

Word family: pop-up / pop-ups / pop up / popped up / popping up / popup

I'll treat pop-up as its own lexical family rather than reopening every unrelated sense of bare pop. The key grammatical distinction is crucial:

* pop up = phrasal verb, no hyphen

* pop-up = noun or attributive adjective

* popup = common one-word technical spelling in computing/UI contexts, though style varies

This follows the same whole-family approach as the fullest reference: established extensions should be swept broadly without inventing artificial derivatives.

Major constructions/extensions:

* pop up suddenly

* pop up on screen

* pop up in conversation/search results

* problem/question/opportunity pops up

* pop-up shop/store

* pop-up restaurant/café/bar

* pop-up kitchen

* pop-up stall

* pop-up market

* pop-up event

* pop-up exhibition/gallery

* pop-up clinic/site

* pop-up retail

* pop-up activation

* pop-up space

* pop-up residency

* pop-up window

* pop-up ad

* pop-up blocker

* pop-up menu

* pop-up notification

* pop-up book

* pop-up card

* pop-up tent

* pop-up canopy

* pop-up camper

* pop-up roof

* pop-up toaster

* pop-up headlights

* pop-up flash

* pop-up sprinkler

* pop-up drain

- * pop-up socket/outlet
- * pop-up target
- * baseball pop-up
- * surfing pop-up

Your passage:

> “Better still, test the concept through weekend pop-ups, an Instagram pre-order dessert menu, or a booth at a community market.”

Meaning in this passage

Here, pop-ups is a plural noun meaning:

> temporary short-term businesses, food-service operations, stalls, or events opened for a limited period in order to test a concept or sell products without committing to a permanent location.

For Kam Chai, this could mean temporarily selling his café food/drinks:

- * for a weekend;
- * inside another venue;
- * from a rented temporary space;
- * at a market;
- * through a short café residency.

繁體中文：

- * 期間限定店
- * 快閃店
- * 快閃餐飲活動
- * 短期試營運據點

In this exact passage:

> “weekend pop-ups”

= 「週末快閃店 / 週末短期試營運」

The purpose is not mainly publicity. It is to discover:

> Will real customers actually pay for the café concept?

A. PHRASAL VERB: POP UP = APPEAR SUDDENLY

1. pop up = appear suddenly or unexpectedly (突然出現 ; 冒出來) **

This is the conceptual source of most pop-up compounds.

> “A message popped up on the screen.”

「螢幕上突然彈出一則訊息。」

> “A new café popped up around the corner.”

「轉角處突然開了一間新的咖啡店。」

The central image is:

> not there / not visible → suddenly there.

B. PERSON POPS UP

2. someone pops up = someone suddenly appears (某人突然出現) **

> “He keeps popping up everywhere.”

「他好像到處都會突然出現。」

Often humorous.

C. OBJECT POPS UP

3. something pops up = suddenly rise or become visible

> “The toast popped up.”

「多士突然彈了上來。」

This physical rising sense helps explain:

* pop-up toaster

* pop-up headlights

* pop-up sprinkler.

D. PROBLEM POPS UP

4. a problem pops up = an unexpected problem arises (突然出現問題) **

> “A few technical problems popped up.”

「突然出現了幾個技術問題。」

This is extremely common figurative English.

E. QUESTION POPS UP

5. a question pops up = a question suddenly arises

> “An important question popped up during the meeting.”

「會議期間突然出現了一個重要問題。」

F. ISSUE POPS UP

6. an issue pops up = 問題突然出現

Similar to:

* arise

* crop up

* come up.

G. OPPORTUNITY POPS UP

7. an opportunity pops up = unexpected opportunity appears (突然出現機會) **

> “If a suitable location pops up, call me.”

「如果突然有合適的地點出現，便告訴我。」

So pop up is not inherently negative.

H. NAME / RESULT POPS UP

8. someone's name pops up = suddenly appears in discussion/search/etc.

> “Her name keeps popping up in the search results.”

