中文：

看起來或感覺像沒有重量一樣

---

Important distinction 1: weight vs mass

weight

in everyday English = how heavy something is.

mass

scientifically = amount of matter in an object.

In strict physics, weight depends on gravitational force, whereas mass does not.

For ordinary learner English:

> weight = 重量

> mass = 質量

---

Important distinction 2: weight vs heaviness

weight

normal measurable noun.

**heaviness**

the quality or feeling of being heavy.

> What's the weight?

重量是多少？

> I felt a heaviness in my legs.

我感到雙腿沉重。

Important distinction 3: **weight vs burden**

**weight**

can figuratively mean emotional pressure.

**burden**

more directly means something difficult that must be carried or dealt with.

> the weight of responsibility

責任的重擔

> a financial burden

財務負擔

Important distinction 4: **emotional weight vs emotion**

**emotion**

the feeling itself.

**emotional weight**

the significance or seriousness created by those feelings.

In your passage:

> emotional weight

does not simply mean “emotion.”

It means:

**the gift carries deep feeling and meaning**

---

Important distinction 5: **weight vs importance**

**importance**

direct neutral word.

**weight**

often suggests importance that influences judgment or gives something gravity.

> the importance of the issue

事情的重要性

> his words carried weight

他的說話有分量

Important distinction 6: **carry weight vs give weight**

**carry weight**

already possesses influence.

> Her opinion carries weight.

她的意見有分量。

**give weight to**

you assign importance to it.

> Give weight to the evidence.

重視這項證據。

Important distinction 7: **pull your weight vs carry weight****

Completely different idioms.

**pull your weight****

做好自己應做的一份

**carry weight****

有影響力 / 有分量

> He pulls his weight on the team.

他有做好本分。

> His opinion carries weight.

他的意見有影響力。

---

Important distinction 8: **weight vs pressure****

**weight****

may metaphorically describe burden.

**pressure****

usually emphasizes external demands or stress.

> weight of responsibility

責任帶來的沉重感

> pressure from work

工作壓力

---

Important distinction 9: weight = physical heaviness vs weight = importance

Physical

> the weight of the box

箱子的重量

Figurative

> the weight of her words

她說話的分量

These are core polysemy branches.

---

Important distinction 10: weight = importance vs weight = statistical weighting

Figurative importance

> give more weight to experience

更重視經驗

Mathematical weighting

> experience has a 40% weight

經驗佔 40% 權重

Related conceptually, but the latter is formalized numerically.

Important distinction 11: weighty vs heavy

heavy

ordinary physical heaviness.

weighty

physical heaviness possible, but often more literary/formal.

More importantly:

> weighty issue

means **重大嚴肅的問題****

not simply physically heavy.

---

Family-extension note

**Weight** has several major modern branches:

1. **physical heaviness****

- * weight
- * body weight
- * net weight
- * weight limit

2. **heavy object****

- * a weight
- * lift weights

3. **importance / significance****

- * carry weight
- * give weight to
- * emotional weight

4. **burden / pressure****

- * weight of responsibility
- * weight on your mind
- * weight off your mind

5. **influence / power****

- * throw your weight around

6. **fair share of work****

- * pull your weight

### 7. **numerical weighting**

- * weighted average
- * weighting
- * weighted towards

### 8. **design / technical use**

- * font weight

For your passage, the important jump is:

### **physical weight → metaphorical emotional significance**

The gift has no special physical heaviness; it has **emotional heaviness / depth / significance**.

For your original sentence

> I decided to give her that album because I wanted to give her something with emotional **weight** rather than something merely practical.

Here:

**emotional weight = 情感分量；由共同回憶、感情和私人意義帶來的深度****

A natural Traditional Chinese rendering is:

> 我決定送她那本相簿，因為我想送她一份**有情感分量**的禮物，而不只是單純實用的東西。

Here **「情感分量」** is especially good because it preserves the metaphor in English:

> **physical weight → emotional significance****

So the gift may have been physically light, but emotionally, it was **heavy with memories and meaning****.
