

Word family: introduce / introduces / introduced / introducing / introduction / introductory / introducer / intro / reintroduce / reintroduction

Base word: introduce

Past tense: introduced

Past participle: introduced

-ing* form: introducing

Major related forms:

* introduction

* introductory

* introducer

* intro — informal shortening of introduction

* reintroduce

* reintroduction

Useful compounds/constructions:

* introduce a policy/rule/system

* introduce legislation/a bill

* introduce a product/service

* introduce someone to someone

* introduce oneself

* introduce someone as X

* introduce someone to a subject/activity

* introduce a topic/idea/concept

* introduce X into Y

* introduce evidence

* introduce a species

* introduced species

* introductory course

* introductory remarks

* introductory offer/rate

* letter of introduction

* self-introduction

* product introduction

* market introduction

* species introduction

* reintroduction programme

Part of speech: verb (動詞)

Your sentence:

> “Restaurant chains can introduce clearer seating policies ...”

Meaning in this passage

Here, introduce means to establish a new rule, policy, system, or arrangement and begin using it.

The restaurants already exist; what is new is the seating policy.

繁體中文：

* 引入

* 推出

* 實施

* 制定並開始採用

A natural translation is:

> “Restaurant chains can introduce clearer seating policies.”

「連鎖餐廳可以引入 / 制定更清晰的座位使用政策。」

The key idea is:

> something did not previously form part of the normal system → it is now brought in and begins to be used.

A. INTRODUCE A NEW RULE / POLICY / SYSTEM

1. introduce = bring a new rule, policy, system, or practice into use (引入 ; 實施)

This is the exact passage sense.

Practice 1

> “The restaurant introduced a ninety-minute seating limit.”

「餐廳引入九十分鐘的用餐時限。」

Practice 2

> “The school introduced a new attendance policy.”

「學校實施 / 引入新的出席政策。」

Practice 3

> “The company plans to introduce flexible working arrangements.”

「公司計劃引入彈性工作安排。」

Common objects:

- * policy
- * rule
- * regulation
- * system
- * procedure
- * measure
- * scheme
- * programme
- * requirement
- * restriction

2. introduce a policy = establish it as a new policy (推出 / 實行政策) **

Practice 4

> “Management introduced a clearer policy on table use.”

「管理層制定並實施了更清晰的餐桌使用政策。」

Important:

introduce tells us the policy is newly brought in.

It does not necessarily tell us:

- * whether it is effective;
- * how strictly it is enforced;
- * whether it is permanent.

3. introduce a rule = bring a new rule into force/use (引入規則) **

> “The library introduced a rule against reserving seats for long periods.”

「圖書館引入規則，禁止長時間霸佔座位。」

4. introduce a system = begin using a new system (引入制度 / 系統) **

> “The café introduced a digital queuing system.”

「咖啡店引入電子排隊系統。」

5. introduce measures = 採取 / 推出新措施

Practice 5

> “The organization introduced measures to reduce overcrowding.”

「機構推出措施以減少擠迫。」

6. introduce changes = 推出 / 實施改動

> “The company introduced several changes to its booking process.”

「公司對預約程序作出 / 引入多項改動。」

B. INTRODUCE LEGISLATION / A BILL

7. introduce a bill = formally present proposed legislation for consideration (提出法案) **

A major legal/parliamentary use.

Practice 6

> “A bill was introduced to change the licensing rules.”

「有人正式提出法案，建議修改牌照規則。」

The exact legislative stage/process varies by jurisdiction.

8. introduce legislation = 提出 / 引入立法

> “The government introduced legislation on building safety.”

Lexically:

「政府提出 / 引入有關建築安全的立法。」

This means new proposed/enacted legal rules are being brought into the legal process/system; the exact procedural status depends on context.

9. introduction of legislation = 立法的提出 / 引入

Noun form:

> “The introduction of new legislation changed the regulatory environment.”

「新法例的引入改變了監管環境。」

C. INTRODUCE A PERSON TO ANOTHER PERSON

10. introduce A to B = tell each person who the other is (介紹) **

One of the most important everyday senses.

Practice 7

> “Let me introduce you to my colleague.”

「讓我介紹你認識我的同事。」

Practice 8

> “She introduced me to her parents.”