「她的名字不斷在搜尋結果中出現。」

I. TOPIC POPS UP

9. a topic pops up = unexpectedly enters conversation

> “The café idea popped up again over dinner.”

「吃飯時又突然談起了咖啡店這個構想。」

J. SHOP / BUSINESS POPS UP

10. a business pops up = opens/appears suddenly

> “Small coffee shops have popped up across the district.”

「區內突然開了很多小型咖啡店。」

This does not necessarily mean they are temporary.

Compare:

> cafés popped up = suddenly appeared/opened > pop-up cafés = deliberately temporary cafés.

Important distinction.

K. POP-UP = TEMPORARY BUSINESS

11. pop-up = temporary commercial operation (快閃店 / 短期商業據點)

This is your exact base noun sense.

> “They ran a pop-up for three weekends.”

「他們連續三個週末經營了一個快閃店。」

Plural:

> pop-ups.

L. POP-UP SHOP / STORE

12. pop-up shop / pop-up store = temporary retail shop (快閃店) **

Opened for:

- * days;
- * weeks;
- * months;

rather than as a permanent branch.

Possible purposes:

- * test demand;
- * launch product;
- * create publicity;
- * enter new neighborhood;
- * sell seasonal items.

M. POP-UP RETAIL

13. pop-up retail = 快閃零售

The broader business model/category of operating temporary retail spaces.

N. POP-UP RESTAURANT

14. pop-up restaurant = temporary restaurant operation (快閃餐廳) **

May operate:

- * inside another restaurant;

- * in an event space;
- * in a temporary leased venue;
- * outdoors.

Often used by chefs to test concepts before permanent opening.

Very close to your passage.

O. POP-UP CAFÉ

15. pop-up café = 快閃咖啡店

Exactly what Kam Chai could use to test:

- * menu;
- * pricing;
- * demand;
- * workflow;
- * branding.

P. POP-UP BAR

16. pop-up bar = temporary bar (快閃酒吧) **

Often:

- * seasonal;
- * themed;
- * event-based.

Q. POP-UP KITCHEN

17. pop-up kitchen = temporary food-preparation/service operation (快閃廚房 / 臨時餐飲項目) **

May appear inside another hospitality venue.

Not automatically the same as a:

> ghost kitchen / cloud kitchen.

R. POP-UP BAKERY

18. pop-up bakery = 快閃烘焙店

A temporary outlet or event selling baked goods.

S. POP-UP FOOD STALL

19. pop-up food stall = 臨時 / 快閃食品攤位

Especially natural for:

- * markets;
- * festivals;
- * testing a food business.

T. POP-UP MARKET

20. pop-up market = temporary market event (快閃市集) **

Usually involves multiple:

- * sellers;
- * artists;
- * food vendors;
- * independent brands.

U. POP-UP SHOP VS POP-UP MARKET

pop-up shop

normally one brand/operator occupying a temporary retail location.

pop-up market

temporary event containing several vendors.

Your passage's:

> “weekend pop-ups”

could theoretically take either form.

V. POP-UP EVENT

21. pop-up event = temporary, often short-notice or short-duration event (快閃活動) **

Broad umbrella term.

Could involve:

- * retail;
- * food;
- * entertainment;
- * brand promotion;
- * art.

W. POP-UP EXPERIENCE

22. pop-up experience = temporary immersive/promotional visitor experience

Marketing/entertainment phrase.

Usually intended to be:

- * limited-time;
- * distinctive;
- * shareable.

X. POP-UP ACTIVATION

23. pop-up activation = temporary branded promotional installation/event (快閃品牌活動) **

Marketing term.

A brand may create a short-term physical experience to:

- * launch something;
- * engage customers;
- * gather publicity.

Y. BRAND ACTIVATION VS POP-UP

activation

marketing activity intended to engage customers with a brand.

pop-up

temporary physical/event format.

A pop-up can be a brand activation, but not every activation is a pop-up.

Z. POP-UP SPACE

24. pop-up space = temporary commercial/event premises (快閃場地) **

A location rented/used for short periods.

