

Absolutely — I'll keep Guest at the same depth as the stronger examples you just uploaded: passage anchoring, genuine senses, contextual branches, grammatical uses, modern technical meanings, compounds, family extensions, distinctions, and the final MCQ-ready map. That matches the model in your existing materials, where contextual branches are retained when educationally useful without automatically pretending they are unrelated meanings. The richer entries also explicitly sweep compounds and related forms before stopping.

Word family: guest / guests / guested / guesting / guesthouse

Base word: guest

Plural: guests

Verb forms: guest, guests, guested, guesting

Useful lexical extension: guesthouse

Useful compounds / expressions: house guest, hotel guest, dinner guest, wedding guest, guest speaker, guest lecturer, guest performer, guest artist, guest conductor, guest judge, guest editor, guest host, guest star, guest appearance, guest of honour, guest list, guest room, guest pass, guest account, guest user, guest network, guest Wi-Fi, guest operating system, guest services, guest relations, paying guest

Part of speech: noun / verb / adjective-like attributive use

Your sentence

> “In addition, I can communicate fluently in English, Cantonese and Putonghua, which would be useful when working with local athletes and international guests.”

Meaning in this passage

Here, guests means people from outside the organisation who have been invited, welcomed, hosted, or received in connection with sporting events or Foundation activities.

They could include:

- * visiting athletes
- * coaches
- * officials
- * delegates
- * speakers
- * representatives
- * invited visitors

繁體中文：

受機構邀請、接待或歡迎前來參與活動、比賽、會議或交流的外來訪客 / 嘉賓

中文翻譯：

> 「此外，我能流利使用英語、廣東話和普通話，這在與本地運動員及國際*嘉賓 / 來訪人士*合 作時會很有用。」 international guests = 從海外前來並由機構接待的國際嘉賓 / 訪客

1. guest — person invited to someone's home — 客人；賓客

The basic everyday meaning is a person invited to visit another person's home.

Practice 1

> “We have several guests coming for dinner tonight.”

「今晚有幾位*客人*來我們家吃飯。」

Practice 2

> “She showed the guests into the living room.”

「她帶*客人*進入客廳。」 guest = 受某人邀請到其住所作客的人

house guest

A person staying temporarily in someone else's home.

> “We have a house guest staying with us this weekend.”

「這個週末有一位*留宿客人*住在我們家。」 house guest = 暫時住在別人家中的客人

This is a useful compound, not a new meaning of bare guest.

2. guest — invited attendee at an event — 賓客；嘉賓；受邀人士

A person invited to attend an event such as:

* a wedding

* dinner

- * ceremony
- * reception
- * conference
- * sporting event

This is the broad sense most closely connected with your passage.

Practice 3 — Passage sense

> “Staff welcomed international guests before the competition.”

「工作人員在比賽前迎接國際*嘉賓 / 來賓*。」

Practice 4

> “More than two hundred guests attended the wedding.”

「超過二百名*賓客*出席了婚禮。」

Practice 5

> “All guests must register at reception.”

「所有*來賓*都必須在接待處登記。」 guest = 受邀出席活動、典禮、會議或其他正式場合的人

3. guest — visiting person received by an organisation — 訪客；來賓

An organisation, institution, school, club, foundation, or company can receive guests.

Practice 6

> “The Foundation arranged transport for its overseas guests.”

「基金會為海外*來賓*安排交通。」

Practice 7

> “Students were asked to welcome the visiting guests.”

「學生獲安排迎接到訪的*嘉賓 / 訪客*。」 guest = 由機構正式接待、邀請或歡迎的外來訪客

This is essentially your exact contextual branch.

Curation note

I would not split:

- * dinner guest
- * wedding guest
- * conference guest
- * international guest
- * institutional guest into unrelated lexical meanings.

They share:

> a person temporarily welcomed or received by a host

4. guest — hotel/customer staying temporarily — 酒店住客；旅客

At a hotel, resort, cruise ship, or similar accommodation business, a guest is a customer staying there.

Practice 8

> “Hotel guests can use the swimming pool free of charge.”

「酒店住客可以免費使用游泳池。」

Practice 9

> “The hotel can accommodate three hundred guests.”

「這間酒店可以容納三百名住客。」 guest = 暫時入住酒店、度假村或其他住宿設施並接受其服務的顧客

This deserves explicit treatment because Chinese usually changes from 客人 / 嘉賓 to 住客.