「她把我介紹給她的父母認識。」

Pattern:

> introduce A to B

not normally:

> introduce A with B ❌

11. introduce two people = make them acquainted (介紹兩人認識) **

> “We were introduced at a conference.”

「我們是在一個會議上經人介紹認識的。」

12. I don't think we've been introduced = 我想我們還未正式認識

A common polite expression.

> “I don't think we've been introduced. I'm Daniel.”

「我想我們還未正式認識。我是 Daniel。」

13. May I introduce...? = 正式介紹某人

> “May I introduce Professor Lee?”

「容我介紹李教授。」

Formal/polite.

14. let me introduce... **

Can introduce:

- * another person;
- * oneself;
- * a speaker;
- * a topic.

Context determines the branch.

D. INTRODUCE ONESELF

15. introduce oneself = tell others one's name/identity (自我介紹)

Practice 9

> “She introduced herself to the group.”

「她向大家作了自我介紹。」

Pattern:

> introduce oneself to someone

16. self-introduction = 自我介紹

A genuine noun compound, especially common in:

- * education;
- * interviews;
- * language learning;
- * formal activities.

In casual native English, people also simply say:

> introduce yourself.

E. INTRODUCE SOMEONE AS SOMETHING

17. introduce someone as X = present them using a role/title/description (以.....身分介紹)

Practice 10

> “She introduced him as the new manager.”

「她把他介紹為新任經理。」

Pattern:

> introduce + person + as + role.

18. introduce a speaker/guest = announce and present them to an audience

Practice 11

> “The host introduced the next speaker.”

「主持人介紹了下一位講者。」

This may include:

- * name;
- * position;
- * achievements;
- * reason for speaking.

F. INTRODUCE SOMEONE TO A SUBJECT / ACTIVITY

19. introduce someone to something = give them their first experience or knowledge of it (讓.....初次接觸) **

A very important figurative extension.

Practice 12

> “My teacher introduced me to classical music.”

「老師讓我初次接觸 / 認識古典音樂。」

Practice 13

> “The course introduces students to basic economics.”

「課程讓學生初步認識基礎經濟學。」

Here nobody is being socially introduced to another person.

The meaning is:

> cause someone to become acquainted with a field/activity/idea.

20. introduce children to reading/science/art

> “The programme introduces children to coding.”

「這個計劃讓兒童初步接觸程式設計。」

21. be introduced to something = encounter/learn it for the first time

> “Students are introduced to statistical methods in the second term.”

「學生第二學期開始接觸統計方法。」

G. INTRODUCE A TOPIC / IDEA / CONCEPT

22. introduce a topic = bring it into a discussion/text (提出 ; 引入話題) **

Practice 14

> “The next chapter introduces the concept of opportunity cost.”

「下一章介紹 / 引入機會成本這個概念。」

23. introduce an idea/concept = present it for the first time (介紹概念) **

> “The lesson introduces several new grammatical concepts.”

「課堂介紹幾個新的語法概念。」

24. introduce a question/issue into a discussion = 把問題帶入討論

Formal:

> “The report introduces a broader question about public space.”

「報告進一步提出一個有關公共空間的更廣泛問題。」

H. INTRODUCE AN ESSAY / PRESENTATION

25. introduce a subject = begin by explaining what will be discussed (引介主題) **

> “The first paragraph introduces the main issue.”

「第一段引入 / 介紹主要議題。」

26. introduction = opening section of an essay/report/book (引言 ; 導言) **

Practice 15

> “The introduction explains the purpose of the report.”

「引言解釋了報告的目的。」

Common document structure:

- * introduction
- * body
- * conclusion

27. write an introduction = 寫引言

A good introduction may:

- * establish context;
- * introduce the issue;
- * state purpose/thesis;
- * preview organization.

Genre-dependent.

28. introductory paragraph = 引言段

The opening paragraph introducing the subject.

I. INTRODUCTION TO A BOOK

29. an introduction = preliminary section explaining background (序言 / 導論) **

A book may contain:

- * foreword
- * preface
- * introduction

These are not automatically the same.

30. Introduction to X = X 入門 / 導論

Book/course titles:

> An Introduction to Linguistics

= 《語言學導論 / 入門》

31. introductory chapter = 導論章 / 入門章

J. INTRODUCTORY COURSE / LEVEL

32. introductory = designed for beginners (入門的 ; 初階的) **

Practice 16

> “She took an introductory course in psychology.”

