

Word family: accept / accepts / accepted / accepting / acceptable / acceptance / unacceptable

Base word: accept

Past tense: accepted

Past participle: accepted

 -ing form: accepting

Related forms: acceptable, acceptance, unacceptable

Part of speech: verb (動詞) / related adjective and noun forms (相關形容詞及名詞)

Your sentence:

> “He made me feel accepted, and I think that kind of warmth stays with you for life.”

Meaning in this passage

Here, accepted means welcomed, included, and treated as a valued member of a group or relationship.

The speaker means Ryan made him feel that he belonged and did not need to prove himself.

繁體中文： 被接納、被認同、被視為屬於這個群體或關係的一分子

中文翻譯：

> “He made me feel accepted ...”

「他讓我感到自己被接納 / 被認同.....」

Here:

feel accepted = 感到自己被別人接納、認可並願意讓自己融入其中

1. accept = agree to receive/take something (接受某物) — 接受 ; 收下

Meaning: To willingly receive something that is offered, given, or provided.

Practice 1

> “She accepted the gift.”

「她收下 / 接受了那份禮物。」

Practice 2

> “He accepted the invitation.”

「他接受了邀請。」

accept something = 願意收下、取得或接受別人提供的東西

Common:

- * accept a gift
- * accept an invitation
- * accept an offer
- * accept payment

These belong to one broad receive willingly sense.

2. accept = agree to a proposal/condition/decision (同意) — 接受 ; 同意

Accept can also mean agreeing that a proposal, rule, condition, decision, or situation is satisfactory or valid.

Practice 3

> “They accepted the new terms.”

「他們接受了 / 同意了新的條款。」

Practice 4

> “She accepted the decision without argument.”

「她沒有爭辯便接受了這個決定。」 accept = 同意某項提議、條件、安排或決定，並願意按它行事

This is close to Meaning 1, but the object is now an idea/condition rather than something physically received.

3. accept = believe something is true/valid (承認) — 承認 ; 認可

Meaning: To believe or acknowledge that something is true, correct, real, or valid.

Practice 5

> “He refused to accept that he had made a mistake.”

「他拒絕承認自己犯了錯。」

Practice 6

> “Scientists generally accept this explanation.”

「科學家普遍認可 / 接受這個解釋。」

accept that... / accept something as true = 承認某件事情是真的、正確的或成立的

This is a genuinely distinct cognitive meaning.

4. accept = come to terms with an unpleasant reality (面對現實) — 接受；認命；面對

Accept can mean recognizing that an unpleasant situation cannot be changed and learning to live with it.

Practice 7

> “She slowly accepted the loss.”

「她慢慢接受了這個失去的事實。」

Practice 8

> “It took him a long time to accept that things had changed.”

「他花了很長時間才接受事情已經改變。」 accept = 面對並承認某個不愉快但無法改變的現實

This is related to Meaning 3, but learner-wise it is useful to show separately because it emphasizes emotional adjustment, not simply believing something is true.

5. accept = welcome/include someone socially (接納某人) — 接納；認同

This is the meaning family used in your passage.

Meaning: To welcome someone into a group, relationship, or social setting and treat them as belonging.

Practice 9 — Original

> “He made me feel accepted.”

「他讓我感到自己*被接納*。」

Practice 10

> “The new student was quickly accepted by the class.”

「那名新同學很快就被全班*接納*。」

Practice 11

> “Everyone wants to feel accepted for who they are.”

「每個人都希望能因為真正的自己而被*接納 / 認同*。」

accept someone = 願意接納某人，讓對方感到自己屬於這個群體或關係

This is a major interpersonal sense.

6. accept = officially admit/allow entry (錄取 / 接收) — 接收 ; 錄取 ; 准入

Accept can mean officially allowing a person, application, document, or item into a system, institution, or process.

Practice 12

> “The university accepted her application.”

「大學*接受 / 錄取了*她的申請。」

Practice 13

> “The hospital is not accepting new patients at the moment.”

「醫院目前暫不*接收*新病人。」 accept = 正式允許某人 / 某物進入某個機構、程序或系統

This is a practical modern extension of the general receive/admit idea.

7. accept = be able/willing to take a form of payment or input (系統 / 交易) — 接受

Practice 14

> “This machine accepts contactless payment.”

「這部機器接受非接觸式付款。」

Practice 15

> “The website accepts several file formats.”

「這個網站支援 / 接受多種檔案格式。」

accept = 某個系統、機器或服務可以處理、接收或允許某種輸入 / 付款方式

For core counting, I would merge this with the broader receive/admit sense.

Related form: accepted

Accepted can mean generally approved, recognized, or regarded as valid.

Practice 16

> “This is the accepted method.”

「這是普遍認可 / 接受的方法。」

Practice 17

> “The theory became widely accepted.”

「這個理論變得廣泛受到認可。」 accepted = 已被普遍承認、認可或接受的

Related form: accepting

Accepting can describe a person or attitude that is tolerant, open, and non-judgmental toward differences.

Practice 18

> “She is very accepting of other people’s differences.”

「她對別人的不同之處很*包容 / 接納*。」

Practice 19

> “The group created a warm and accepting atmosphere.”