5. guest — customer of a hospitality business — 顧客；賓客

Hospitality businesses sometimes deliberately use guest instead of customer.

This is especially common in:

- * hotels
- * restaurants
- * resorts
- * theme parks
- * cruise lines

Practice 10

> “Our staff aim to give every guest excellent service.”

「我們的員工致力為每一位*顧客 / 賓客*提供優質服務。」

Practice 11

> “The restaurant asks guests to make reservations in advance.”

「餐廳要求*客人*預先訂座。」

*guest = 在服務或款待行業中接受企業服務的顧客，語氣比 customer 更強調款待關係***

Important nuance

A hotel may call paying customers guests because the business wants to frame the relationship as:

host → guest

rather than simply:

seller → customer

6. guest — invited person on a TV/radio/podcast programme — 節目嘉賓

A person invited to appear on a television programme, radio programme, podcast, interview, or similar media production.

Practice 12

> “Tonight’s guest is an Olympic athlete.”

「今晚的節目嘉賓是一名奧運運動員。」

Practice 13

> “The podcast regularly invites experts as guests.”

「這個播客經常邀請專家擔任嘉賓。」

guest = 獲邀參與節目、訪談或廣播內容的人，而不是節目的固定主持人 / 成員

7. guest — invited participant/performer in a professional role — 特邀嘉賓；客席人士

Someone may temporarily participate in an organisation or activity without being a permanent member.

Common examples:

- * guest speaker
- * guest lecturer
- * guest professor
- * guest artist
- * guest performer
- * guest conductor
- * guest judge
- * guest editor

Practice 14

> “A former Olympic champion was invited as a guest speaker.”

「一名前奧運冠軍獲邀擔任特邀講者 / 嘉賓講者。」

Practice 15

> “The orchestra will be led by a guest conductor.”

「樂團將由一位客席指揮領導。」

guest + professional role = 暫時獲邀以某種專業身分參與，但並非該機構的固定成員

This is an extremely productive modern use of guest.

8. guest speaker — 嘉賓講者；特邀講者

A person invited specifically to give a speech or presentation.

Practice 16

> “Our guest speaker will discuss athlete development.”

「我們的嘉賓講者將討論運動員發展。」

Practice 17

> “The school invited a doctor to be the guest speaker.”

「學校邀請了一名醫生擔任特邀講者。」

guest speaker = 並非活動固定成員，而是特別獲邀發表演講的人

9. guest lecturer — 客席講師；特邀講者

A person invited to teach or lecture temporarily at an institution.

Practice 18

> “A sports psychologist gave the class as a guest lecturer.”

「一名運動心理學家以客席講師身分教授這堂課。」

Practice 19

> “The university invites industry experts as guest lecturers.”

「大學邀請業界專家擔任客席講師。」 guest lecturer = 短期 / 一次性獲邀到教育機構授課的人

10. guest performer / guest artist — 客席表演者；特邀藝術家

A performer invited to participate without being a regular member.

Practice 20

> “The concert featured several guest artists.”

「音樂會有數名特邀藝術家演出。」

Practice 21

> “She appeared as a guest performer for one night.”

「她以特邀表演嘉賓身分演出了一晚。」

11. guest judge — 嘉賓評判；客席評判

Someone temporarily invited to judge a competition.

Practice 22

> “A retired athlete served as a guest judge.”

「一名退役運動員擔任嘉賓評判。」

Practice 23

> “Each episode has a different guest judge.”

「每集都有一名不同的客席評判。」

12. guest editor — 客席編輯

Someone temporarily invited to edit a particular issue, section, publication, or project.

Practice 24

> “The magazine invited her to act as guest editor.”

「該雜誌邀請她擔任客席編輯。」

Practice 25

> “The special issue was produced by a guest editor.”

「這一期特刊由一位客席編輯負責。」

13. guest host — 客席主持；代班主持

A temporary presenter replacing or joining the usual host.

Practice 26

> “She appeared as guest host while the regular presenter was away.”

「固定主持人不在期間，她擔任客席 / 代班主持。」

Practice 27

> “The programme has a different guest host every Friday.”

「這個節目每逢星期五都有不同的客席主持。」

14. guest star — 客串明星；特邀演員

An actor or notable performer making a temporary appearance in a programme rather than belonging to the regular cast.