「她修讀了一門心理學入門課程。」

Common:

- * introductory course
- * introductory textbook
- * introductory module
- * introductory class

33. introductory material = 入門材料

Material giving basic first exposure rather than advanced treatment.

34. introductory level = 入門程度

K. INTRODUCTORY REMARKS

35. introductory remarks = opening comments before main discussion (開場白) **

> “After a few introductory remarks, the lecture began.”

「幾句開場白後，講座正式開始。」

36. introductory statement = 開場陳述

Formal opening statement introducing purpose/background.

L. INTRODUCE A PRODUCT / SERVICE

37. introduce a product = make it available to customers for the first time (推出產品) **

Practice 17

> “The company introduced a new model last year.”

「公司去年推出了一款新型號。」

Here introduce ≈ launch, but not perfectly identical.

38. introduce a new service = 推出新服務

> “The bank introduced a new online service.”

「銀行推出新的網上服務。」

39. product introduction = 新產品推出 / 導入

Business/marketing term.

Can refer to the process of bringing a product to market.

40. new-product introduction (NPI) = 新產品導入

An established manufacturing/business process term covering activities required to move a new product toward production/market release.

Details vary by industry.

M. INTRODUCTORY PRICE / OFFER

41. introductory price = initial promotional price (推廣初價 / 優惠價) **

A price offered when a product/service is first introduced.

42. introductory offer = 新客 / 推出初期優惠

> “The service is available at an introductory price.”

「服務推出初期提供優惠價。」

43. introductory rate = 初期優惠利率 / 費率

Common with:

- * subscriptions;
- * credit;
- * services;
- * financial products.

The rate may change after the introductory period.

44. introductory period = 優惠 / 初始期

A specified initial period in which special terms apply.

N. INTRODUCE TECHNOLOGY / METHOD

45. introduce a technology/process/method = bring it into practical use (導入) **

Practice 18

> “The factory introduced automated inspection.”

「工廠導入自動檢測。」

Especially natural Chinese:

> 導入技術 / 系統

46. technology introduction = 技術導入

Process of adopting new technology.

47. introduce automation = 引入自動化

O. INTRODUCE X INTO Y

48. introduce X into Y = cause X to enter/become part of Y (把 X 引入 Y) **

A highly productive formal/scientific construction.

Practice 19

> “The change introduced additional complexity into the system.”

「這項改動令系統增加 / 引入了額外複雜性。」

49. introduce an element into a system = 加入一個元素

> “The new rule introduces uncertainty into the process.”

「新規則為程序帶來 / 引入不確定性。」

This can be abstract.

50. introduce air/liquid/material into something = 將.....導入

Physical/technical:

> “Air is introduced into the chamber.”

「空氣被導入腔室。」

51. introduce impurities/contaminants = 把雜質 / 污染物帶入

> “Poor handling may introduce contaminants into the sample.”

「處理不當可能把污染物帶入樣本。」

P. SCIENCE / LABORATORY USE

52. introduce a substance into a reaction/system (把物質加入系統) **

Formal scientific usage.

> “The reagent was introduced slowly.”

「試劑被緩慢加入 / 導入。」

53. introduce an error/bias = cause it to enter a process (引入誤差 / 偏差) **

A very important academic/scientific construction.

Practice 20

> “Poor sampling can introduce bias.”

「抽樣不當可能引入偏差。」

54. introduce uncertainty = 增加 / 引入不確定性

55. introduce variation/noise = 引入變異 / 雜訊

Technical/statistical/computing use.

Q. ECOLOGY / BIOLOGY

56. introduce a species = bring a species to an area where it did not previously occur naturally (引入物種) **

Practice 21

> “The species was introduced to the island.”

「這個物種被引入該島。」

Introduction may be:

* deliberate;

* accidental.

57. introduced species = 外來 / 引入物種

A species occurring outside its native range because of human activity, deliberately or accidentally, depending on ecological terminology.

Important:

> introduced species ≠ automatically invasive species

58. invasive species vs introduced species

introduced/non-native species

present outside native range due to introduction.

invasive species

an introduced/non-native species that spreads and causes specified ecological/economic/other harm under the relevant definition.

Not every introduced species is invasive.

