Meaning in this passage

> A team meeting that should generate solutions may instead turn into a contest of egos, with people defending pride rather than pursuing results.

Here, pursuing results means:

actively trying to achieve useful outcomes — 追求成果；努力達成實際結果

The contrast is:

* defending pride → protecting ego, status, face

* pursuing results → focusing on what will actually solve the problem and achieve the team's objective

中文翻譯：

Important distinction 1: pursue vs chase

chase

more physical, immediate, everyday:

> chase a thief

> 追小偷

pursue

more formal and broader:

> pursue a suspect

> 追捕疑犯

and figuratively:

> pursue a career

> pursue a goal

So pursue has a much wider abstract range.

Important distinction 2: pursue vs follow

follow

go behind someone/something or continue along a route.

pursue

actively try to catch, obtain or achieve.

> follow a car

> 跟着一輛車

> pursue a car > 追截一輛車

The second has stronger intention.

Important distinction 3: pursue vs seek seek

look for or try to obtain.

pursue

continue actively after something, often over time.

> seek an opportunity > 尋找機會

> pursue an opportunity > 進一步爭取並嘗試把機會變成現實

Important distinction 4: pursue vs search for search for

try to find something.

pursue

go after it as a goal or continue following a lead.

> search for information > 尋找資訊

> pursue a line of inquiry > 沿調查方向繼續追查

Important distinction 5: pursue vs aim for

From your earlier aim entry.

aim for X

set X as the desired result.

pursue X

actively take action over time to obtain it.

Example:

> We aim for higher quality.

> 我們以更高質素為目標。

> We pursue higher quality through regular reviews.

> 我們透過定期檢討持續追求更高質素。

Important distinction 6: pursue vs achieve

pursue

process:

> try to reach it.

achieve

result:

> successfully reach it.

> pursue an objective

> 追求目標

> achieve an objective

> 達成目標

A person can pursue something without achieving it.

Important distinction 7: pursue vs strive for strive for emphasizes intense effort.

pursue

emphasizes sustained direction/action.

> strive for excellence

> 努力追求卓越

> pursue excellence

> 持續追求卓越

They overlap strongly.

Important distinction 8: pursue vs work toward(s)

work towards neutral and collaborative.

pursue

more formal and active, and can sound more determined.

> work towards a shared objective

> 朝共同目標努力

> pursue an objective

> 積極追求某目標

Important distinction 9: pursue vs pursue results

In your passage, pursue results does not mean:

> literally chase already existing results.

It means:

keep decisions and behaviour focused on achieving useful outcomes

Important distinction 10: pursue results vs focus on results

focus on results

give results your attention.

pursue results

actively act to obtain results.

So:

> focus = attention

> pursue = action toward outcome

Important distinction 11: pursue a career vs have a career have a career in X

describes current/history status.

pursue a career in X

emphasizes deliberate choice and active development.

Important distinction 12: pursue a career vs apply for a job

apply for a job

one specific application.

pursue a career

longer-term professional direction.

You may apply for many jobs while pursuing one career.

Important distinction 13: pursue a degree vs study a subject

pursue a degree

work toward a formal qualification.

study X

learn the subject, with or without a degree.

> pursue a degree in economics

> 修讀經濟學學位

> study economics

> 學習經濟學

Important distinction 14: pursue an interest vs be interested in

be interested in

have curiosity/liking.

pursue an interest

actively spend time developing it.

> interested in photography

> 對攝影有興趣

> pursue an interest in photography

> 進一步發展攝影興趣

Important distinction 15: pursuit = goal-seeking vs pursuit = hobby

Compare:

> pursuit of excellence

> 對卓越的追求

> outdoor pursuits

> 戶外活動

Same noun, distinct interpretations.

Important distinction 16: pursue research vs conduct research

conduct research

carry out research.

pursue research

may emphasize a longer-term research direction or intention.

> conduct a survey

> 進行調查

> pursue research into teamwork

> 持續研究團隊合作

Important distinction 17: pursue a question vs answer a question

pursue a question

investigate it further.

answer a question

provide the response/conclusion.

Research may pursue a question for years before answering it.

Important distinction 18: pursue a lead vs follow a lead

Very close.

follow a lead

investigate information/clue.

pursue a lead

often sounds more determined and active.

Both are common in investigations.

Important distinction 19: pursue legal action vs sue

sue

begin a civil lawsuit against someone.

pursue legal action

broader:

- * sue,
- * claim,
- * appeal,
- * seek an injunction,
- * use another legal process.

So legal action does not always mean one particular lawsuit.

Important distinction 20: pursue a claim vs make a claim make/file a claim

initially submit it.

pursue a claim

continue taking steps to obtain the requested remedy/payment.

Important distinction 21: pursue negotiations vs negotiate

negotiate

take part in negotiation.

pursue negotiations

actively continue or seek the negotiation process.

It often sounds diplomatic/formal.

Important distinction 22: pursue a policy vs implement a policy

pursue a policy

follow that policy direction over time.

implement a policy

put a specific policy into practical effect.

A government/company may implement individual measures while pursuing a wider policy.

Important distinction 23: pursue a strategy vs follow a strategy

Very close.

follow a strategy

adhere to it.

pursue a strategy

actively use it to reach a desired outcome.

Important distinction 24: pursue vs prosecute

These can overlap historically/legal contexts but should not be confused.

pursue a case

continue with it.

prosecute a criminal case

bring/conduct criminal proceedings against the accused.

Prosecute has a much more specific legal meaning.