AA. POP-UP VENUE

25. pop-up venue = temporary event/location venue

AB. POP-UP RESIDENCY

26. pop-up residency = temporary period operating inside another venue (短期駐場) **

Especially food, art and entertainment.

Example:

> a chef runs a two-month residency inside a bar.

This can function similarly to a pop-up while using an existing host venue.

AC. POP-UP EXHIBITION

27. pop-up exhibition = temporary exhibition (快閃展覽) **

Usually short-lived and installed in:

- * vacant shop;
- * gallery;
- * public venue.

AD. POP-UP GALLERY

28. pop-up gallery = temporary art gallery (快閃畫廊) **

AE. POP-UP PERFORMANCE

29. pop-up performance = temporary/surprise performance (快閃表演) **

May be scheduled but short-lived.

Do not automatically equate it with a flash mob, which has more specific crowd-performance associations.

AF. POP-UP CLINIC

30. pop-up clinic = temporary healthcare clinic (臨時 / 快閃診所) **

Created for short-term access to a service.

Examples:

- * vaccination;
- * screening;
- * outreach.

AG. POP-UP VACCINATION SITE

31. pop-up vaccination site = 臨時疫苗接種站

A temporary service location.

This is part of the wider:

> temporary-service-facility branch.

AH. POP-UP SERVICE CENTRE

32. pop-up service centre = temporary customer/public-service location

Compositional but well established.

AI. POP-UP PARK / PUBLIC SPACE

33. pop-up park = temporary public recreational space (臨時公園 / 快閃公共空間) **

Used in:

- * urban planning;
- * temporary urbanism;
- * community projects.

AJ. POP-UP CYCLE LANE / STREET INTERVENTION

34. pop-up infrastructure = quickly installed temporary infrastructure

Examples can include:

- * cycle lanes;
- * pedestrian space;
- * seating.

Common in temporary/tactical urbanism discourse.

The lexical core remains:

> short-term and rapidly installed.

AK. POP-UP = TEMPORARY, NOT NECESSARILY SURPRISE

An important distinction.

A pop-up shop can be:

> advertised for months beforehand.

So pop-up in commercial usage does not necessarily mean unexpected.

Its core is usually:

> temporary / limited-duration / non-permanent.

The phrasal verb pop up, however, often carries the stronger idea:

> suddenly/unexpectedly appear.

AL. POP-UP VS PERMANENT STORE

pop-up

temporary, limited-duration.

permanent store intended for ongoing operation.

Kam Chai uses pop-ups because they reduce commitment before a permanent café.

AM. POP-UP VS KIOSK

kiosk

small fixed/semi-fixed retail unit.

pop-up

defined mainly by temporary duration.

A kiosk could itself be operated as a pop-up.

AN. POP-UP VS MARKET STALL

market stall

physical vending setup at a market.

pop-up

broader temporary business concept.

A weekend market stall can function as:

> a café pop-up.

AO. POP-UP VS FOOD TRUCK

food truck

mobile food business format.

pop-up

temporary event/location business.

A food truck can operate regularly for years and therefore need not be a pop-up.

AP. POP-UP VS SEASONAL STORE

seasonal store

opens according to a season and may recur every year.

pop-up

temporary by nature, but not necessarily seasonal or recurring.

There is substantial overlap.

AQ. POP-UP VS CONCESSION

concession business granted a right to operate within another venue/location.

pop-up

temporary duration is the defining feature.

A temporary concession could be a pop-up.

AR. POP-UP VS STORE-IN-STORE

store-in-store

one retailer/brand operates a defined space inside another retailer.

pop-up

may be hosted inside another business but is temporary.

A store-in-store can be permanent.

AS. POP-UP VS FLASH SALE

pop-up

temporary physical or service operation.

flash sale

short-duration price promotion.

A pop-up can hold a flash sale, but they are not synonyms.

AT. COMPUTING: POP-UP WINDOW

Now a completely different major branch.

35. pop-up window = window that appears automatically or in response to an action (彈出視窗)

> “A pop-up window appeared.”

「一個彈出視窗出現了。」

Historically especially associated with web browsers, though the term is broader.