59. species introduction = 物種引入

Process/event of introducing a species.

R. REINTRODUCTION — CONSERVATION

60. *reintroduce a species = return it to an area where it formerly occurred (重新引入) ****

Practice 22

> “The programme aims to reintroduce the species to its former range.”

「計劃旨在把該物種*重新引入*其昔日分布區。」

61. reintroduction = 重新引入 / 野放復育

In conservation biology, reintroduction broadly involves deliberately releasing/establishing a species again in part of its former range.

Exact conservation terminology can distinguish this from other translocations.

62. reintroduction programme = 物種重新引入計劃

S. DISEASE / PATHOGEN INTRODUCTION

63. introduce a pathogen into a population/environment = 病原體傳入

Technical epidemiological/biological wording.

> “Movement of infected animals may introduce the pathogen into a new area.”

「受感染動物的移動可能令病原體傳入新的地區。」

64. introduction of infection/disease = disease entering a population

Formal epidemiological usage.

This describes entry, not necessarily subsequent large-scale spread.

T. MEDICINE — INSERT / BRING INTO THE BODY

65. introduce an instrument/tube/needle into the body = 導入 / 插入

Formal medical/procedural language.

Practice 23

> “A catheter is introduced into the vessel.”

「導管被置入 / 插入血管。」

In normal clinical language, more specific verbs such as:

* insert

* place

* advance

may be preferred.

66. introducer = device facilitating insertion of another medical device (導入器) **

A genuine specialist noun.

Examples:

* catheter introducer
* sheath introducer
* vascular introducer

*繁體中文：  導入器 / 導引鞘 depending on device.

67. introducer sheath = 導入鞘 / 導管鞘

A sheath used to facilitate vascular/device access.

Specialist medicine.

U. LAW — INTRODUCE EVIDENCE

68. *introduce evidence = formally present evidence for consideration (提出證據) ****

Especially common in American legal English.

Practice 24

> “The prosecution introduced the document into evidence.”

「控方正式把該文件*提交為證據*。」

69. introduce something into evidence = 將某物正式提交為證據

A legal construction.

Exact rules for admissibility vary by jurisdiction.

70. introduction of evidence = 證據的提出 / 提交

V. MEETINGS / DISCUSSION

71. *introduce a motion/proposal = formally bring it forward for consideration (提出動議 / 建

議) **

Practice 25

> “She introduced a motion to change the procedure.”

「她正式提出動議修改程序。」

72. introduce an item/topic = 把議題提出供討論

> “The chair introduced the next item on the agenda.”

「主席引入 / 提出議程上的下一項。」

W. SOCIAL INTRODUCTION — NOUN

73. introduction = act of making people acquainted (介紹) **

Practice 26

> “Thanks for the introduction.”

「謝謝你的介紹。」

74. make an introduction = introduce people

> “Could you make the introduction?”

「你可以替我們介紹認識嗎？」

75. formal introduction = 正式介紹

76. personal introduction = 個人介紹

Context can mean either:

- * one person introducing another;
- * self-introduction.

X. LETTER OF INTRODUCTION

77. letter of introduction = letter presenting/recommending someone to another person (介紹信) **

Traditionally used to introduce a person professionally/socially.

Not identical to:

> reference letter / recommendation letter.

A letter of introduction mainly establishes the connection and explains who the person is.

Y. INTRODUCTION = FIRST EXPERIENCE

78. an introduction to something = first encounter/basic exposure (初次接觸；入門) **

Practice 27

> “The course was my first introduction to philosophy.”

「這門課是我第一次接觸哲學。」

79. serve as an introduction to = 作為.....的入門

> “This chapter serves as an introduction to the topic.”

「這一章可作為這個主題的入門介紹。」

Z. INTRODUCTION = ARRIVAL/CREATION OF SOMETHING NEW

80. the introduction of X = the act of bringing X into use/existence (引入；推出) **

Practice 28

> “The introduction of online booking reduced waiting times.”

「網上預約的*引入*縮短了等候時間。」

81. introduction of a new policy/system = 新政策 / 制度的引入

Direct noun version of your passage.

82. introduction of technology = 技術導入

83. introduction of a product = 產品推出

AA. MUSIC

84. *introduction / intro = opening section of a piece/song (前奏 ; 引子) ****

Practice 29

> “The song has a long instrumental intro.”