Important distinction 25: pursue someone vs stalk someone

pursue someone romantically

can be neutral if respectful and welcomed.

stalk someone repeatedly follow/contact someone in an intrusive, threatening or unlawful way.

Do not treat these as synonyms.

Important distinction 26: pursuer

General:

> someone who is chasing another person.

Figurative:

> pursuer of knowledge

> 追求知識的人

Romantic:

> a romantic pursuer

> 追求者

But the bare noun pursuer is less common than using a more specific description.

Important distinction 27: in pursuit of

A major fixed prepositional phrase.

It can be literal:

> police in pursuit of a suspect

> 警方正在*追捕疑犯*

or abstract:

> in pursuit of excellence

Practice 2

> Several pursuable options remained.

仍有數個可以繼續探索的選項。

MCQ-ready definition:

pursuable = 可以合理地繼續追求、調查或採取行動的

In ordinary English, speakers more often say:

> worth pursuing

> can be pursued

rather than pursuable.

Important distinction 28: pursuit vs pursuit of

pursuit

can mean:

* chase,

* activity/hobby.

pursuit of X

often means:

* active effort to attain X.

> police pursuit

> 警方追捕

> leisure pursuits

> 休閒活動

> pursuit of excellence

> 追求卓越

Three distinct branches.

Important distinction 29: pursuit vs endeavor

endeavor

serious attempt/activity.

pursuit

something you actively chase/seek or regularly engage in.

> scientific endeavor

> 科學事業 / 努力

> intellectual pursuit

> 智性追求

Important distinction 30: pursuit vs activity

activity

neutral broad term.

pursuit

often suggests an activity chosen because of:

- * interest,
- * purpose,
- * sustained involvement.

Thus:

- > leisure pursuit
- > sounds more formal than
- > leisure activity.

Important distinction 31: pursue results vs pursue an objective

objective

the defined target.

results

actual useful outcomes more generally.

In your sentence, pursuing results deliberately sounds practical:

- > stop caring about who “wins” the argument and focus on what actually works.

Important distinction 32: pursue vs defend in your passage

The sentence contrasts:

- > defending pride
- > vs
- > pursuing results

The verbs themselves point in opposite directions:

defend

protect something you already possess.

pursue

move actively toward something you want to obtain.

So the contrast is structurally powerful:

> protect ego backward/inward

> vs

> move toward results forward/outward

Important distinction 33: pursue vs prioritize prioritize results

decide results are most important.

pursue results

take action to achieve them.

Priority is ranking; pursuit is action.

Important distinction 34: pursue vs deliver

pursue results

work toward them.

deliver results

actually produce the desired outcomes.

A manager can pursue results but fail to deliver them.

Important distinction 35: results-oriented vs pursuing results

results-oriented

describes a general attitude/style.

pursue results

describes the action.

> results-oriented manager > 結果導向的經理

> manager pursuing results > 正在積極追求成果的經理

Important distinction 36: pursue in your passage

The full sentence is:

> A team meeting that should generate solutions may instead turn into a contest of egos, with people defending pride rather than pursuing results.

Here pursue does not mean:

- * physically chase,
- * romantically pursue,
- * pursue a degree,
- * investigate a clue.

It means:

keep attention and effort directed toward achieving the team's desired outcome

The sentence therefore contrasts:

- > ego-centred behaviour
- > with
- > outcome-centred behaviour.

Family-extension note

The pursue family has several major modern branches:

1. goal achievement

- * pursue a goal
- * pursue results
- * pursue excellence

2. desired benefits

- * pursue happiness
- * pursue profit
- * pursue growth

3. career

- * pursue a career
- * pursue a profession

4. education

- * pursue a degree
- * pursue further study

5. interests/activities

- * pursue an interest
- * leisure pursuit

6. knowledge/research

- * pursue research
- * pursuit of knowledge

7. inquiry

- * pursue a question
- * pursue a line of inquiry

8. investigation

- * pursue a lead
- * pursue the matter

9. law

- * pursue legal action
- * pursue a claim
- * pursue damages

10. negotiation/cooperation

- * pursue negotiations
- * pursue peace

11. policy/strategy

- * pursue a policy
- * pursue a course of action

12. physical chase

- * pursue a suspect
- * hot pursuit

13. romantic pursuit

- * pursue someone romantically

14. fixed phrase

- * in pursuit of

15. ongoing follow-up

- * pursue something further
- * worth pursuing

For your passage, the exact branch is:

pursue = actively and persistently work towards obtaining a useful result

| pursuable | 可以繼續追求的 | possible to pursue |

For your original sentence

> A team meeting that should generate solutions may instead turn into a contest of egos, with people defending pride rather than pursuing results.

Here:

pursuing results = 把時間、注意力和努力持續集中在「甚麼做法真正能解決問題並達成團隊目標」上

A natural Traditional Chinese rendering is:

> 原本應該產生解決方案的團隊會議，反而可能變成一場自我意識的較量，人們忙於捍衛自己的自尊和面子，而不是追求實際成果。

The cleanest learner contrast is:

- > aim for results = 把成果定為目標
- > pursue results = 積極持續採取行動去取得成果
- > focus on results = 把注意力集中在成果
- > achieve results = 成功取得成果
- > deliver results = 實際交出成果 / 產生成效

And the passage's deeper contrast is particularly strong:

- > defend pride = 保護「我不能輸、不能錯」
- > pursue results = 追求「甚麼真正對團隊有效」

So pursue here conveys not just wanting a result, but continuing to move purposefully toward it despite disagreement or difficulty.