AU. POP-UP AD

36. pop-up ad / pop-up advertisement = 彈出式廣告

A digital advertisement that appears:

- * in a separate window;
- * or loosely, as an overlaid interface element.

In stricter UI terminology, not every overlay is literally a separate pop-up window.

AV. POP-UP BLOCKER

37. pop-up blocker = 彈出視窗封鎖功能

Browser/software feature intended to prevent unwanted pop-ups.

AW. ALLOW POP-UPS

38. allow pop-ups = 允許網站開啟彈出視窗

Browser-setting phrase.

Some legitimate sites need them for:

- * authentication;

- * documents;
- * payment flows.

AX. BLOCKED POP-UP

39. blocked pop-up = 已被瀏覽器阻擋的彈出視窗

AY. POP-UNDER

40. pop-under = window/ad opened behind the active browser window (背後彈出廣告) **

Contrast:

pop-up

appears over/in front of current content.

pop-under opens underneath/behind it.

Specialist web-advertising term.

AZ. POP-UP MENU

41. pop-up menu = menu that appears temporarily at a relevant screen location (彈出式選單) **

You encountered this under menu.

May be:

- * context-sensitive;
- * pointer-triggered;
- * touch-triggered.

BA. CONTEXT MENU VS POP-UP MENU

context menu defined by context-specific commands.

pop-up menu

defined by how/where it appears.

A context menu is commonly a type of pop-up menu.

BB. POP-UP DIALOG

42. pop-up dialog = suddenly appearing dialog/panel

Everyday UI wording.

Technical design systems may distinguish:

- * dialog;
- * modal;
- * popover;
- * popup.

So pop-up is often a broad user-facing label, not a precise UI taxonomy.

BC. POP-UP NOTIFICATION

43. pop-up notification = temporary notification appearing on screen (彈出通知)

Examples:

- * incoming message;
- * update;
- * warning.

BD. POP-UP MESSAGE

44. pop-up message = 彈出訊息

A message appearing in a temporary interface element.

BE. POP-UP WARNING

45. pop-up warning = 彈出式警告

BF. POPUP / POP-UP — TECH SPELLING

46. popup = one-word technical spelling

Software developers/design systems often write:

* popup

* Popup

as a component/type name.

General edited prose often still uses:

> pop-up

So database guidance:

general English

pop-up window

code/component terminology

Popup

may be correct according to framework/style guide.

BG. POP-UP VS MODAL

pop-up

broadly something that appears over/near content.

modal dialog specifically prevents normal interaction with the underlying interface until dealt with.

Therefore:

> not every pop-up is modal.

BH. POP-UP VS POPOVER

popover

UI panel anchored to a control/element.

pop-up

broader general label.

A popover can function as a kind of popup.

BI. POP-UP VS TOOLTIP

tooltip

small contextual label/help information usually associated with hovering/focusing.

pop-up

broader and often larger/more interactive.

Do not call every tooltip a pop-up in technical UI documentation.

BJ. POP-UP VS TOAST NOTIFICATION

toast

brief non-blocking notification.

pop-up

broader; may require user interaction or cover content.

Interesting lexical coincidence:

> toast notification has nothing to do with a pop-up toaster.

BK. POP-UP BOOK

47. pop-up book = book whose paper structures rise/fold outward when pages open (立體書)

One of the major non-digital senses.

> “The child opened a pop-up book.”

「孩子打開了一本*立體書*。」

BL. POP-UP ILLUSTRATION

48. pop-up = three-dimensional paper structure that rises from the page

> “The castle is a pop-up.”

= the paper castle physically stands up when opened.

BM. PAPER ENGINEERING

49. pop-up design / paper engineering = 立體紙藝結構

Designing folding/cutting mechanisms that allow paper forms to:

- * rise;
- * move;
- * unfold.

BN. POP-UP CARD

50. pop-up card = 立體卡

A greeting card whose internal paper structure rises when opened.

BO. POP-UP TOY

51. pop-up toy = 彈出式玩具

A toy whose component suddenly rises/emerges.