Practice 28

> “The episode features a famous actor as a guest star.”

「這一集有一名著名演員擔任客串明星 / 特邀演員。」

Practice 29

> “Several former cast members returned as guest stars.”

「數名前演員以客串演出身分回歸。」

guest star = 並非固定演員，但特別參與一集或有限次數演出的知名表演者

15. guest appearance — 客串演出；特別亮相

An appearance made temporarily as a guest.

Practice 30

> “The singer made a surprise guest appearance.”

「那名歌手驚喜客串亮相。」

Practice 31

> “He made several guest appearances on television.”

「他曾數次在電視節目中客串亮相。」

guest appearance = 並非固定參與者，而是短暫受邀出現 / 演出的情況

16. guest of honour / guest of honor — 主禮嘉賓；貴賓

A particularly important invited person at an event.

British spelling:

guest of honour

American spelling:

guest of honor

Practice 32

> “The Olympic champion was the guest of honour at the dinner.”

「那位奧運冠軍是晚宴的主禮嘉賓 / 貴賓。」

Practice 33

> “The mayor attended as guest of honour.”

「市長以主禮嘉賓身分出席。」

guest of honour = 在某項活動中受到特別尊重、具有突出身分的主要受邀嘉賓

This is more specific than an ordinary guest.

17. guest list — 賓客名單；邀請名單

A list of people invited or admitted to an event.

Practice 34

> “Her name was not on the guest list.”

「她的名字不在賓客名單上。」

Practice 35

> “The organisers finalized the guest list yesterday.”

「主辦單位昨天確定了邀請嘉賓名單。」 guest list = 獲邀或獲准出席某項活動的人員名單

18. guest room — 客房

A room intended for visitors to sleep or stay in.

This can refer to:

- * a room in a private home;
- * accommodation space in some institutions.

Practice 36

> “You can sleep in the guest room.”

「你可以睡在客房。」

Practice 37

> “They converted the study into a guest room.”

「他們把書房改成了客房。」

guest room = 專門供訪客 / 客人暫住的房間

19. guesthouse — 賓館；家庭式旅館；旅舍

A guesthouse is a small accommodation establishment, often more personal or smaller than a hotel.

Practice 38

> “We stayed in a small family-run guesthouse.”

「我們住在一間小型家庭經營的賓館 / 旅舍。」

Practice 39

> “The village has several affordable guesthouses.”

「這條村有幾間價格相宜的賓館。」 guesthouse = 通常規模較小、為旅客提供住宿的旅館 / 賓館

This is a genuine lexical extension, not another meaning of bare guest.

20. paying guest — 付費住客；寄宿客

Especially in British English, a paying guest is someone who lives in another person's home and pays for accommodation, often sometimes including meals.

Practice 40

> “The family takes in paying guests during the summer.”

「這個家庭夏天會接待付費寄宿客。」

Practice 41

> “She stayed there as a paying guest for three months.”

「她以付費住客身分在那裡住了三個月。」 paying guest = 支付費用住在私人住宅中的住客

This is distinct from an ordinary invited house guest because payment is involved.

21. guest pass — 訪客證；嘉賓通行證

A temporary pass allowing a visitor access to a building, club, facility, event, or service.

Practice 42

> “Visitors must collect a guest pass at reception.”

「訪客必須在接待處領取訪客證。」

Practice 43

> “Members can request a one-day guest pass.”

「會員可以申請一日嘉賓通行證。」

22. guest ticket — 嘉賓票；訪客票

A ticket allowing an invited or accompanying guest to attend something.

> “Graduates may request two guest tickets.”

「畢業生可以申請兩張嘉賓票。」

Useful compound, but not a separate meaning.

23. guest services — 賓客服務；旅客服務

A hospitality/business term for services provided to visitors or customers.

Practice 44

> “Please contact guest services if you need assistance.”

「如需協助，請聯絡賓客服務部。」

Practice 45

> “She works in guest services at the resort.”

「她在度假村的賓客服務部工作。」

guest services = 專門處理客人需要、查詢及體驗的服務部門 / 工作

24. guest relations — 賓客關係；客戶接待

A hospitality term focusing on maintaining good relationships with guests and resolving their needs or complaints.

Practice 46

> “The complaint was referred to the guest relations manager.”

「投訴被轉交給賓客關係經理處理。」

Practice 47

> “Guest relations staff welcomed the international delegation.”

