IZ. PASSAGE RECAP

“The same applies to group discussion, presentations and even homework.”

Here:

apply

= to be relevant, true, or valid in a particular case

Best Traditional Chinese:

- 適用
- 同樣適用
- 同樣成立
- contextually:也是一樣

Natural contextual translation:

同樣的道理也適用於小組討論、匯報，甚至功課。

Passage MCQ-ready meaning

apply to

= to be true, relevant, or valid for a particular person, thing, or situation

適用於；同樣成立

The most important learner splits are:

The rule applies to everyone.

→ 規則適用於每個人。

but:

Apply the rule to this case.

→ 把規則套用於這個個案。

Then:

apply knowledge

→ 應用知識

apply sunscreen

→ 塗防曬霜

apply pressure

→ 施加壓力

apply the brakes

→ 踩煞車／制動

and a completely different major branch:

apply for a job

→ 申請工作

apply to a university

→ 向大學申請

Another distinct branch is:

apply yourself

→ 專心努力

The noun application is especially polysemous:

job application

→ 求職申請

application of theory

→ 理論應用

an application of cream

→ 一次塗抹

software application

→ 應用程式

And the adjective family is essential:

applicable

→ 適用的

where applicable

→ 如適用

not applicable / N/A

→ 不適用

applicability

→ 適用性

inapplicable

→ 不適用的

applied linguistics

→ 應用語言學

A useful semantic shortcut is:

APPLY = bring something into effective contact with something else.

That can mean:

1. a principle fits a case → 適用
2. knowledge is used → 應用
3. cream is put on skin → 塗抹
4. pressure is exerted → 施加
5. brakes are engaged → 制動
6. a person puts themselves forward → 申請
7. effort is directed toward work → 專心投入

In the passage, only the first branch applies: the writer says that the criticism “poor planning can make drama ineffective” is not unique to drama—the same logic is equally valid for discussion, presentations, and homework.
