Key contrasts

29. feedback vs advice

feedback

= comments about something you have already done or produced

針對表現 / 作品的回饋

advice

= suggestions about what you should do

建議

Compare:

> The teacher gave me feedback on my essay.

> 老師針對我的作文給我回饋。

> She gave me advice about how to prepare for the interview.

> 她給我一些如何準備面試的建議。

Feedback can contain advice, but they are not identical.

30. feedback vs criticism

criticism

= judgment focusing especially on faults or problems

批評 ; 批判

feedback

= broader information about performance and can be positive, negative, or neutral

回饋

Compare:

> His criticism focused on the weak argument.

> 他的批評集中在論點薄弱之處。

> Her feedback included both strengths and areas to improve.

> 她的回饋同時包括優點和需要改善之處。

This distinction is especially important in the passage.

31. constructive feedback vs criticism

constructive feedback

= specifically intended to help someone improve

建設性回饋

criticism

may or may not be helpful.

This is why the passage contrasts:

> simply pointing out mistakes with > giving constructive feedback

The teacher did not merely identify what was wrong; she helped students understand how to improve.

32. feedback vs review

review

= more complete evaluation or assessment of something

評論；評估；評審

feedback

= comments or reactions provided to help improve or assess

Compare:

> customer feedback

> 顧客回饋

> a product review

> 產品評論

A review may be public and comprehensive; feedback may be private and developmental.

33. feedback vs response

response

= any reaction or reply

回應；反應

feedback

= reaction or information specifically returned to inform evaluation or future improvement

回饋

Not every response is feedback.

34. feedback vs evaluation

evaluation

= systematic judgment of quality, performance, or value

評估

feedback

= information communicated back to someone, often after evaluation

回饋

Example:

> The teacher evaluated the presentation and then gave the student feedback.

老師先*評估*簡報，再向學生提供*回饋*。