「賓客關係人員迎接了國際代表團。」 guest relations = 負責照顧賓客體驗、溝通、服務及關係維護的工作

25. guest — temporary/limited user of a computer system — 訪客使用者；來賓帳戶使用者

A strong modern technology meaning.

A guest may be someone allowed to use a computer, device, platform, or network without having a full permanent account.

Practice 48

> “You can continue as a guest without creating an account.”

「你可以不建立帳戶，以訪客身分繼續使用。」

Practice 49

> “Guests cannot change the system settings.”

「訪客使用者不能更改系統設定。」 guest = 在電腦、平台或服務中只有臨時或有限權限、通常沒有完整個人帳戶的使用者

This is metaphorically based on the ordinary idea:

> a temporary visitor rather than a permanent member

26. guest account — 訪客帳戶

A temporary or restricted account.

Practice 50

> “The computer has a separate guest account.”

「這部電腦設有獨立的*訪客帳戶*。」

Practice 51

> “The guest account has limited permissions.”

「*訪客帳戶*的權限有限。」

guest account = 為臨時使用者而設、通常權限較低的帳戶

27. guest user / guest access — 訪客使用者；訪客權限

guest user

A user who is not a normal permanent member.

guest access

Permission granted temporarily or with limited rights.

> “External consultants were given guest access to the platform.”

「外部顧問獲得平台的*訪客存取權限*。」 guest access = 向非正式 / 非永久成員提供有限或臨時使用權

28. guest Wi-Fi / guest network — 訪客 Wi-Fi；訪客網絡

A separate network provided for visitors, normally isolated from an organisation's main internal network.

Practice 52

> “Visitors should connect to the guest Wi-Fi.”

「訪客應連接*訪客 Wi-Fi 網絡*。」

Practice 53

> “The office keeps its guest network separate from internal systems.”

「辦公室把*訪客網絡*與內部系統分開。」 guest network = 專門讓訪客使用、通常與內部主要網絡分隔的網絡

This is an excellent modern compound.

29. guest operating system / guest OS — 客體作業系統；虛擬機中的客體系統

In virtualization, the guest operating system is the operating system running inside a virtual machine.

Practice 54

> “Linux is running as the guest operating system.”

「Linux 正以*客體作業系統*身分在虛擬機內運行。」

Practice 55

> “The host computer can run several guest operating systems.”

「主機電腦可以運行多個*客體作業系統*。」 guest OS = 在另一個主機系統 / 虛擬化環境內運行的作業系統

Important distinction

Here:

host

= underlying machine/system

guest

= system running inside it

This is genuinely technical but common enough in computing to retain.

30. guest — verb: appear temporarily as a guest — 客串；以嘉賓身分參與

Guest can function as a verb, especially in entertainment and media contexts.

Practice 56

> “She guested on the programme last year.”

「她去年曾在該節目中*擔任嘉賓 / 客串出現*。」

Practice 57

> “Several musicians have guested on the album.”

「多名音樂人曾在這張專輯中*客串參與*。」 *guest = 暫時以受邀嘉賓身分參加節目、演出或作品***

Register note

This verb is valid but much less common than the noun guest.

Often English instead says:

> appear as a guest

> make a guest appearance

31. guest-star — 客串演出

A particularly common related verb.

Practice 58

> “She guest-starred in two episodes.”

「她在其中兩集*客串演出*。」

Practice 59

> “A famous comedian will guest-star next week.”

「一名著名喜劇演員下星期會客串演出。」 guest-star = 以非固定演員身分特別參與某部影視作品

This is more common and useful than bare verbal guest.

32. guest-host — 客席主持；代班主持

Can function as a noun or verb.

Noun

> “He was the guest host for the evening.”

「他是當晚的*客席主持*。」

Verb

> “She guest-hosted the programme.”

「她*代班主持 / 客席主持*了該節目。」 guest-host = 暫時代替或加入固定主持人，負責主持節目

Important distinctions

guest vs visitor

These overlap, but there is a useful difference.

guest

Usually implies someone is:

- * invited;
- * welcomed;
- * hosted;
- * accommodated;

* deliberately received.

visitor

Simply means someone who comes to a place temporarily.

> “Museum visitors must buy tickets.”

「博物館訪客必須購票。」

They do not need to have been personally invited.