Examples include:

- * jack-in-the-box-type mechanisms;
- * spring-loaded figures.

BP. POP-UP TENT

52. pop-up tent = 快速展開帳篷 / 速開帳篷

Designed to spring/unfold rapidly into shape rather than requiring extensive pole assembly.

BQ. POP-UP CANOPY

53. pop-up canopy = 快速摺疊天幕 / 帳篷

Portable temporary shelter used at:

- * markets;
- * festivals;
- * sporting events.

Especially relevant to café pop-ups because food vendors often operate beneath one.

BR. POP-UP GAZEBO

54. pop-up gazebo = 快速展開涼亭 / 帳篷

Common retail term, especially BrE.

BS. POP-UP CAMPER

55. pop-up camper / pop-up trailer = 摺疊式露營拖車

A trailer whose roof/upper sections expand upward/outward for camping.

BT. POP-UP ROOF

56. pop-up roof = 升降式車頂

Especially:

- * camper vans;
- * recreational vehicles.

Raises to create:

- * standing room;
- * sleeping space.

BU. POP-TOP VS POP-UP ROOF

Pop-top is another established term for a roof that raises on camper vans.

Related, but best indexed separately rather than treating it as an inflection of pop-up.

BV. POP-UP TOASTER

57. pop-up toaster = 彈出式多士爐

A toaster in which bread automatically rises when toasting is finished.

The compound retains the literal:

> pop up = spring upward.

BW. POP-UP HEADLIGHTS

58. pop-up headlights / headlamps = 隱藏式升降頭燈

Automotive design where headlights:

- > retract when not in use
- > rise into position when activated.

Especially associated with older sports-car design.

BX. POP-UP FLASH

59. pop-up flash = 彈出式閃光燈

Built-in camera flash that mechanically rises from the camera body when needed.

BY. POP-UP VIEWFINDER / SCREEN

60. pop-up viewfinder = 彈出式取景器

A retractable component that rises for use.

Lower-frequency product term.

BZ. POP-UP SPRINKLER

61. pop-up sprinkler = 升降式灑水器

Irrigation sprinkler normally recessed below/near ground level.

Water pressure causes the sprinkler head to rise during operation.

CA. POP-UP DRAIN / WASTE

62. pop-up drain / pop-up waste = 彈跳式去水塞 / 彈跳去水器

Plumbing mechanism whose stopper:

* raises to drain;

* lowers to seal.

May be operated by:

* push;

* lever;

* rod.

CB. POP-UP STOPPER

63. pop-up stopper = 彈跳式水塞

The movable closing component of such a drain.

CC. POP-UP SOCKET / OUTLET

64. pop-up socket / pop-up outlet = 升降式插座

Electrical outlet concealed in:

* counter;

* desk;

* kitchen island and raised when needed.

CD. POP-UP CHARGING PORT

65. pop-up charging station/port

A retractable electrical/charging unit.

Product-design extension.

CE. POP-UP TARGET

66. pop-up target = target that suddenly rises into view (彈出式靶) **

Used in:

- * shooting ranges;
- * military/police training;
- * amusement systems.

A mechanical target may:

> pop up → remain visible → drop down.

CF. POP-UP DISPLAY — TRADE SHOW

67. pop-up display = rapidly deployable exhibition/display system (快速展開展示架) **

Common at:

- * trade shows;
- * exhibitions;
- * promotions.

Often unfolds from a compact frame.

CG. POP-UP BANNER

68. pop-up banner = 快速展開式宣傳展示架

Retail/event marketing term.

Depending on seller, wording can overlap with:

- * display stand;
- * pull-up banner;
- * roller banner.

Not all designs use identical mechanisms.

CH. POP-UP FURNITURE / STRUCTURE

69. pop-up structure = temporary or rapidly deployable structure

Examples:

- * shelters;
- * stages;
- * kiosks.

The key concept may be either:

- * fast physical deployment;
- * temporary existence.

Sometimes both.