「這首歌有一段很長的器樂*前奏*。」

Intro is informal and extremely common.

85. musical introduction = 音樂引子 / 前奏

Can precede:

* song vocals;

* main theme;

* larger movement.

AB. SPEECH / BROADCASTING

86. intro = opening spoken section (開場介紹) **

> “The presenter recorded a short intro.”

「主持人錄製了一段簡短的開場介紹。」

87. introduce a programme/segment = 主持 / 引介節目或環節

> “She introduced the evening news.”

Depending on context:

「她為晚間新聞作開場介紹。」

AC. FORMAL WRITING: BY WAY OF INTRODUCTION

88. by way of introduction = as preliminary background (作為引言) **

Formal:

> “By way of introduction, let me explain the background.”

「作為開場 / 首先，讓我說明一下背景。」

89. needs no introduction = 無需介紹

Used for a very famous/familiar person or subject.

Practice 30

> “She needs no introduction.”

「她無需多作介紹。」

Meaning:

> the audience already knows who she is.

90. without further introduction?

The idiomatic public-speaking phrase is more often:

> without further ado

or:

> “It is my pleasure to introduce...”

Do not over-generate without further introduction as a fixed idiom.

AD. INTRODUCTORY

91. introductory = serving as an introduction (引言性的 ; 開場的) **

> introductory remarks

> introductory chapter

92. introductory = beginner-level (入門的) **

> introductory chemistry

= 基礎 / 入門化學.

93. introductory = offered initially on special terms (推出初期優惠的) **

> introductory rate

> introductory price

> introductory offer

This is a major commercial extension.

AE. INTRODUCER

94. introducer = person who introduces another person (介紹人) **

A valid but not especially common everyday noun.

> “The introducer briefly described the speaker's background.”

「介紹人簡單講述了講者的背景。」

95. introducer = intermediary who brings a customer/client to a business (轉介 / 介紹者)

Business/finance contexts may use introducer for a person/company referring prospective clients.

Examples:

- * client introducer
- * insurance introducer
- * business introducer

Exact regulatory meaning varies.

96. introducer — medicine

As above:

> insertion device/sheath.

Completely different specialist meaning.

AF. REINTRODUCE

97. reintroduce = bring something back after it stopped/disappeared (重新引入 ; 恢復)

Practice 31

> “The company reintroduced the old service.”

「公司重新推出 / 恢復了舊服務。」

98. reintroduce a rule/policy = 恢復實施

> “The restriction was reintroduced during the busy period.”

「繁忙期間重新實施了限制。」

99. reintroduce a product = 重新推出產品

100. reintroduce someone?

Possible literally:

> “Let me reintroduce myself.”

= after a long time/change/context, introduce oneself again.

Often humorous or rhetorical.

101. Let me reintroduce myself

Can mean:

- * remind you who I am;
- * present a changed/new identity;
- * formally introduce oneself again.

AG. REINTRODUCTION

102. reintroduction = act of bringing something back (重新引入 / 恢復) **

Examples:

- * reintroduction of a service
- * reintroduction of restrictions
- * species reintroduction

AH. HIGH-VALUE GRAMMAR

103. introduce A to B

> introduce Sarah to David

= 把 Sarah 介紹給 David 認識。

104. introduce oneself to someone

> “He introduced himself to the receptionist.”

105. introduce someone as X

> “She introduced him as her adviser.”

106. introduce someone to X — subject/activity

> introduce children to science

= 讓兒童初次接觸科學。

107. introduce + policy/product/topic/system

No preposition:

> introduce a rule

> introduce a product

> introduce a topic

108. introduce X into Y

> introduce air into the chamber > introduce bias into the study

> introduce a new element into the discussion

109. be introduced to + person/subject

> “We were introduced at work.”

> “Students are introduced to basic statistics.”

Same grammar, different semantic branch.

110. introduce X as Y

May apply to:

Person

> introduce her as the new director

Idea/product

less commonly:

> introduce the product as a cheaper alternative

= present/position it as Y.

AI. IMPORTANT DISTINCTIONS

introduce vs implement — policy

This is especially important for your sentence.

introduce

= bring a new policy/system into use.

implement

= put an already decided/planned policy into practical effect.

