

Important distinction 8: stop at vs stop by

stop at a place

physically stop there.

> The bus stops at the station.

巴士在車站停。

stop by

visit briefly and informally.

> I'll stop by after work.

我下班後會順道過來一下。

Stop by is a phrasal extension rather than another core meaning of bare stop.

---

35. stop by — 順道探訪；短暫到訪

Practice 1

> I'll stop by your office later.

我稍後會順道到你辦公室一下。

Practice 2

> She stopped by for a cup of tea.

她順道過來喝了杯茶。

MCQ-ready definition:

stop by = 非正式地短暫到訪某人或某個地方

---

36. stop off — 中途短暫停留

Especially BrE.

### Practice 1

> We stopped off in Singapore on our way to Australia.

前往澳洲途中，我們在新加坡短暫停留。

### Practice 2

> Let's stop off for lunch.

我們中途停一下吃午飯吧。

MCQ-ready definition:

stop off = 在前往目的地途中短暫停留

---

Important distinction 9: stop by vs stop off

stop by

usually visit a person/place briefly.

> I'll stop by your house.

我會順道到你家。

stop off

often describes a break during a journey.

> We stopped off in Bangkok.

我們途中在曼谷停留。

---

Important distinction 10: a stop vs a station

stop

can be a designated place where a vehicle stops.

> bus stop

巴士站

**station**

usually a larger facility/building.

> railway **station**

火車站

So:

* **bus stop** → often just a roadside point

* **bus station** → larger terminal/facility

Important distinction 11: **stop vs stay**

**stop**

focuses on interrupting movement/journey.

**stay**

focuses on remaining somewhere for a period.

> We **stopped** at a hotel on the way.

我們途中在酒店停下。

> We **stayed** at the hotel for three nights.

我們在酒店住了三晚。

Important distinction 12: **come to a stop vs stop**

Both describe ending movement.

> The car **stopped**.

車停了。

> The car **came to a stop**.

車逐漸 / 最終停下來。

**Come to a stop** puts greater focus on the transition into complete stillness.

---

Important distinction 13: **stop short vs stop short of****

**stop short****

= suddenly stop physically.

> He **stopped short****.

他突然停住。

**stop short of doing X****

= almost do X, but not quite.

> She **stopped short of accusing him****.

她差一點就直接指責他，但最後沒有。

These should not be confused.

---

Important distinction 14: **stop at nothing vs stop something****

This idiom reverses the ordinary intuition.

> He'll **stop at nothing****.

does **not** mean he will stop.

It means:

**nothing will make him stop****

→ 他會**不惜一切 / 不擇手段****。

Family-extension note

**Stop** is a strong learner word because its core semantic idea is simple:

### **movement, action, activity, or continuation comes to an end****

From this, several highly productive branches develop:

1. **cease an activity****

- * stop talking
- * stop working

2. **cease movement****

- * the car stopped

3. **cause something/someone to cease****

- * stop the game
- * stop someone

4. **prevent****

- * stop someone from doing something

5. **a stopping point/event****

- * bus stop
- * next stop
- * make a stop

6. **fixed figurative extensions****

- * put a stop to
- * stop at nothing
- * stop short
- * stop dead

The most important thing is **not** to split every object after **stop** into a separate lexical sense. **Stop talking**, **stop raining**, and **stop hurting** all retain the same basic semantic structure: **an ongoing process ceases****.

## The grammar pair to memorize

If you remember only one thing about **stop**, make it this:

> **I stopped talking.****

> 我**不再說話了****。

versus

> I stopped to talk to him.

> 我停下原本正在做的事，去跟他談話。

stop + -ing = stop that activity

stop + to-infinitive = stop another activity in order to do this one

That difference is small in form but huge in meaning. 😊
