Important distinction 1: print vs write write create text by hand or compose text.

print

reproduce/output text or images mechanically/digitally.

> write a message

寫訊息

> print the message

把訊息列印出來

Important distinction 2: print vs publish

print

physically reproduce content or place it on paper.

publish make content publicly available.

A book can be published digitally without being printed.

Important distinction 3: print vs photocopy

print

usually create paper output from a digital file or printing process.

photocopy

duplicate an existing physical page/document.

> print a PDF

列印 PDF

> photocopy a passport

影印護照

Important distinction 4: print vs develop a photo

Traditional photography terminology matters.

develop chemically process film to produce an image.

print

produce the final photograph on paper.

In modern digital photography, people often simply say:

> print photos

= 把照片印出來

For your passage, printed photos = 沖印出來的照片 is natural Chinese.

Important distinction 5: print vs printed

print

verb/noun.

printed often adjective-like:

= already produced on paper.

> print the photos

把照片印出來

> printed photos

已沖印好的照片

Important distinction 6: printed photo vs digital photo

printed photo physical paper copy.

digital photo

electronic image file.

That physicality matters in your scrapbook passage.

Important distinction 7: print vs handwriting

print

can also refer to letters written separately, rather than joined handwriting:

> Please print your name.

請用正楷 / 印刷體寫姓名。

handwriting

general writing by hand.

This is a useful additional verb sense in some varieties of English.

23. print your name — 用正楷 / 印刷體寫姓名

Practice 1

> Please print your name clearly.

請用正楷清楚寫出姓名。

Practice 2

> Sign here and print your name below.

在這裏簽名，並在下面用正楷寫姓名。

MCQ-ready definition:

print letters/name = 用一個一個分開、清晰的字母書寫，而不是草寫

Important distinction 8: print noun = text vs print noun = pattern

Text

> small print

小字條款

Pattern

> floral print

花卉印花

These are genuinely distinct learner senses.

Important distinction 9: print noun = physical copy vs print = publication status

Physical copy

> an art print

藝術印刷品

Publication status

> in print / out of print

有出版 / 絕版

Context determines the branch.

Important distinction 10: small print vs small font

small font simply small type size.

small print

often specifically the detailed terms/conditions that people may overlook.

So small print frequently has a legal/commercial implication.

Important distinction 11: printout vs print

printout

a physical document produced by a printer.

print

can mean:

- * act of printing
- * artwork/photo copy
- * typography/pattern

So printout is much narrower.

Important distinction 12: printer = machine vs printer = person/company

Machine

> laser printer

雷射打印機

Business/person

> send the files to the printer

把檔案送去印刷商

Context matters.

Family-extension note

Print has several major modern branches:

1. produce paper output

- * print a document
- * print a photo

2. commercial publication

- * print books
- * print an article

3. put text/design on a surface

- * print a logo on a bag

4. printed typography

- * small print
- * large print

5. physical printed image

- * photo print
- * art print

6. pattern/design

- * floral print
- * animal print

7. publication availability

- * in print
- * out of print

8. clear separated handwriting

- * print your name

9. family extensions

- * printer
- * printing
- * printout
- * reprint

For your passage, the key distinction is digital vs physical: the photos had been turned into tangible paper copies so they could be placed inside the handmade album.

Master comparison

For your original sentence

> It was a scrapbook filled with printed photos, short captions, little notes, and a few tickets and receipts...

Here:

printed photos = 已沖印成實體紙本的照片

The physical form matters because this is a handmade scrapbook. These were not simply photos stored on a phone or in the cloud; they had been turned into tangible keepsakes that could be arranged page by page.

A natural Traditional Chinese rendering is:

> 那是一本剪貼簿，裏面放滿了*沖印出來的照片*、簡短文字說明、小紙條，以及一些票根和收據。

For this context, 「沖印出來的照片」 is more natural than the overly literal 「打印照片」.