Sequence may be:

> design policy → introduce policy → implement/enforce it.

In real usage, introduce and implement can overlap.

introduce vs establish establish

= create/set something up on a stable basis.

introduce

= bring it in as something new.

> introduce a new procedure

> establish a permanent procedure

Different emphasis.

introduce vs adopt

introduce

= bring a new system/rule into use.

adopt

= formally choose/accept it.

An organization may:

> adopt a policy

and then:

> introduce/implement it.

introduce vs enact

enact

especially law:

formally make legislation into law.

introduce a bill

put proposed legislation into the legislative process.

So:

> introduce a bill $\neq$ enact a law.

introduce vs propose propose

= suggest something for consideration.

introduce

= bring it formally into consideration or use.

A policy can be proposed but never introduced.

introduce vs launch — product/service

launch

= formally release/promote something publicly.

introduce

= bring it into the market/use.

Very close:

> introduce a new product

> launch a new product

Launch often emphasizes the event/campaign; introduce emphasizes first availability.

introduce vs release

release

= make available, especially:

- * software
- * media
- * product version.

introduce

= broader bringing into use/market.

introduce vs present — person

introduce a speaker

tell the audience who they are.

present a speaker

can mean formally bring them before the audience, but introduce is the normal social verb.

introduce vs meet

introduce

causes two people to become acquainted.

meet

describes the encounter.

> “She introduced us.”

> “We met yesterday.”

introduce vs acquaint

introduce someone to X

give first exposure.

acquaint someone with X

make them familiar with information/situation; more formal.

> introduce students to economics

> acquaint staff with the rules.

introduce vs teach

introduce someone to a topic

give initial exposure.

teach a topic

provide actual instruction.

An introductory lesson may introduce an idea without teaching it in depth.

introduce vs mention

mention

briefly refer to.

introduce

bring a topic/concept into the discussion, often so it can then be developed.

introduce vs raise — issue

raise an issue

bring it up for attention/discussion.

introduce a topic

bring it into the discourse.

Very close; raise often implies a question/problem requiring attention.

introduce vs insert

insert

physically put X into Y.

introduce

more formal/general and can include controlled entry.

> insert a catheter

> introduce a catheter into a vessel

The former is usually more direct in modern clinical language.

introduce vs inject inject

force liquid/gas/substance into something, especially with pressure/syringe.

introduce

simply means bring/add into.

All injections introduce material, but not all introduction is injection.

introduce vs add

add

put something extra with existing material.

introduce

can emphasize bringing a new element into a system, sometimes with consequences.

> add salt
> introduce bias.

introduce vs import — species

import

bring goods/organisms across borders, emphasizing movement/trade.

introduce a species

cause the species to establish/present in a non-native area.

Not identical.

introduced species vs invasive species

Again essential:

> introduced = human-mediated presence outside native range
> invasive = introduced species that spreads and produces specified harmful impacts.

Do not automatically equate them.

introduction vs preface

introduction

begins the subject itself and explains context/content.

preface

author's preliminary remarks about why/how the work was written.

Books may contain both.

introduction vs foreword

foreword

usually preliminary remarks often written by someone other than the main author.

introduction

normally begins explaining the subject/content.

introduction vs abstract

abstract

brief summary of a research work.

introduction

establishes background, problem, purpose, etc.

Not interchangeable.

introductory vs elementary

introductory

designed to introduce a subject.

elementary

basic/simple/fundamental.

An introductory university course can still contain difficult material.

introductory vs preliminary

introductory

introduces subject/person/product.

preliminary

comes before the main activity and prepares for it.

- > introductory lecture
- > preliminary investigation

AJ. COUNTABILITY

introduction — social act

Countable:

- > an introduction
- > several introductions

introduction — opening section

Countable:

- > an introduction to the book.

introduction — act/process of bringing something new

Often singular/mass-like:

- > the introduction of a new system.