So:

every guest is generally a visitor, but not every visitor is a guest.

guest vs customer

customer

Someone who buys goods or services.

guest

In hospitality, businesses often use guest to emphasize welcome, care, and service.

> hotel guest > restaurant guest

A person may simultaneously be:

a customer economically and

a guest from the hospitality perspective

guest vs host

These form an important contrast.

guest

person being welcomed or received

host person or organisation welcoming or receiving them

> “The host welcomed the guests.”

「主人 / 主辦方歡迎賓客。」

In computing, the same conceptual contrast appears:

host system

= underlying/main system

guest system

= system temporarily or dependently operating within it guest vs attendee

attendee

Someone who attends an event.

guest

Usually implies invitation or special reception.

At a conference:

* every person present may be an attendee;

* invited VIPs or speakers may specifically be guests.

guest vs delegate

delegate

A person formally representing an organisation, country, group, or body.

guest

Describes their relationship with the host.

Someone can therefore be:

> an international delegate and a guest of the Foundation at the same time.

guest vs resident

guest

stays temporarily

resident lives somewhere more permanently or officially

A hotel has:

guests

A residential home may have:

residents

guest vs tenant

guest

normally does not possess a tenancy right merely by being a guest.

tenant

rents property under an agreed tenancy arrangement.

A paying guest is therefore not automatically the same legal category as a tenant.

guest vs passenger

A passenger is someone travelling in a vehicle.

A guest is someone being hosted or received.

A cruise company may call passengers guests for hospitality purposes, but the concepts are different.

guest speaker vs speaker

speaker

anyone who gives a speech or presentation

guest speaker

someone specifically invited from outside the regular group or organisation to speak

So guest contributes the idea:

> temporary invited outsider guest star vs regular cast member guest star appears temporarily or in selected episodes regular cast member belongs to the continuing main cast guest account vs normal account normal account

typically belongs permanently to a registered user and may retain:

- * settings

- * data

- * privileges

guest account usually has:

- * temporary status
- * restricted permissions
- * reduced personalization
- * limited access

Family-extension sweep

After the full lexical, hospitality, event, media, institutional, technology, grammatical, compound, and second-pass audit, the useful modern family includes:

- * guest — home visitor = 客人
- * guest — event attendee = 賓客 / 嘉賓
- * guest — institutional visitor = 來賓
- * guest — hotel resident/customer = 住客
- * guest — hospitality customer = 賓客 / 顧客
- * guest — programme/interview participant = 節目嘉賓
- * guest + professional role = 客席 / 特邀.....
- * guest speaker = 嘉賓講者
- * guest lecturer = 客席講師
- * guest performer/artist = 客席表演者 / 特邀藝術家
- * guest conductor = 客席指揮
- * guest judge = 嘉賓評判
- * guest editor = 客席編輯
- * guest host = 客席 / 代班主持
- * guest star = 客串明星 / 特邀演員
- * guest appearance = 客串亮相
- * guest of honour = 主禮嘉賓 / 貴賓
- * guest list = 賓客名單
- * guest room = 客房
- * guesthouse = 賓館 / 旅舍
- * paying guest = 付費住客
- * guest pass = 訪客證 / 嘉賓通行證
- * guest services = 賓客服務
- * guest relations = 賓客關係
- * guest — computing user = 訪客使用者
- * guest account = 訪客帳戶
- * guest access = 訪客權限
- * guest Wi-Fi/network = 訪客網絡
- * guest OS = 客體作業系統
- * guest — verb = 以嘉賓身分參與 / 客串
- * guest-star = 客串演出

* guest-host = 代班 / 客席主持

I would stop there rather than pull in rare historical or highly specialist senses. That follows your Golden Manual principle of searching widely but refusing to manufacture unnecessary vocabulary.

For your original sentence

> “...which would be useful when working with local athletes and international guests.”

The exact meaning is:

guest = 由香港體育基金會或活動主辦方接待、邀請或歡迎前來參與比賽、活動、交流或其他官方安排的外來人士

Therefore:

international guests = 從其他國家 / 地區前來，由主辦機構接待的國際嘉賓、訪客或來賓

The best natural translation in this application is:

> 「國際嘉賓 / 海外來賓」

rather than 酒店住客, 節目嘉賓, or the technical computing meaning.

This one has now had the second-pass check built in: ordinary meaning → institutional/hospitality → media/professional → compounds → computing → verb uses → contrasts → over-inclusion filter.