CI. BASEBALL: POP-UP

70. pop-up = high, relatively short fly ball (高飛短球 / 內野高飛球) **

In baseball/softball:

> a batter hits the ball high into the air, often over/near the infield.

Also:

> pop fly.

CJ. POP UP — BASEBALL VERB

71. pop up = hit a pop-up

> “He popped up to the shortstop.”

「他打出一個由游擊手接殺的高飛球。」

This is a genuinely separate sports phrasal-verb use.

CK. POP-UP VS FLY BALL

fly ball

general ball hit high into the air.

pop-up / pop fly

typically very high but relatively short, often easy for an infielder to catch.

Terminology/statistical definitions may vary somewhat.

CL. SURFING: POP-UP

72. pop-up = rapid movement from lying on the surfboard to standing (衝浪起乘動作) **

A fundamental surfing skill.

> “Practise your pop-up on the beach.”

「在沙灘上練習你的快速起身動作。」

CM. POP UP — SURFING VERB

73. pop up = quickly rise into surfing stance

> “Pop up as soon as you catch the wave.”

「抓到浪後立即快速起身站穩。」

CN. SURFING POP-UP VS ORDINARY STANDING UP

The surfing pop-up is a conventional technical movement:

> prone → quickly plant feet → standing surf stance.

It is not merely any act of standing.

CO. PHYSICAL BODY: POP UP

74. pop up = rise suddenly from sitting/crouching/lying position

> “She popped up from behind the counter.”

「她突然從櫃台後面冒出來。」

This is the general physical branch underlying the surfing sense.

CP. TOAST POPS UP

75. toast pops up = 多士烤好後彈起

Literal mechanical upward movement.

CQ. SPRING / BUTTON POPS UP

76. something pops up = spring mechanically into raised position

Examples:

- * button;
- * latch;
- * indicator.

CR. POP-UP BUTTON / INDICATOR

77. pop-up indicator = mechanically raised indicator

Engineering/product terminology, usually compositional.

CS. “POP UP TO...” — BRITISH DIRECTIONAL USE

78. pop up to a place = make a quick/brief trip there — informal BrE

> “I’ll pop up to the office later.”

「我待會兒會快速去一趟辦公室。」

This is best understood as:

> pop = go briefly/casually > * up = directional particle, rather than the core “suddenly appear” phrasal verb.

It is worth indexing separately so learners do not confuse the two.

CT. “POP UP AND SEE SOMEONE”

79. pop up and see someone = make a brief visit

Informal BrE/regional.

Again, up may function directionally.

CU. POP-UP VS FLASH MOB

pop-up event

temporary event/business.

flash mob

group suddenly gathers to perform a coordinated action and disperses.

They may overlap in publicity style but are not synonyms.

CV. POP-UP VS TEMPORARY

temporary

general adjective meaning non-permanent.

pop-up

often adds a sense of:

* rapid setup;

* limited-time novelty;

* flexible location;

* experimental or promotional purpose.

So every pop-up is temporary, but not every temporary facility is naturally called a pop-up.

CW. POP-UP VS MOBILE

mobile business can physically move between places.

pop-up

temporarily operates at a location.

A pop-up need not itself be mobile.

CX. POP-UP VS PILOT

pilot programme

test version of a programme/system.

pop-up

temporary physical/event format.

Kam Chai's weekend pop-up functions as a pilot, but the two words are not synonymous.

CY. POP-UP VS PROTOTYPE

prototype

early model/version of product/system.

pop-up

temporary real-world operation.

A café pop-up can test a prototype menu/concept with real customers.

CZ. POP-UP VS SOFT OPENING

soft opening limited/preliminary opening of a business shortly before full opening.

pop-up

temporary operation that may never become a permanent branch.

A pop-up can occur months before any permanent premises exist.

DA. POP-UP VS MARKET TEST

market test

method of assessing real customer response.

pop-up

one possible format for conducting that test.

This is precisely how your passage uses it.

DB. "WEEKEND POP-UP"

80. weekend pop-up = short temporary operation held over one or more weekends

In the passage:

> not merely a promotional booth,

but a miniature real-world test of the café.

