

Absolutely — street is a useful secondary polysemy target because your passage uses it here:

> “The aroma of freshly baked bread was drifting out onto the street...”

Here street means a public road in a town or city, usually with buildings along it. But the word also has important extensions involving the people/public life of a street, finance, informal culture, homelessness, and compounds such as street food / street art / street value.

Word family: street

Base word: street

Part of speech: noun (名詞) / attributive noun (名詞作前置修飾語)

Meaning in your passage: street = public road in a town/city — 街道；街上

Your sentence:

> “The aroma of freshly baked bread was drifting out onto the street...”

Here street means:

> a public road in a built-up area, usually lined with buildings and used by pedestrians and vehicles.

繁體中文：

城鎮或城市中兩旁通常有建築物、供行人和車輛通行的道路；街道

Natural translation:

> “The aroma ... was drifting out onto the street.”

「新鮮出爐麵包的香氣飄到街上。」

So here:

> street = 麵包店外面的街道 / 街上

1. street = road in a town/city — 街道；街

The core literal meaning.

「警方估算了這批毒品的街頭市值 / 非法市場價值。」

Practice 19

> “The stolen goods had a high street value.”

「那些贓物在非法市場上的街頭價值很高。」 street value = 某物在非正式 / 非法市場上的實際售價

This is usually used in:

- * police reports
- * crime/news contexts

10. on the streets = 無家可歸；流落街頭

A major fixed expression.

Practice 20

> “He was living on the streets.”

「他當時流落街頭 / 無家可歸。」

Practice 21

> “The charity helps people who sleep on the streets.”

「這個慈善機構幫助露宿街頭的人。」

on the streets = 沒有固定住所，在街上生活 / 睡覺

This is not simply literal “在街道上走”。

11. street = neighbourhood/local area in collective sense — 街坊；一整條街的人

A metonymic use.

Practice 22

> “The whole street knew about the new bakery.”

「整條街的街坊都知道那間新麵包店。」

Practice 23

> “The street came together for the festival.”

「整條街的居民一起參與節慶。」 street = 住在同一條街上的居民群體

This is contextual rather than a radically separate meaning.

A practical location use.

Practice 24

> “The bakery is on King Street.”

「麵包店位於 King Street / 街。」

Practice 25

> “Write the street name clearly on the form.”

「在表格上清楚寫上街名。」

Street = 地址中的道路類型名稱

Capitalized when part of a proper street name:

> Queen Street

Important distinction: street vs road

street

usually:

- * in a built-up area
- * often with buildings, shops, houses road broader:

any route for vehicles, including between towns.

> busy city street > = 繁忙城市街道 > country road > = 鄉間道路

They overlap, but road is broader geographically.

Important distinction: street vs avenue

street

general urban road.

often a broad urban road, sometimes tree-lined or major.

Exact naming conventions differ by city.

So:

> avenue is a kind of street/road name, but not semantically identical everywhere.

Important distinction: street vs lane

street

normal urban road.

lane

usually narrower/smaller.

> main street

> = 主要街道 > narrow lane

> = 狹窄小巷 / 巷道

Important distinction: street vs alley

You already have alley mapped.

street

open public road, usually wider.

alley

narrow passage between/behind buildings.

> street

> = 街道

> alley

> = 小巷

Important distinction: street vs pavement/sidewalk

street

whole road/public thoroughfare.

pavement / sidewalk

pedestrian path beside the road.

> walk along the street

> = 沿街走

> walk on the pavement

> = 在行人路上走

Important distinction: street vs neighbourhood

street

specific road.

neighbourhood larger surrounding local area.

> bakery on this street

> = 這條街上的麵包店 > neighbourhood bakery

> = 社區麵包店

A neighbourhood contains many streets.

Important distinction: street — physical vs street culture

Physical:

> “The bakery is on the street.”

= 麵包店在街上。

Cultural:

> “street fashion”

= 街頭時尚

Here street no longer means one particular road; it evokes informal urban culture.

Important distinction: street vs the Street in finance

Lowercase:

> street

> = 街道

Capitalized/contextual:

> Wall Street / the Street

> = 華爾街 / 金融界

Completely different domain.

Important distinction: in the street vs on the street

This varies by dialect and context.

BrE:

> in the street

> often natural for physically being in the street

AmE:

> on the street

> very common

But:

> on the streets

> can additionally mean:

> 無家可歸 / 流落街頭

So context matters.

Important distinction: on the street vs on the streets

on the street

can simply mean:

> 在街上

on the streets

often:

> 流落街頭 / 無家可歸

Example:

> “I saw him on the street.”

> = 我在街上看見他。

> “He has been living on the streets.”

> = 他一直流落街頭。

Excellent MCQ contrast.

Important distinction: street food vs restaurant food street food

= sold in stalls/public spaces, usually informal and ready-to-eat.

restaurant food

= prepared/served in a restaurant setting.

The distinction is about selling/service context, not quality.

Family/compound sweep

After the full audit, the useful modern inventory includes:

* street — physical road = 街道 / 街

* street — public outdoor space = 街上 / 街頭

* street — ordinary public life = 民間 / 街頭大眾 * street culture = 街頭文化

* street food = 街頭小食

* street art = 街頭藝術 * street photography = 街頭攝影

* the Street / Wall Street = 金融界 / 華爾街

* street value = 街頭 / 非法市場價值

* on the streets = 流落街頭 / 無家可歸

* street — residents collectively = 整條街的居民 / 街坊

* Street — address element = 街 / 街名
