系統指令

FF. USER INSTRUCTIONS — AI

169. user instructions

= task directions supplied by the user 使用者指令

FG. INSTRUCTION FOLLOWING

170. instruction following

AI:

= ability of a model/system to understand and comply with natural-language task instructions
指令遵循; 遵循指示能力

FH. INSTRUCTION-TUNED MODEL

171. instruction-tuned model

AI:

= model trained/fine-tuned to respond effectively to task instructions 指令微調模型

FI. INSTRUCTION TUNING

172. instruction tuning

AI:

= training/fine-tuning using instruction-response examples to improve instruction following 指令微調

FJ. INSTRUCTION DATA

173. instruction data

AI/ML:

= training/evaluation data structured around instructions and expected responses
指令資料

FK. INSTRUCTION PROMPT

174. instruction prompt

= prompt formulated mainly as a task instruction
指令式提示 ; 任務提示

FL. INSTRUCTIONAL — RELATING TO TEACHING

175. instructional

= relating to teaching or designed to teach 教學的;教育性的

Practice

1. The website contains instructional materials.

IG. SEMANTIC MAP

The central concept of INSTRUCTION is:

providing direction so that another person or system knows what to do

From that core, several large branches develop.

A. Directions for a task

Passage

clear instructions → 清楚的活動指示

Also:

operating instructions → 操作說明

safety instructions → 安全指示

B. Authoritative directions act on management's instructions → 按照管理層指示行事

under instructions to leave → 奉命離開

C. Teaching

Direction becomes structured guidance in learning:

classroom instruction
→ 課堂教學

language instruction → 語言教學

D. Legal/professional direction

client instructions → 客戶指示

instruct a solicitor → 委託／指示律師

jury instructions → 陪審團法律指示

E. Computing

A machine also receives directions:

machine instruction

→ 機器指令

instruction set

→ 指令集

F. AI

Natural-language task directions become:

system instructions

→ 系統指令

instruction following

→ 指令遵循

The shared concept is stable:

INSTRUCTION = information that guides an action or learning process.

The recipient may be:

- a student,
 - an employee,
 - a customer,

- contextually: 清楚的活動指示

Natural contextual translation:

只要有清楚的指示、時間限制、分配好的角色、反思問題和評核準則，戲劇就會成為一項有結構的學習活動。

Passage MCQ-ready meaning

instruction

= a direction telling someone what to do or how to do something

指示；說明

In the passage, the plural is natural:

clear instructions

→ 清楚的指示／活動說明

The biggest learner split is between:

follow the instructions

→ 按照指示／說明

and:

classroom instruction

→ 課堂教學

So:

instructions

usually = directions

whereas:

instruction

often = teaching

Another major branch is computing:

machine instruction

→ 機器指令

instruction set

→ 指令集

Modern AI also uses the same direction sense:

system instructions

→ 系統指令

instruction following

→ 指令遵循

The family distinctions are especially useful:

instruct someone to do something

→ 指示某人做某事

instruct someone in first aid

→ 教授某人急救知識

instructor

→ 導師／教練／講師

instructional video

→ 教學影片

but:

instructive example

→ 有啟發性的例子

That last contrast is important:

instructional

= designed to teach while:

instructive

= useful because you can learn an important lesson from it

A useful semantic formula is:

INSTRUCTION = guidance that tells a person or system what to do, or structured guidance that helps someone learn.

The recipient may be:

- a student,
- a customer,
- an employee,
- a patient,
- a driver,
- a lawyer,
- a jury,
- a computer processor,

- or an AI system.

In the passage, clear instructions are one of the elements that prevent drama from becoming uncontrolled play: they define what students should do, how they should do it, and what learning purpose the activity serves.
