Passage recap

> “In their eyes, a lesson should look like students sitting upright, copying notes and preparing for tests.”

Here:

test = an educational assessment used to measure students' knowledge or understanding

Best Traditional Chinese:

* 測驗

* 考試

Natural contextual translation:

在他們眼中，課堂應該是學生坐得端正、抄寫筆記，並準備測驗。

Passage MCQ-ready meaning

test

= a set of questions or tasks used to measure knowledge, understanding, or ability

測驗；考試

The biggest learner splits are:

> school test

> → 測驗

> blood test

> → 驗血 / 血液檢查

> test a machine

> → 測試機器

> test software

> → 測試軟體

> test someone's patience

> → 考驗某人的耐性

> legal test

> → 法律判斷標準

> put an idea to the test

> → 實際驗證一個想法

> stand the test of time

> → 經得起時間考驗

> test the waters

> → 試探反應 / 試水溫

So the passage uses the straightforward educational assessment branch, which the writer contrasts with more active drama-based learning.