Kam Chai can observe:

- * willingness to pay;
- * best-selling items;
- * preparation speed;
- * customer volume;

- * pricing;
- * wastage;
- * staffing needs.

DC. "RUN A POP-UP"

81. run a pop-up = operate a temporary shop/event/business

> "They ran a pop-up café for a month."

「他們營運了一個月的快閃咖啡店。」

DD. "HOST A POP-UP"

82. host a pop-up = provide/organize venue for temporary operation

> "The hotel hosted a chef's pop-up."

「酒店舉辦 / 提供場地給一個主廚快閃餐飲活動。」

DE. "OPEN A POP-UP"

83. open a pop-up = 開設快閃店 / 短期項目

DF. "LAUNCH A POP-UP"

84. launch a pop-up = 推出快閃項目

Often marketing/business phrasing.

DG. POP-UP LOCATION

85. pop-up location = 快閃營業地點

A location temporarily occupied.

DH. POP-UP LEASE

86. pop-up lease = short-term lease/licence arrangement for temporary business use

Commercial-property term.

Exact legal form may be:

- * lease;
- * licence;
- * occupancy agreement,

depending on jurisdiction.

So pop-up lease should not be assumed to be one universal legal instrument.

DI. POP-UP ECONOMICS / LOW COMMITMENT

A pop-up does not necessarily mean:

> cheap.

But it can reduce some forms of commitment compared with permanent premises:

- * shorter occupancy period;
- * less fit-out;
- * smaller stock;
- * lower long-term lease exposure.

That is why it is attractive in the passage.

DJ. POP-UP AS A NOUN

87. a pop-up = temporary commercial/event operation

> “We’re doing a pop-up this weekend.”

「我們這個週末會做一個快閃活動 / 快閃店。」

Countable:

- > one pop-up
- > several pop-ups.

DK. POP-UP AS AN ADJECTIVE

88. pop-up + noun = temporary or mechanically emerging noun

Examples:

temporary

- * pop-up shop
- * pop-up café
- * pop-up clinic

mechanically emerging

- * pop-up tent
- * pop-up headlights
- * pop-up sprinkler

digitally appearing

- * pop-up window
- * pop-up menu.

The exact meaning is determined by the noun.

DL. PHRASAL VERB SPELLING

89. pop up — verb

Correct:

- > “A problem popped up.”

Not:

- > A problem pop-upped.

And usually not:

> A problem popup. ❌

DM. NOUN/ADJECTIVE SPELLING

90. pop-up — noun/adjective

> “They opened a pop-up shop.”

> “We went to a pop-up.”

DN. ONE-WORD “POPUP”

91. popup — technical variant

Common in:

- * APIs;
- * UI component names;
- * software documentation.

But if writing general prose, pop-up remains the safest conventional form.

DO. PLURAL

92. pop-ups

> weekend pop-ups

> browser pop-ups.

The plural can therefore refer to either:

- * temporary businesses/events;
- * digital windows.

Context is essential.

DP. “POP-UP” DOES NOT AUTOMATICALLY MEAN “SURPRISE”

This is a crucial database distinction.

Compare:

> “A problem popped up unexpectedly.”

Strong suddenness.

But:

> “The brand announced a six-week pop-up shop three months in advance.”

Still perfectly valid.

So the semantic development is:

> suddenly appear

> → appear for a short time / non-permanently

> → temporary business/event format.

DQ. POP UP VS CROP UP

pop up

informal; appear suddenly.

crop up

unexpectedly occur/appear, especially:

* problems;

* issues;

* opportunities.

> problems popped up > problems cropped up.

Very close.

DR. POP UP VS COME UP

come up

very broad:

- * topic arises;
- * opportunity occurs;
- * event approaches.

pop up

adds stronger suddenness/unexpectedness.

DS. POP UP VS SPRING UP

spring up

appear/grow rapidly, often many new things.

> new cafés sprang up around the station.

pop up

more informal and sudden.

Both can describe new businesses.

