

Absolutely — post is an excellent Tier 1 polysemy target because your passage uses it here:

> “At 10:58 p.m. on a perfectly ordinary Tuesday, I posted a 45-second video...”

and later:

> “A single successful post ...”

In the passage, post belongs to social media: as a verb, it means upload/publish content online; as a noun, it means a piece of content published on a social-media platform. But post also has several major meanings in mail, jobs, physical poles, military positions, accounting, and movement/assignment.

Word family: post / posting / postal / postage

Base word: post

Part of speech: verb (動詞) / noun (名詞)

Related adjective: postal

> “Keep me posted on what happens.”

「有任何進展都要隨時通知我。」

Practice 35

> “I’ll keep you posted about the results.”

「有結果後我會隨時告訴你最新情況。」

keep someone posted = 持續向某人提供最新消息 / 進展

Not related to mail in modern everyday interpretation.

18. post- = after —之後的 ; 後.....

Important: this is a prefix, not the same lexical word post, but it is highly visible and worth distinguishing.

Examples:

- * post-war
- * post-exam
- * post-production
- * postgraduate

Practice 36

> “The country faced major problems in the post-war period.”

「這個國家在戰後時期面對重大問題。」

Practice 37

> “We discussed our plans for the post-exam period.”

「我們討論了考試後的計劃。」

post- = 在某件事 / 某時期之後

Keep this separate from the noun/verb post.

19. postal = relating to mail — 郵政的

Practice 38

> “The postal service was delayed.”

「郵政服務出現延誤。」

Practice 39

postal = 與郵件、郵政系統有關的

20. postage = cost of sending by mail — 郵費

Practice 40

> “The price includes postage.”

「價格已包括郵費。」

Practice 41

> “How much is the postage to Canada?”

「寄往加拿大的郵費是多少？」

postage = 使用郵政寄送物件所需支付的費用

Important distinction: post — online noun vs online verb

Verb:

> “I posted a video.”

= 我發佈了一段影片。

Noun:

> “The post went viral.”

= 那篇貼文爆紅了。

Same social-media family, different grammar.

Important distinction: post vs upload

upload

= technically transfer a file/data to an online system.

post

= make content publicly or semi-publicly visible on a platform.

You can:

> upload a video privately without:

> posting it publicly

So post has a publication/social visibility component.

Important distinction: post vs publish publish

= make content formally/publicly available, often books, articles, research.

post

= usually quicker/informal, especially online.

> publish an article

> = 正式發表文章 > post a comment

> = 發佈留言

Important distinction: post vs share

post

= create/publish content on a platform.

share

= distribute existing content to other people/audience.

> post a video

> = 發佈影片 > share someone else's video

> = 分享別人的影片

Important distinction: post vs comment

post

= main published item/content.

comment

= response beneath/attached to content.

> social-media post

> = 貼文

> comment on the post

> = 貼文下面的留言

Very relevant to your passage.

Important distinction: post vs mail

BrE:

> post = 郵政 / 郵件

AmE:

> mail = more common

Examples:

> send by post — BrE

> send by mail — AmE

But the social-media sense post is common in both.

Important distinction: post — job vs position

post

= formal job role.

position

= broader and neutral.

> government post

> = 政府職位 > job position

> = 工作職位

Post often sounds more institutional/formal.

Important distinction: post — job vs posting

post

= the position itself.

posting

= assignment to a particular place.

> diplomatic post

> = 外交職位 > overseas posting

> = 海外派駐

Important distinction: post — pole vs position

Physical:

> fence post

> = 籬笆柱

Job:

> senior post

> = 高級職位

Completely different lexical senses.

Important distinction: post — mail vs online

Mail:

> “I posted a letter.”

= 我寄出了一封信。

Online:

> “I posted a video.”

= 我發佈了一段影片。

Excellent MCQ contrast because the grammar is identical.

Important distinction: post — noticeboard vs social media

These senses are historically/semantically related:

> post a notice on a wall

> → 公開張貼通知

> post a message online

> → 在網上公開發佈訊息

Same broader concept:

> put something where others can see it

So they should be connected rather than over-split conceptually.

Important distinction: post — accounting

does not mean:

* mailed

* uploaded socially

* assigned to a job

It means:

> the transaction was officially entered into an account

Strong business-English trap.

Important distinction: post figures/results

> “The company posted a profit.”

means:

> 公司錄得 / 公布盈利

Not:

> 公司「貼出了」盈利

Natural Chinese must shift with context.

Family-extension sweep

After the full audit, the useful modern inventory includes:

* post — online verb = 發佈 / 上載
* post — online noun = 貼文 / 帖子
* post — mail noun = 郵政 / 郵件
* post — mail verb = 郵寄
* post — job = 職位 * post — duty position = 崗位
* post — military = 哨所 / 駐地
* post — physical pole = 柱 / 桿 / 樁
* post someone to X = 派駐 / 派任
* posting = 派駐 / 任職安排
* post a notice = 張貼 / 公布
* post information/results = 公布 / 發布
* post — accounting = 入帳 / 記入帳目 * post figures/results = 錄得 / 公布數字
* post guards = 安排駐守
* keep someone posted = 隨時通知最新情況
* postal = 郵政的
* postage = 郵費 * post- =之後的
