

Got it. I'll apply those two rules from now on:

* If a target genuinely has only one useful modern meaning, I'll tell you rather than artificially creating extra senses.

* If you give me a word we've already curated, I'll stop and tell you it was already covered unless you explicitly ask me to redo or revise it.

For aggressive, there are several genuinely distinct modern senses.

Word family: aggressive / aggressively / aggression

Base word: aggressive

Related forms: aggressively, aggression, aggressiveness

Part of speech: adjective (形容詞) / adverb (副詞) / noun (相關形式)

Your sentence:

> "It was not flashy, aggressive, or full of empty promises."

Meaning in this passage

Meaning: Trying too forcefully to persuade, pressure, or influence people, especially in advertising or selling.

繁體中文： 以過分強勢、進取甚至帶壓迫感的方式推銷或說服別人

中文翻譯：

「它並不花巧浮誇，也不會以過分強勢、咄咄逼人的方式推銷，更沒有充斥空洞的承諾。」

aggressive advertising/selling = 以強勢、進取甚至給人壓迫感的方式推銷或說服

1. aggressive = behaviour/person (行為 / 人物) hostile and ready to attack or confront — 帶敵意、具攻擊性，容易威嚇或傷害別人的

Meaning: Behaving in an angry, threatening, hostile, or physically confrontational way.

3. aggressive = approach/strategy (做法 / 策略) very determined and forceful in pursuing a goal — 積極進取、強力推進目標的

Unlike #1, this does not necessarily mean angry or violent.

aggressive investment = 願意承受較高風險以追求較高潛在回報的投資方式

This is a genuinely specialized financial sense; simply translating it as 「有攻擊性的投資」 would be wrong.

「及早採用高強度、積極介入的治療有助控制病情。」

aggressive treatment = 採用較強烈、密集或積極介入手段的治療

This is different from #6:

* aggressive cancer → 疾病本身發展得快

* aggressive treatment → 治療手段強度較高

8. aggressively = in a hostile or threatening way — 以具敵意、威嚇或攻擊性的方式

Important distinction: aggressive vs assertive

These are often confused.

assertive

= confidently expressing your needs or opinions while respecting others

= 有自信地清楚表達立場，但不侵犯別人

aggressive

= forceful in a way that may pressure, threaten, or disregard others

= 過分強勢，甚至帶施壓、敵意或侵犯性

For example:

> “Be assertive, not aggressive.”

「要有自信地表達立場，而不是咄咄逼人地施壓。」

Important distinction: aggressive vs violent

aggressive

Can include:

- * threatening language
- * hostile behaviour
- * forceful pressure
- * readiness to attack

It does not necessarily mean physical violence.

violent

Specifically involves or strongly suggests physical force intended to hurt or damage.

So:

> “He became aggressive.”

could mean he started shouting or threatening.

It does not necessarily mean:

> “He became violent.”