「這個團體營造出溫暖而*包容接納*的氣氛。」

accepting = 願意包容、接納不同的人、觀點或情況

Related form: acceptable

Acceptable means good enough, satisfactory, or allowed according to a standard.

Practice 20

> “The quality is acceptable.”

「品質是*可以接受的 / 合格的*。」

Practice 21

> “That behaviour is not acceptable.”

「那種行為是*不可接受的*。」 acceptable = 達到最低要求、標準或社會規範，因此可以被接受的

Related form: acceptance

Acceptance has two very useful meanings.

acceptance = act of accepting (接受 / 接納)

Practice 22

> “Her acceptance of the offer surprised everyone.”

「她接受那項提議令所有人感到意外。」

acceptance = social inclusion/approval (接納 / 認同)

Practice 23

> “Teenagers often care deeply about social acceptance.”

「青少年往往非常重視社交上的接納 / 認同。」 acceptance = 接受某事，或被群體接納和認可的狀態

Related form: unacceptable

Unacceptable means not good enough, not allowed, or not appropriate.

Practice 24

> “The delay is completely unacceptable.”

「這次延誤完全不可接受。」

Practice 25

> “Such behaviour is unacceptable at school.”

「這種行為在學校是不可接受的。」 unacceptable = 未達標準、規範或要求，因此不能接受的

Important distinction: accept vs receive receive simply means something comes to you.

accept

means you agree to take it.

> “She received the invitation.”

= 她收到了邀請。

> “She accepted the invitation.”

= 她答應了邀請。

So:

receive ≠ accept

You can receive something without accepting it.

Important distinction: accept vs agree

agree

usually means share the same opinion or consent to a proposal.

accept

is broader and can mean receive, acknowledge, admit, or tolerate.

> “I agree with you.”

= 我同意你的觀點。

> “I accept your explanation.”

= 我認可 / 接受你的解釋。

Not always interchangeable.

Important distinction: accept vs admit

accept

can mean acknowledge that something is true.

admit

often suggests reluctantly confessing or acknowledging something.

> “He accepted that he was wrong.”

neutral.

> “He admitted that he was wrong.”

often suggests a confession or reluctant acknowledgment.

Important distinction: accept vs approve

accept

can mean regard something as satisfactory or allowable.

approve often means formally or positively judge something as good enough.

> “The application was accepted.”

= 申請被接收 / 錄取。

> “The application was approved.”

= 申請獲正式批准。

The exact difference depends on the process.

Important distinction: accepted vs acceptable

This is a very useful learner contrast.

accepted

= already recognized or agreed upon by people

> accepted practice

> 公認做法

acceptable

= good enough / allowed > acceptable quality

> 可接受的品質

So:

accepted = 已被接受 / 公認的

acceptable = 可以接受的

Important distinction: accepting vs accepted

accepting

describes the person/group doing the accepting:

> an accepting community

= 一個包容接納的社群

accepted

describes the person/thing that has been accepted:

> an accepted member of the group

= 一名被團體接納的成員

This distinction is especially relevant to your original sentence:

> feel accepted

not:

> feel accepting

Family-extension note

The practical modern family includes:

* accept
 * accepted
 * accepting
 * acceptable
 * acceptance
 * unacceptable

Useful constructions include:

* accept an offer
 * accept an invitation
 * accept that...
 * accept responsibility
 * accept someone
 * be accepted by a group
 * feel accepted
 * widely accepted
 * socially acceptable

The Golden Manual says related family forms should be included generously where they add learning value, while meanings should still be split conservatively according to genuine conceptual change.

Master comparison

Form / sense	MCQ-ready Traditional Chinese meaning
-----	-----
accept — receive willingly	願意收下、取得或接受別人提供的東西
accept — agree to proposal/condition	同意某項提議、條件、安排或決定
accept — acknowledge as true/valid	承認某件事情是真的、正確的或成立的
accept — come to terms with reality	面對並承認某個不愉快但難以改變的現實
accept someone — socially include	接納某人，讓對方感到自己屬於某個群體或關係
accept — officially admit/receive	正式允許某人 / 某物進入某個機構、程序或系統 accepted	已被普遍認可、承認或接受的
accepting	願意包容、接納不同的人、觀點或情況的
acceptable	達到最低要求或標準，因此可以接受的
acceptance	接受某事，或被群體接納 / 認可的狀態
unacceptable	未達要求、規範或標準，因此不能接受的

For your original sentence

> “He made me feel accepted...”

The exact meaning is:

accepted = 被別人接納、認同，並視為屬於群體 / 關係的一分子

So:

> feel accepted

= 感到自己被接納、被認同、不被排斥

This is an interpersonal/social meaning, not merely “accept an offer.”

For your database, I would count 5 genuinely useful core meanings for accept:

1. receive something willingly
2. agree to a proposal, condition, decision, or arrangement
3. acknowledge/believe something as true or valid
4. come to terms with a reality or situation
5. welcome/include someone socially

I would merge institutional/system uses such as accept applications / accept payment / accept file formats into #1 as formalized receive/admit extensions, and keep accepted, accepting, acceptable, acceptance, unacceptable as family extensions rather than inflate the base-word count.