Can still be countable when discussing multiple introductions.

intro

Countable:

- > a short intro
- > several intros

introducer

Countable:

> an introducer

> introducer sheaths

AK. FAMILY MAP

Family member	Main modern meanings
-----	-----
introduce — policy/system	bring something new into use
introduce — social	make people acquainted
introduce oneself	tell others one's identity/name
introduce someone as X	present their role/identity
introduce someone to a subject	give first exposure/familiarity
introduce a topic/concept	bring it into discussion or teaching
introduce a product/service	make it available for the first time
introduce X into Y	bring/add an element into a system/place/body
introduce — legal	formally present a bill, motion, or evidence
introduce — ecology	bring a species to a non-native area
introduction	act of introducing; opening section; first exposure; bringing something new into use
introductory	beginner-level; opening; initial promotional
intro	informal opening/introduction
introducer	person making an introduction; intermediary; medical insertion device
reintroduce	bring back something previously removed/discontinued/absent
reintroduction	process of bringing back; important conservation sense

Master comparison

Form / sense	MCQ-ready Traditional Chinese meaning
-----	-----
introduce a policy/rule	把新的政策 / 規則正式帶入現有制度並開始採用
introduce measures	推出新的措施

introduce a system	開始使用一套新制度 / 系統
introduce changes	引入 / 實施新的改動
introduce a bill	把法案正式提交立法程序審議
introduce legislation	提出 / 引入新的立法
introduce A to B	把兩人介紹給彼此認識
introduce oneself	向別人說明自己的姓名 / 身分 ; 自我介紹
introduce someone as X	以某職位 / 身分介紹某人
introduce a speaker	向觀眾介紹即將發言的人
introduce someone to a subject	讓某人初次接觸 / 認識一個主題
introduce a topic/concept	首次把某議題 / 概念帶入課堂、文章或討論
introduction — essay/report	文章開始時交代背景、目的、主題的引言
an introduction to X	某學科 / 主題的基本入門內容
introductory course	為初學者設計的入門課程
introductory remarks	正式內容前的開場白
introduce a product/service	第一次把產品 / 服務推出市場供人使用
introductory price/rate	產品 / 服務推出初期提供的優惠價 / 費率
new-product introduction	把新產品由開發推進至製造 / 上市的導入過程
introduce X into Y	把某元素、物質、因素帶入另一系統 / 環境
introduce bias/error	使研究 / 系統產生原本沒有的偏差 / 誤差
introduce contaminants	把污染物帶入樣本 / 系統
introduce a species	透過人類活動把物種帶到其原生分布以外地區
introduced species	因人類活動而出現在非原生地區的引入 / 外來物種
reintroduce a species	把物種重新放回其過去曾自然分布的地區
introduce a pathogen	令病原體首次傳入某個環境 / 群體
introduce a catheter/instrument	將導管 / 器械導入或置入身體部位 ; 正式醫療用語
introducer sheath	協助導管等進入血管的導入鞘
introduce evidence	在法律程序中正式提出 / 提交證據
introduce a motion	正式提出一項動議供考慮
letter of introduction	向第三者介紹某人的介紹信
intro — music	歌曲 / 樂曲主體前的前奏 / 引子
needs no introduction	某人 / 事太著名，不需要再作介紹
reintroduce a service/product	把已停止 / 撤出的服務或產品重新推出
introduction of a new system	新制度 / 系統開始被採用的引入過程

For your original sentence

> “Restaurant chains can introduce clearer seating policies ...”

The exact meaning is:

*introduce = 餐廳以前沒有這麼清楚的規則，現在正式把新的座位使用規定加入日常營運中並開始採用。 ******

For example, such policies might specify:

- * whether long stays are permitted;
- * time limits during busy periods;
- * minimum purchasing expectations;
- * restrictions on group tutoring;
- * rules for occupying multiple tables.

The sentence does not necessarily imply that a policy already exists and is merely being enforced more strictly.

That would be closer to:

- > enforce an existing policy
- > = 加強執行現有政策。

Here the wording is:

- > introduce a policy
- > = *把一項新政策帶入制度並開始實行。 ****

For the core database, I would keep 8 major base-verb branches:

1. bring a new rule, policy, system, practice, or measure into use
2. make two people acquainted
3. present oneself or another person formally
4. give someone their first exposure to a subject/activity
5. bring a topic, idea, or concept into discussion/writing
6. bring a new product/service to market
7. bring/add something into a system, environment, body, or process
8. formally submit/present something in a specialist setting—bill, motion, evidence

Then the whole family should separately index introduction, introductory, intro, introducer, reintroduce, reintroduction, especially the established branches introductory course/offer, product introduction, introduced species, species reintroduction, and medical introducer devices.