DT. POP UP VS APPEAR appear neutral.

pop up

informal, sudden, often unexpected.

DU. POP UP VS EMERGE

emerge

become visible/known/develop, often gradually or formally.

pop up

usually abrupt and informal.

DV. POP-UP STORE VS TEMPORARY STORE

temporary store

literal neutral description.

pop-up store

commercially established concept with connotations of:

- * novelty;
- * experimentation;
- * short-term availability.

DW. POP-UP AD VS BANNER AD

pop-up ad

appears in a separate/overlaid interface element.

banner ad

occupies a defined rectangular area within the page/layout.

DX. POP-UP WINDOW VS NEW TAB

A web link may open a:

- * pop-up window;
- * normal new window;
- * new tab.

They are not technically identical even though users may loosely call any unexpected secondary browser content a “pop-up.”

DY. POP-UP BOOK VS LIFT-THE-FLAP BOOK

pop-up book

paper structures rise/project in 3D.

lift-the-flap book reader lifts a flap to reveal hidden content.

A children's book can use both mechanisms.

DZ. POP-UP TENT VS INSTANT TENT

pop-up tent

typically springs rapidly into shape using flexible preinstalled framework.

instant tent

broader marketing term for quick setup.

They overlap, but mechanisms can differ.

EA. POP-UP CAMPER VS MOTORHOME

pop-up camper

compact collapsible towable camping unit.

motorhome

self-powered recreational vehicle with fixed living structure.

Not synonymous.

EB. POP-UP HEADLIGHTS VS RETRACTABLE HEADLIGHTS

retractable headlights broader technical category.

pop-up headlights

headlamps rise upward from a concealed position.

Strong overlap.

EC. POP-UP DRAIN VS PLUG

plug

removable stopper.

pop-up drain

integrated mechanism that opens/closes by raising/lowering the stopper.

ED. POP-UP SPRINKLER VS FIXED SPRINKLER

pop-up

retracts when inactive.

fixed remains exposed above ground.

EE. POP-UP RETAIL VS E-COMMERCE TESTING

A pop-up tests customers in a physical environment.

An online pre-order test—the passage's next example—tests demand digitally.

That pairing is intentional:

> pop-up = physical market validation

> Instagram pre-order menu = online market validation.

For your original passage

> “Better still, test the concept through weekend pop-ups, an Instagram pre-order dessert menu, or a booth at a community market.”

The exact sense is:

> a small-scale, temporary version of the future café operated for one or more weekends to see whether actual customers will buy the products.

The key word is test.

A pop-up allows Kam Chai to test assumptions such as:

> “People like our cakes.”

against much stronger evidence:

> “Forty people paid $X for our cakes this weekend.”

It can also reveal things praise from friends cannot:

- * which items actually sell;
- * whether prices work;
- * how long service takes;
- * what gets wasted;
- * whether customers return;
- * whether the friends can work together under pressure.

So the passage's progression is:

- > dream → what Kam Chai hopes for
- > target → measurable preparation standard
- > calculate → what the economics require
- > pop-up → real-world experiment before permanent commitment.

A strong Traditional Chinese rendering is:

> 「更理想的是，先透過週末快閃店、Instagram 預訂甜品餐牌，或社區市集攤位來測試這個概念。」

For the core database, I would keep 7 principal semantic branches:

1. pop up = suddenly appear or arise
2. pop up = physically spring/rise into view
3. pop-up = temporary commercial, hospitality, event, or service operation — the passage sense
4. pop-up = digital interface element that temporarily appears
5. pop-up = paper object whose structure rises when opened
6. pop-up = rapidly deployable/retractable physical device or structure
7. specialized sports senses — baseball high fly ball and surfing stand-up movement

Then explicitly index pop-up shop, pop-up restaurant/café, pop-up market, pop-up activation, pop-up clinic, pop-up window/ad/blocker/menu, pop-up book/card, pop-up tent/camper, pop-up headlights/flash/sprinkler/drain/socket/target, baseball pop-up, surfing pop-up , and keep the spelling distinction pop up / pop-up / popup highly visible.
